LED BY GIRL

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Subj. killed his brother, Henry D. Rider of Howell, Mich., made damaging admissions today, according to Capt. Tate of the detective bureau. The girl admitted that she and three men companions had motored from this city and were at Alston, N. J., at the time of the shooting. She admitted she had several shots after his daughter and another man, and

SUPT. WELCH MUST NOW
GET AFTER DRUNKS

Mayor James E. O'Donnell's letter to Police Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department published in the Sun, yesterday, relative to law enforcement in Lowell, has stirred up a real live discussion.

Mayor O'Donnell has put the matter of increased drunkenness squarely up to Supt. Welch. There was a time when Supt. Welch said his hands were tied on the enforcement of the liquor laws. Judging from the very plain and candid letter addressed by His Honor the mayor, to the superintendent of police, the latter cannot offer any such excuse for the increase in drunkenness and other violations of the liquor law which proper police vigilance should prevent.

In reference to the drunkenness referred to by His Honor, the mayor, and made the subject of sermons in church pulpits, it appears that the complaint is based upon the unusual number of intoxicated persons seen on the streets rather than any increase in the number haled into court.

It is true that the records of police court show a greater number of arrests thus far this year than for the corresponding months last year; but in spite of this it seems that a very large proportion of the drunks escape arrest. Thus the saturnalia proceeds, although Supt. Welch is authorized, in-

SMALL IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON

MOUNTAINVIEW, N. H., Oct. 6.—Frederic L. Small, formerly a Boston stock broker, was held for the grand jury on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Florence A. Small, after a preliminary hearing in the district court today.

The ruling by Judge Charles S. Miles followed immediately the conclusion of the prosecution's closing arguments, which were made by Attorney General James W. Tuttle. "This man had the motive, he had the apparent means, he is such a man as would commit the crime, he is the man who did commit this crime," the prosecutor asserted in closing.

No Witnesses For Defense

The defense had introduced no witnesses but William S. Matthews, junior counsel for Small, argued at length against holding the prisoner for grand jury inquiry. He set up the probability of the act being that of a man seeking liquor, and called attention to the testimony of Fred B. Dean, a guide, that he did not remember where he was during the day or night of Sept. 28, the date of Mrs. Small's death.

Dean had admitted, he said, that he had been drinking that day. Addressing the court counsel asked: "What do you think of the evidence of a man who does not remember his whereabouts on that day or night and who did not know how he received the scratch on his face? I do not accuse Mr. Dean of the crime but it might be used as a parallel case."

The crime, in the opinion of counsel, must have been committed by a local man. The hearing held here, he said, offered the court an opportunity to "search out the real criminal and bring him to justice."

Counsel contended that the fact that Small would receive $20,000 insurance money through his wife's death should not be held against him. "That was only reasonable protection," he said. He asserted that the defendant's every movement, so far as related to witnesses, were those of a normal man, unmannered by any unusual act. "His feeling was one of real grief," counsel said.

"Mr. Small is a man of honor and intelligence," he argued. "The intelligence would have bought kerosene oil at 11 o'clock in the morning for the purpose of firing his home."

Says Small Had Motive
Attorney General Tuttle, asserting that there was motive for the crime in the $20,000 insurance policy and $3000 insurance on the house, said everyone was satisfied that whoever committed the murder set the fire which might destroy its traces. The inventory of furnishings found in Small's handbag, he argued, showed prior knowledge of the fire by the defendant.

"If he knew there was going to be a fire, he also knew there had been a murder," the attorney general said.

The cause of death, he continued, was strangulation by a cord which testimony showed to have been part of the equipment of Small's motorboat. As a theory regarding the start of the fire, the prosecutor suggested that a candle, placed in a block of wood with a quantity of kerosene to float it, might cause a raging, quick fire such as that which destroyed the Small home. He called attention to the purchase of kerosene by Small on the morning of the day his wife was killed and to the apparent fact that the candle had been emptied when it was found in the ruins.

Small's words: "Oh, God! my wife is dead; I am alone in the world," proclaimed his guilt, according to the contention of the attorney general.

Small was removed to the Ossipee jail pending the action of the grand jury which meets in December. He was quite composed, although he had wept several times during the proceedings.

INSPECTION OF ELEVATORS

Elevator Inspector Frank Cogger has been making an inspection of some down town elevators and reports that he found several of them in bad condition, so bad, in fact, that some of them will have to be partially reconstructed. It seems that in former years the elevator inspector paid particular attention to elevators in mills and other places of manufacture, and Mr. Cogger has determined to inspect elevators in stores and other places throughout the city. He realizes that he has some job on his hands but in view of what he has already found he deems it absolutely necessary that a general inspection should be made.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Mary Gambol, of 5 Webster street, was taken in the ambulance to the Lowell hospital this afternoon suffering from an injury to her right hand sustained while at work in the Tremont & Suffolk mills. The young woman caught her hand in a machine.

ANOTHER CASE OF CHILD PLAQUE REPORTED TO HEALTH BOARD

The twelfth case of infantile paralysis in Lowell since the disease became generally epidemic in July, and the fourteenth case since the beginning of the year, was reported at the office of the board of health today. The patient is Miss Bernice E. Keen of 15 Fairfax street. She is 15 years old and she is older than any of the others whose cases have been reported this year. The next oldest was a girl of 13.

The Keen girl, it was stated at the board of health office, has been sick since Oct. 2 and it is understood that here is a very severe case. She is now at the Lowell hospital.

The case was reported by Dr. William I. Wiggin who was called in last evening to see her. Dr. Wiggin gave as his opinion that the case was one of infantile paralysis and his diagnosis was confirmed this morning by Dr. Charles E. Simpson of the state board of health.

The girl's parents are dead and she lives with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Mor-

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND
SAFE, SAYS REDMOND

WATERFORD, Ireland, Oct. 6.—In a notable address to his constituents here this afternoon John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader in parliament, declared that despite the recent rebellion, "with all its inevitable aftermath of brutalities, stupidities and infamous passions," home rule for Ireland is safe, if Ireland remains sane.

Mr. Redmond also declared that conscription could never be forced upon Ireland, adding: "I cannot bring myself to believe that, malign though the influence at work are, the government will be so foolish as to challenge a conflict with Ireland on this subject. Conscription for Ireland, far from helping the army and the war, would be the most fatal thing that could happen." It would be resisted in every village in Ireland. Its attempted enforcement would be a scandal which would ring around the world. It would produce no additional men.

Continuing Mr. Redmond said: "The more threat is paralyzing recruiting, which, mark you, is not dead as some people say. The latest figures, indeed, show that from the date of the rising, (Easter Sunday), until September, 6000 recruits were received. "This demand for conscription is not a genuine military demand. It is a base political device put forward by men who want to injure and discredit Ireland's political future."

DEATHS

ROSS—Thomas H. Ross, an old and esteemed resident, died this morning at the home of his son, Edward J. Ross, 537 Fletcher street. He leaves three sons, John E., Edward J. and Thomas H. Ross; one daughter, Mrs. Albert Greene, and a niece, Mrs. Josephine Barber of New York city. The young proprietor scheme would be tried out on one line but present indications show that it will be installed on several lines. Although the exact lines have not yet been definitely decided upon, it is understood the Highland-High street, the Andover street and Broadway and the Westford street lines will be included.

Prepayment cars will be new to Lowell but Lowell but Lowell people have become accustomed to them traveling in other cities. The principal point is to have your ticket ready upon entering the car. The conductor will be ready to change any piece of silver or bill.

INAUGURATION OF NEW
DARTMOUTH PRESIDENT

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 6.—Ernest Martin Hopkins, inaugurated as the eleventh president of Dartmouth college with formal exercises today, took occasion to express views concerning changing conditions in the colleges of the country.

The trend that had turned college men in greater numbers from the professions to business and industry, which he himself less a month ago to assume the professional duties of college executive, was a principal subject of his address. "In training for leadership the influence of the college in years past, unconsciously perhaps, has been to set college men apart in the communities in which they lived," he said. "The requirement now is emphatically the reverse. The change has been wrought very quickly, that the men now going into the professions from our colleges are far outnumbered by those seeking the newer career.

"We have seen people specialized so completely in recent years on claiming rights that our senses of obligation and responsibility have become atrophied. Authority has been weakened not only in state and church, but in home and school, until it commands less respect even than obedience. And all this some how, in the conviction that the first step toward the philosophy of rights, and claims to opportunities which have not been earned offer too little compensation in constructive accomplishment for what society is called upon to sacrifice in the character of the individuals who compose it, through being so little called upon to acknowledge any authority of any kind whatsoever."

"College," President Hopkins said, "is means to an end. The end, in his opinion, is constructive idealism interpreted in terms of service. A particular form of service, he continued, is so vitally essential today as high-minded conservatism to the needs of the state. "Development of our national life has been shown to be far short of the standard to which it was supposed to have attained, and in many of our attributes we have been proved more a group of people than a nation."

"Upon the colleges now rests a responsibility that there shall be sensitive to the new note which is beginning to sound in our national affairs as parochialism becomes less and less characteristic, and as we come to recognize our inevitable responsibility among the nations of the earth."

"A wide and rapidly increasing seriousness is abroad in the earth," President Hopkins said, "to the effect of which we as a nation must respond. It seems probable that the first point at which we shall be called upon to define our attitude is on the contention that all education, to be worth while, must be made more utilitarian. Evidence abounds that the national tendencies in great nations are in the direction of a educational system of pure utility."

Subsequently, President Hopkins stated that: "The college cannot be inherently either radical or conservative, for the same principle which impels it to pull back from one extreme today will tomorrow lead it to endeavor to correct the oversteering of the reaction."

The alumni movement to further the interests of the colleges and the country was endorsed by the president.

"The growing practice of retiring men from active work at ages from 50 to 70," he continued, "and the not infrequent tragedy of the man who has no resources for interesting himself outside the routine of which he has been relieved, makes it seem that the college has no less an opportunity to be of service to its men in their old age than in their youth. If only it can establish the procedure by which it can periodically throughout their lives give them opportunity to replenish their intellectual reserves. It is possible that something in the way of courses of lectures by certain recognized leaders of the world's thought made available for alumni and friends of the college during a brief period immediately following the commencement season, would, in this direction or it may be that some other device would more completely realize the possibilities. It at least seems clear that the formal educational contacts between the college and its graduates should not stop at the end of four years, never in any form to be renewed."

Dr. Ernest Fox Nichols, who resigned as president of the college, passed on to the new executive a silver punch bowl which had been handed down from the founder of the college, Rev. Eleazar Wheelock. In behalf of undergraduate body, T. L. Cotton of Hanover, president of the senior class, gave to the new president an oath of allegiance. The salutation of the state was extended by Gov. Spaulding, who emphasized the fact that President Hopkins was a native of the state.

The induction into office of the new president was conducted by Rev. Francis Brown, president of Union college, who is also a Dartmouth college trustee.

New England colleges extended their greetings through President Alexander Melikjohn of Amherst.

World's Series Megaphone Service

To lessen the obstruction of traffic through Merrimack square and also to avoid the confusion caused by two megaphones shouting the same thing to the same crowd, The Sun and the Courier-Citizen have agreed to alternate in giving the megaphone reports of the World's Series games to the public at Merrimack Square, beginning Saturday, Oct. 7 and ending with the series. This, it is believed, will be more satisfactory to the public as in the past each megaphone has interfered with the other to such an extent that very often the people could not tell what either said. Moreover the crowd by this means will face in one direction and can be more easily arranged so as not to obstruct the passage of the cars and other vehicles.

The schedule arranged by mutual agreement between the two papers is as follows:

Saturday, Oct. 7, Courier-Citizen, Merrimack Sq.	Wednesday, Oct. 11, Lowell Sun, Merrimack Sq.
Sunday, Oct. 8, Lowell Sun, Merrimack Sq.	Thursday, Oct. 12, Courier-Citizen, Paige St. (To free Merrimack Square for paraders.)
Tuesday, Oct. 10, Courier-Citizen, Merrimack Sq.	Friday, Oct. 13, Lowell Sun, Merrimack Sq.

MANY LOWELL PEOPLE AT THE BROCKTON FAIR

Yesterday was called Boston day at the Brockton fair, but Lowell and other cities were well represented. The day was such an ideal one for motoring that persons with automobiles took advantage of the weather. A great many more went by trolley and it seemed that whatever side or corner of the fair grounds one visited one was sure to meet somebody from Lowell. The official figures gave the attendance at over 60,000.

It seemed as if the stream of humanity would never stop flowing through the gates. The ticket sellers were kept on the move and were relayed from time to time. Long before the noon hour the street car and jitney traffic was so heavy that hundreds walked a mile and a half to the fair grounds, being unable to secure transportation at any cost.

All the streets within a half-mile of the fair grounds were packed with autos soon after 10 o'clock so that progress was slow. For this reason the stands were moved to the side of the stock departments, the exhibition hall and the midway before taking their seats for the track and horse show events.

Soon after noon, however, the big grand stand began to fill and within an hour there was not a seat left. The ticket offices were closed, every one of the 12,000 seats having been sold.

The midway, even with the grand stand filled was so congested that it took nearly an hour to traverse the half-mile of side show attractions which lined both sides of the roadway.

Cream of Amateur Athletes

The cream of the amateur athletes of New England competed for the prizes offered for the field and track games at Robinson field. One record was broken, Harry Barwise, Boston A.A., bettering his record, made last year, of 6 feet by half an inch. Competition was keen in most of the events particularly in the 100-yard dash for the Plymouth county championship.

This event was won by Roger S. Fitch of Bridgewater, but the finish was so close that it was several minutes before the judges made the decision. Ernest J. Carver of this city, who won the event three years ago and who finished third the past two years, was right even with Fitch all the way. George Kullman, another Brockton flyer, was third.

J. W. O'Brien of Brockton won the 880-yard run for the Plymouth county championship in a pretty race with James W. Durkin of Middleboro. Ralph Robinson of this city was third. John C. Goldthwaite of Canton, who won the 100-yard handicap last year, repeated. James Henigan of Malden won the three-mile run from the 400-yard mark. Harold E. Weeks of Boston scratch, gave him a stiff battle all the way.

The Brockton high school won the school relay race, and Boston Y.M.C.A. won the team race for Y.M.C.A. teams.

Boston A.A. won the hammer for scoring the most points, totaling 18; the Irish-American A.A. of Boston was second with 12 points, and Boston Y.M.C.A. third with eight points. William A. Sullivan of Lawrence won eight points and took the individual prize. The 440 yard, mile, was won by John McElvaine of Bridgewater with J. Herley of Lowell a close second. Time, 15 1-5.

Two Balloon Ascensions

There were two balloon ascensions yesterday, the first one by Eugene L. Ross of Rutland, Vt., and the second by George P. Ruppert, the Brockton shoe operative, who made his first ascension yesterday.

Ross went up about 2000 feet, cutting loose quickly as the wind was driving the big gas bag westward. The center of the city was landed easily in the yard of ex-Gov. William L. Douglas on West Elm street.

Ruppert went up late in the afternoon and cut away at a height of 2000 feet. Singularly he landed in almost the same spot that Ross did, in the yard of Eugene P. O'Neill, across the street from the home of ex-Gov. Douglas.

Stirling Harness Racing

The track program was featured by some of the best racing in years, particularly in the 2:05 class, pacing event, in which B. M. driven cleverly by Small, not only went the three fastest heats ever raced on the track since the fair opened 31 years ago, but the three fastest paced since 1885, when Prince Albert, 2:05, went three heats in 2:07, 2:06 1/2, and 2:06 1/2.

B. M. was very close to this record with successive heats in 2:09 1/2, 2:08 1/2, and 2:07 1/2.

The 3-year-old class, trotting futurity, for a purse of $2500, was won by Binworth, a son of Binogen. Binworth took a record of 2:09 1-4 at the Grand Circuit races at Syracuse and today had an easy time winning in straight heats.

Chester Lasell won second money with Setzer girl, one of his breeding. Chits owned by the late Frank Lang of Boston, Vt., well driven by A. J. Furbush of Boston, prominent in the Metropolitan Driving club, won the 2:22 class, trotting, for amateurs to cart.

Mr. Furbush drove the winner home.

BUILD UP YOUR BLOOD

It is a hopeless task to try to restore your health while your blood is deficient in quantity or quality.

The blood circulates throughout every portion of the body except the hair and nails. It takes the nourishment from the food and distributes it to the various muscles and organs; it takes also any medication that is administered through the mouth. The blood is the only means by which medicine can reach the nerves. If the blood is thin its carrying capacity is lessened because it is the red corpuscles in the blood that carry oxygen and other needed constituents to the various parts of the body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People increase the red corpuscles in the blood. They enable it to absorb more oxygen, to carry more life and strength to the weakened organs. In any disease in which the patient becomes thin and pale Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be used successfully to combat the anemia and build up the health and strength.

"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet, full of good information. Every mother and every growing girl should have one. It is sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Price 50 cents.

First in all three heats. Exito, favorite in the 2:14 class, trotting event, won the second and third heats, but lost first money to Cella Dillon, who won the first, fourth and fifth heats.

Little Bette, from the Newport stock farm, a much improved pacer over last year and well driven by Fred Utton, won the 2:15 class, pacing event, in straight heats in the fastest time in this class in the history of the fair. The summary:

NINE LIVES LOST IN COLLEGE FIRE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—Nine men are known to have perished in a fire that destroyed the central portion of the main building of Christian Brothers' college here yesterday. Two of the dead are members of the Christian Brothers order, who were carried to the basement from the third floor when a wall collapsed. Seven firemen were taken out alive, but badly hurt. The brothers who were killed are: the Rev. Brother Cormac, aged 33, and the Rev. Brother Clement, aged 72.

The fire was discovered by the registrar of the college, Brother Abban. He turned in an alarm and hurried to the dining hall in the basement, where 165 students and 30 members of the faculty were at breakfast. They left the building in orderly fashion. The loss is estimated at more than $300,000, partially covered by insurance.

The college will resume regular class work Friday in the Smith academy building, where temporary quarters have been offered by the trustees of Washington university. The cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained.

MESSANGER BOY FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

HAD BEEN HELD SINCE LAST SUMMER IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF PROVIDENCE GIRL

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 6.—James O'Brien, messenger boy in a local factory, who has been held since last summer upon a charge of having murdered Miss Beatrice Walter, 17 years old, was free today, the grand jury yesterday having reported no indictment against him.

Miss Walter was shot in the abdomen on the night of July 1st, near Fort Independence. O'Brien was walking with her at the time and later in the night informed the girl's father of the shooting, asserting that it was part of an alleged suicide pact.

THOUSANDS OF SICK WOMEN

Helped Every Year by Common Sense Suggestions Given Free by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

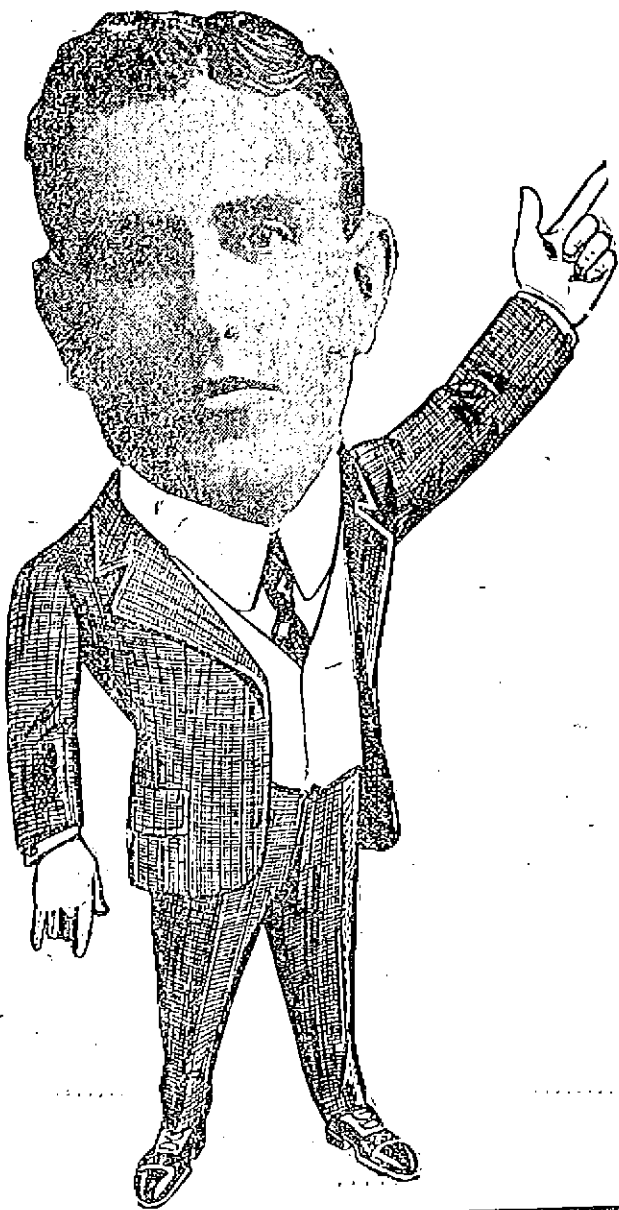

For forty years women suffering from all kinds of female ills have been writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Thus they receive common sense suggestions drawn from a vast volume of experience, and thousands of sick women have been saved from untold suffering, as letters like the following clearly show:

Newark, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman. Your Sensitive Wash is just the thing to overcome female weakness. I have told young mothers as well as older ones about your remedies, and what they have done for me. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, as my health was very bad when I wrote you, but now I can do my own work and have not had a sick day since I began taking your remedies. I keep the Compound and Liver Pills on hand all the time."—Mrs. GEORGE THOMPSON, 24 Sherwood Court, Newark, Ohio.

Such letters would not be published unless they were truthful and genuine.

PRES. WILSON SAYS U. S. IS READY TO FIGHT

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 6.—President Wilson declared to the thousands who crowded the Omaha auditorium to hear him last night that America is ready to fight as any nation in the world, but that the cause must be just. After the war, he said, the United States must join a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world. And for the next decade, said he, "we have got to serve the world. The swing of our destiny has at last become as wide as the horizon."

The day was one long triumph for the president, and in him the campaign spirit was rampant. Omaha's streets were packed with thousands of people from nearby cities and from other states, gathered for the celebration of Nebraska's 50th anniversary, and they cheered frantically every time Wilson appeared. It was an impressive demonstration of approval which delighted the president and his political advisers who characterized it as the greatest reception of his career.

One Busy Day
Omaha was in gala attire. All the buildings were festooned with American flags, the windows were crowded with onlookers during the anniversary parade, and bands played constantly popular and martial music.

The president led the parade for an hour, then returned to attend a luncheon and dinner, visited the national swine show, held several political conferences and delivered three speeches. In the morning, coming to Omaha, he made brief speeches to crowds at towns along the way. Last night he left for Long Branch, N. J., where he will arrive Saturday morning. All in all it was a busy, satisfying day.

The president discussed the European war, peace and American business in his three speeches. He declared America is as ready to fight as any nation in the world, but that its cause must be just. After the war, he said, this nation must join a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world.

In his afternoon speech the president declared that after the European war the United States will live in a new age.

of recent years has chiefly consisted in exports stimulated by the war.

He said at last night's dinner that he had been greatly pleased by the reception accorded him during the day.

Master of America
"The thinking, planning brain is the master of America," said the president in discussing the broad view of the people of Nebraska.

Seldom before has the president received such an upsurge of cheering as greeted him from the thousands of people packing the Omaha auditorium last night. Calls of "Three cheers for our next president" were cheered. The majority of the crowd was new, but many women were present. A great crowd packed the streets outside. For several minutes there was such calls as "Who kept us out of war?"—Wilson! "Who prevented the strike?"—Wilson!

"Who saved the nation?"—Wilson!

Governor Morehead of Nebraska introduced the president. Every mention of Mr. Wilson's name evoked applause.

EARNINGS OF THE B. & M. SHOW GREAT GAIN

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The earnings of the Boston & Maine railroad for the year ending June 30, 1916, were $4,665,601, while during the preceding year it sustained a loss of $334,462. Nearly all the increase in revenue came from the transportation of freight, according to the report of H. Hustis, former president, now receiver of the road.

The report states that the road's passenger business has been disappointing, revenue from this source decreasing because of the greater use of the automobile and the refusal of the public service commission to allow sufficient increases in fares.

Operating revenues were $52,075,123, a gain of $5,402,379, or about 11 per cent. over last year, while operating expenses increased $288,156. The net operating revenue was $15,577,579.

Mr. Hustis says in the report that if suitable transportation service is to be furnished, the road's credit must be such as will permit raising funds for necessary improvements and development.

In all discussions of the "eight-hour law" and its increased wage costs," says Mr. Hustis, "it was made evident that such additional wage costs must be transferred to the public in the form of increased rates if this need of suitable transportation service were to be met."

Fat put on by indoor life is unhealthy and if nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure becomes a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat.

Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air; breathe deeply and get from A. W. Dows & Co. or any druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion and even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight.

REV. MR. LINDSEY HAS CHANGED HIS MIND

At a meeting of the North Billerica Baptist society held last evening a communication was read from Rev. Mr. Lindsey of Harwich stating that he would be unable to accept the pastorate of the church. Rev. Mr. Lindsey was recently called to the North Billerica church and he answered that he would accept and be here the latter part of the month. He later notified the committee that his parishioners in Harwich had persuaded him to remain there.

COLUMBUS DAY PARADE AND LINE OF MARCH

ALL THE PARADEERS WANT TO SEE
THE PROCESSION IN COUNTER
MARCH

Those who have arranged to turn out in the Columbus day parade think they should be privileged to see the entire parade as they would in counter marching on some portion of the route. Already several protests have been lodged at this office over the fact that the route as arranged does not provide for any counter-march. Many of those who protest themselves to the inconvenience and expense of turning out believe that they should be shown some consideration by the committee in charge of the route so that they would be able to see the entire procession. It is recalled that those who participated in the recent Preparedness parade were privileged to see but a small portion of the parade. It was one of the largest demonstrations ever held in Lowell.

It is claimed that under the present arrangements the route for the Columbus day parade will be almost too short for such a large number of companies. Hence, it would appear that the route might be extended over Bridge street and thus offer an opportunity for counter march on the return. This would relieve the congestion in Merrimack square by giving the people of Centralville an opportunity to view the parade from their own side of the bridge. If not too late it would be well for the committee to make this concession to the paradeers themselves if not for the benefit of the public at large.

The Illiterate Minors

The following letter sent to employers of illiterate minors relative to the attendance of the latter at the evening schools is self explanatory:

Office of the Supt. of Schools,
Lowell, October 4, 1916.
To the Employer of Any Illiterate Minor

Dear Sir: I am endeavoring to see that the legal requirements as to the attendance at evening schools of all illiterate minors are scrupulously enforced and know that I can count upon the willing co-operation of yourself and all those who have charge in any way of illiterate minors who may be in your service.

I most respectfully ask that you send at your earliest convenience to the office of the superintendent of schools a list of the illiterate minors in your service, giving the age, residence, and name of overseer in each case. Allow me at this time to call your attention to the printed matter on the educational certificate, a perusal of which will show that the incident of every minor employer to look after the matter of evening school attendance.

Too much emphasis cannot be given to the fact that while the law requires that the duty of the city to provide evening school facilities for illiterate minors, it is clearly the legally prescribed duty of an employer to see that every illiterate minor in his service attends evening school regularly.

As reports come to the evening schools from time to time that certain remarks are made by subordinate officials concerning evening school attendance, I would further suggest that you see that all who have control over your employees read and make themselves familiar with the provisions of the law governing the employment of illiterate minors.

An illiterate minor, who may be laid off from work temporarily, can not be employed again legally unless he can show that he has attended evening school regularly during the period of his absence from work or that he has been regularly excused by the school authorities for non-attendance.

Friendly and cordial co-operation between employer and the school department is most desirable and is really essential if the evening elementary schools are to do their work effectively and in accordance with legal requirements.

I shall regard it as a favor if you will acknowledge the receipt of this communication.

Very truly yours,

Hugh J. Molloy.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. Nell Clark, 55 Commonwealth avenue, South Lowell, in honor of Miss Mildred Palmer, last evening, when about 40 of her friends gathered and showered her with many useful gifts, including cut glass, china and linen. There were piano selections by Miss Alice Osterman and Miss Bertha Parsons. Refreshments were served by the hostess and the party broke up at a seasonable hour after wishing Miss Palmer much happiness.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. Margaret Riley in honor of Miss Alice Stealey, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Thos.

The feature of the evening was a musical sketch given by Miss Josephine Murphy, Miss Minnie Pelgrander, Miss Theresa Wood, Miss Mary Wilcox and Miss Margaret Toblin. A number of fancy dances were rendered by Mrs. Rose Stone and Miss Margaret Gilliam. A supper was served in the dining room, which was decorated with autumn foliage and asters. The party turned out at a late hour, wishing the bride-to-be much happiness in the future.

The first monthly coffee party of the season was held at the Grace Universalist church last evening. An excellent supper was served, with Mrs. Geo. W. Randall in charge of the dining room, assisted by a corps of waitresses. The matrons were Mrs. E. M. Luzzelle and Mrs. James Joyce. Following the supper there was a splendid stereopticon lecture by the pastor, Rev. Herbert E. Benton, who told of many of the quaint out-of-the-way nooks and corners of old England. A feature of special interest at the evening's program was the throwing on the stereopticon screen of a number of former pastors and old parishioners of the church.

AGAINST SPREAD OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS FROM THIS COUNTRY

The Canadian emigration officers, who are on duty on the Canadian border have taken all precautions necessary to prevent the spreading of infantile paralysis in Canada and no children are permitted to cross the line unless the parents can show a doctor's certificate attesting to the good health of the children, and Mrs. Joseph Magras of 73 Moody street, this city, knows all about this for a couple of days ago she was detained at St. Albans, Vt., and later sent back to Lowell.

Mrs. Magras left Lowell Sunday evening with her two children on a four weeks' trip to Manseau, Que. When she reached St. Albans, Vt., she was interrogated by the emigration officers and asked to produce good health certificates for her children. The woman who did not expect anything of the sort did not have the required certificates with her and the officers informed her she could go as far as St. Jean, Que., where she would be placed aboard another train for Lowell.

Mrs. Magras went as far as St. Jean and later returned to St. Albans, where she was informed if she could get a telegram from her family physician to the effect that her children were not suffering from infantile paralysis, she would be allowed to continue on her journey. The woman telephoned to Lowell, but much to her sorrow she was informed that her family physician was away on his vacation. The woman and her children were then placed aboard a Lowell bound train and sent back to this city.

BOSTON FIELD NOT BIG ENOUGH TO MEET WORLD'S SERIES DEMANDS

SCENE AT BIG GAME ON BRAVES FIELD. — MANAGER CARRIGAN OF THE RED SOX

Because of the greater seating capacity of the Braves' National League park in Boston, the world's series games between the Red Sox and the Brooklyn Nationals will be played there instead of in Fenway park, the home grounds of the Red Sox, led by Manager Bill Carrigan. Enthusiasm over the world's series ran riot throughout the Hub. Announcement by the Red Sox authorities that every one of the 27,000 seats available for reservation at Braves' field had been covered by applications was evidence of the popularity of the Sox and the series. The demand for reserved tickets was so strenuous that many thousands of dollars had to be returned by the American League club through inability to fill orders. The "Royal Roosters" are once more on the job, and will be at Ebbets field as well as at Braves field. John McKillop, leader of these ardent enthusiasts, who have read the Sox to two world's championships, reported that President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club had promised an adequate supply of tickets for the Boston party which will follow the fortunes of the Sox throughout the series.

WHAT THE COOK SAYS

Cook tells me a good way to insure fast colors in washing, add a tablespoonful of turpentine to a pail of water; dip the article into the solution and dry before washing.

To whiten clothes, add a tablespoonful of turpentine to each boiler of clothes.

A griddle cake turner is a great help to remove cookies and doughnuts after cutting from the pastry board; the blade is so wide there is no danger of their losing their shape.

After mixing a cake carefully beat for five minutes before turning into pan and then let it stand from three to five minutes before putting into oven; this makes a much finer grained cake.

If wine is spilled on the tablecloth cover with salt at once and let it stand for a few minutes, then rinse in cold water.

To wash carafes which are badly stained, half fill with hot soap suds and add a teaspoon of washing soda. Put in some newspapers torn in small pieces. Let stand for several hours and shake occasionally. When they look clear, empty and rinse in hot water.

Before putting a roast in the ice chest cover with paraffin paper. This keeps the meat moist and juicy to the end.

Cook says lettuce can be kept fresh in this manner: Cut leaves from stalks, wash and shake lightly; then lay loosely in deep pan, putting another pan over it to fit closely, but do not crush leaves, put in cool place. It will keep crisp for 45 hours. You can use part of it and cover the rest up again.

When the stove is barely warm rub it briskly with a cloth moistened with kerosene; greasy spots, dirt and rust spots will disappear as if by magic and your stove will have a very neat black appearance with very little labor.

If there is a crack in the stove or a small hole in a funnel it can be closed with a cement made of sifted wood ashes and salt in the proportion of one-fourth as much salt as ashes, mixed to a paste with very little cold water. It should be mixed much stiffer at first than needed to use, as in working it, and as the salt dissolves, it tends to soften and becomes more liquid. It will harden in a short time and is very durable.

Cook gives these rhubarb pie recipes: Mince rhubarb pie—One cup of rhubarb, after chopping fine, one-half cup of sugar and half a cup of best molasses, one-half a cup of water, one-half a cup of raisins chopped, one and one-half crackers rolled, 1 egg, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon clove, a little nutmeg and little salt and one tablespoon butter. Bake in two crusts. This makes two pies.

Mock Lemon Pie—One cup rhubarb, 3-4 cup sugar, yolks of two eggs, 2 tablespoons of sweet cream. Flavor with lemon extract, bake in one crust and frost with whites of two eggs and 2 tablespoons of sugar.

Rhubarb and Raisin Pie—Two cups of rhubarb and 1 cup of raisins, chopped together quite fine, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, a little salt and bits of butter. Bake in two crusts.

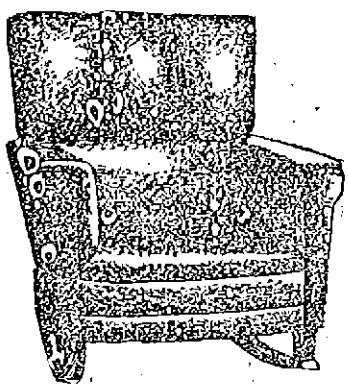

Delicious Rhubarb Pie—Line a deep pie plate with crust and cut fine enough rhubarb to fill the plate, and put it in a saucepan. Mix a half teaspoon of corn starch with a little cold water and stir into one-half a cup of boiling water, pour over rhubarb, add a small handful of seedless raisins and 1 and one-half cups sugar. Heat all together but do not boil. Bake with two crusts.

Cook says this is a fine recipe for salad dressing. Have never used any other since making this one. It does not need any cooking. One can sweetened condensed milk, 2 eggs, 1 cup of sugar, 2 level teaspoons salt. Beat eggs, add mustard, vinegar and salt, then add condensed milk. Beat a few moments and in two hours or less it will be just thick enough to use. Keep a week or more on ice.

Easy Way to Get Rid of Itching

Don't worry any more about that itching skin-trouble. Just get a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap at any drug store. With the Resinol Soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently. Spread on a thin layer of the Resinol Ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again. For trial free, write to Dept. 9-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

ALBERT J. ROPER FREE GOES BACK TO MOTHER

Albert J. Roper, charged with the murder of his father, Albert Roper, the Tewksbury florist, is today a free man having been acquitted yesterday afternoon by a jury of 12 men who had patiently listened to the evidence that occupied more than two weeks.

Albert Roper was in Lowell last night on his way home from Boston, and to a friend he said: "I certainly seem to go to be free again and I will enjoy the pure country air in Tewksbury."

Roper's face and general appearance show the strain of the terrible ordeal through which he has passed.

The jury that had been trying the young man for more than a fortnight in the Middlesex superior court at East Cambridge needed just four hours of deliberation and luncheon to reach the verdict of not guilty which Foreman Albert C. Ashton pronounced before a crowded court room at 3:45 yesterday afternoon.

Immediately as when a campaigner steps his speech, the crowd of spectators broke into loud hand-clapping, such as seldom marks the announcement of a decision in a murder case, and unformed court officers, rushing to and fro, found difficulty in quelling the demonstration.

Meanwhile, Albert J. Roper, no longer a defendant, lowered the hand which the clerk had made him raise and impatiently awaited discharge, while Judge Stevens leaned forward in his seat and offered to the jurors the thanks of the commonwealth.

Shakes Hands With Jurymen

Once Clerk Ralph Smith had spoken the words which freed the young man, he needed no reminder as to where his gratitude lay. Catching the flap of his blue jacket with one hand and buttoning it, he stepped from the cage and walked straight toward the jury box, where he shook hands with each of his liberators, as they passed on their way out. Beyond him stood his counsel, William B. Wilson and Melvin W. Rogers, also using the grip, and at another corner stood Roper's brother, Mark Roper, the only member of his family present, also demanding a shake with each juror.

Then Albert J. Roper was held up, figuratively, by the newspapermen.

"I've got nothing to say," he declared positively.

Roper was outwardly calm, but a shaking shiver in his hand betrayed his emotion. After another thought and a puff, he said:

"You can say this: I wouldn't want to go through this again. And I've found out my friends. You can take that for what you want."

"Are you going to the world's series?" asked the writer.

Roper smiled and tucked his cigarette. "Oh," spoke up Attorney Wilson, "we've arranged all that. He's going. I mean it."

Roper made no objections, so you may see him there.

Didn't Surprise Mrs. Fox

Three hundred yards away from the little room in which he stood receiving his friends' congratulations, stood Mrs. Jessie Fox of 16 Watt street, Roxbury, waiting for a street car. Mrs. Fox, at whose home Roper boarded for some time, was one of the strong witnesses in the case and it was the testimony of her little 12-year-old daughter, Dorothy, which went far toward freeing Roper. She was asked what she thought of the verdict.

"Well, it didn't surprise me any," she said. "I knew it was so all along."

Roper soon went back and said good-bye to the jail where he has been staying and took away his clothes. Then he went home to his mother and family in Tewksbury, back to the greenhouses where his father raised callunettes of nail-white fame.

The verdict was a popular one and was one of the few acquittals from murder charges that have come from an alibi defense. Alibis have frequently failed in the past, but Roper's was so strong that the jury made short work of freeing him.

Mrs. Robert Crowley, deputy district attorney and state's representative in the case, said:

"I tried the case as I saw my duty, and I am satisfied with the verdict. Let the world look upon Albert J. Roper as an innocent man."

Mother Welcomes Him

Albert Roper, at about six o'clock

last evening, stood with his counsel, Melvin Rogers, in Merrimack square, near Dow's drug store and heard The Sun newsboys hollering "Roper acquitted!" Roper was carrying a dress suit case and one of the newsboys insisted upon selling him a paper with the story of his acquittal. Both Roper and Mr. Rogers were waiting a car to Tewksbury and an hour later the freed prisoner was at home, breathing the pure air sweetened by his father's famous carnations in the greenhouse close by.

There was happiness in the little cottage set among the fields. The mother of the youth who a few hours before had been freed of the charge of murder, was aglow with joy. When her boy, for whose homecoming she had been watching, came in sight down the street, she rushed out to meet him and to greet him as only a mother can greet a long-absent son.

Here, accompanied by his brother Mark, whom Major Crowley, the prosecutor, in his closing address at the trial in the East Cambridge court house had eulogized as "a good, honest and faithful brother," reached home a little after 6 o'clock.

The other three brothers, who a slaver were there, and neighbors were gathered in the little cottage to welcome the homecoming.

Bert Roper came out on the piazza to see the reporter. While he talked his mother came out from time to time, all abeam with joy.

"I'm certainly glad to be back home again," this he repeated again as he looked about at the scenes he knew before the shadow of the awful charge had taken him away to spend seven long months in a jail cell.

"It was great, I tell you, when I got home tonight to see the delight of my dear old mother. She was the most pleased woman in the world when I walked in."

"What are your plans, Mr. Roper?" he was asked.

"I shall stay at home for a while and rest. Then I will go back to work in the greenhouses," he said.

MATRIMONIAL

Dr. John Francis Gately of Brockton and Miss Genevieve Marie Donnelly of Lowell were united in marriage Wednesday evening at St. Margaret's church by Rev. C. J. Galligan, the pastor.

Previous to the ceremony a musical service was enjoyed by the many relatives and guests of the couple. They had gathered to witness the event. Mrs. Nana Leahy and Mr. James D. Donnelly sang "The Rosary" as the bridal party entered the vestibule. Then at the opening strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the bride and her attendant proceeded down the aisle. The bride wore a gown of pink and white, and the bridesmaid wore a gown of pink and white. The bride was escorted by her brother, Mr. John H. Donnelly of this city. They were met at the altar by the clergyman, the groom and best man.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, Mrs. Mary E. Donnelly, mother of the bride, and Mrs. John Donnelly assisted in receiving. The house was profusely decorated with autumn leaves, hydrangeas and chrysanthemums.

Music was furnished by an orchestra and D. L. Page Co. entered. Guests were present from New York, Boston, Haverhill and Brockton. The bride's mother wore ivory georgette crepe with violet silk and a corsage bouquet of bachelor buttons in purple shades. The bride's gown was duchess satin and tulle with pearl trimmings, her veil being caught with tiny flowers and a band of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of roses tied with streamers of white satin baby ribbon.

Mrs. Katherine Louise Mosher of Brockton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and her gown was pink georgette crepe, with a chanelle lace collar and a pink hat and carried a pink bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Little Kathleen Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Murphy, was flower girl, her tiny gown being white net over pink silk and she carried a basket of pink roses. Henry Lupton, a young physician of Brockton and classmate of the groom, was best man.

Miss Ella L. Lavigne of this city was organist. The ushers were Mr. Frank A. Donnelly, Arthur Ray Donnelly and Leslie E. Donnelly. The

PLOT TO KILL N.Y. STREET RAILWAY OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The police promised more arrests today in connection with an alleged plot to kill President Theodore P. Shouts of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. and Frank Hedley, manager of the New York Railways Co. Two men, said to be striking subway guards, arrested early today, were held on charges of standing on an elevated train. The police declared they had evidence that these men were involved in the supposed conspiracy, but refrained from bringing such a charge against them until others were arrested.

The two traction officials were warned and given permission to carry pistols. The two men now under arrest were closely watched until last night when they were seen taking part in an attack upon an elevated train. The prisoners, who gave their names as Oscar Wallace and John J. Sheeran, were questioned for several hours today, but the police said that to reveal the result of this examination might hamper them in continuing the investigation.

BOYS' CLUB CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED LAST NIGHT

The campaign for the raising of a $50,000 fund for the Lowell Boys' club is on and the members of the various teams, who attended a dinner in the quarters of the club in Dutton street last evening, have already started their work and they will make their first report tomorrow noon when they will all meet at the club for luncheon. The big movement was launched last evening when over 100 of the willing workers gathered in the gymnasium of the club and after partaking of a good dinner and listening to interesting addresses, scrutinized the list that had been prepared by the members of the "Sunshine Brigade" and selected the names of the parties they will interview in an endeavor to get enough money to clear the club of its outstanding debts and also to purchase things which are badly needed on account of the outgrowth of the institution.

The dinner was held at 6 o'clock and present were the members of the executive committee, the various captains and their teams and the members of the "Sunshine Brigade," who take care of all the clerical work. This group is composed of young women under the able direction of Miss Comstock, a young woman of wide experience in this particular line of work and under whose direction the clerical end of several fund raising campaigns has been conducted successfully.

At the close of the dinner, Albert E. Miliken, chairman of the executive committee, called to order and after a brief address of welcome he urged the captains of the various teams to do their utmost to have all the members of their teams present at the noon-day luncheon which will be held tomorrow and all next week. He introduced as the first speaker, Agent William A. Mitchell of the Massachusetts mill, secretary and treasurer of the club, who spoke interestingly on the work of the organization and what is needed to make it what it should be. In opening Mr. Mitchell said he wanted each man to know why he was present. He said he is interested in the work because he was one of the type of boys such an organization cares for. He told of the debt of the club and said the organization was never in debt until the opportunity came to purchase the club building, which was assessed for $32,000 and which was purchased for $14,000. "We now owe $18,000 on the building," continued Mr. Mitchell and the building has already shown us that it is not large enough to meet the new demands upon it, despite the fact that we have already spent $5000 for remodeling it. The speaker then referred to what is needed to make the building suitable for the large number of boys who wish admittance, and he enumerated the following articles: Tools for the carpentry class, benches for the cobblers' class, chairs for the bakers' class, so that the boys can be taught to cut each other's hair;

WORMS SAP CHILDREN'S HEALTH

Mothers often wonder why their children are not rugged and hardy. In a vast number of cases the trouble is—Worms.

Signs of worms are: De-ranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy, dark and dull, itching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. Truex's Elixir, the 60 years time-tested Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, will expel the worms and restore the vim and vigor to your child. Good for adults also. Mr. Horace Chenery, of Belmont, Maine, reports that he buys 12 large bottles at a time, 35c, 50c and $1.00 at all dealers. Advice free. Special treatment for tapeworms. Send for book.

eight additional shower baths, bowling alleys, a heating and ventilating system and other things too numerous to mention. Mr. Mitchell also told of plans to raise the building another story in order to increase the good work performed by the boys.

In closing Mr. Mitchell paid a flattering compliment to Capt. Walter R. Jeyes, the newly appointed superintendent of the club, saying he was the right man in the right place to take care of boys, and he said the money raised for the improvement of the building will not be taken in a lump, but in five different payments and the donors will be given an opportunity to see how their money is being spent.

The next speaker was Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department, who endorsed the Boys' club as a great place to keep the boys away from mischief. Hon. Dennis J. Murphy spoke of the good work accomplished by the club since its formation and said there is no doubt in his mind that the club will continue to be of great benefit to its members.

Andrew E. Clement, who has been in charge of all the preliminary work of the fund raising campaign, told of the success of many boys in other cities after frequenting the boys' clubs and referred particularly to a professor of astronomy in Chicago who made his debut in a boys' club.

Frederick C. Church told the teams how to go about their work and told them not to get discouraged and feel that they are begging or asking anyone a favor, for he said what you will do in raising subscriptions will be for the boys of Lowell and not for yourselves. He told of his success in his preliminary work and how even before the movement is launched he has succeeded in getting several $1000 subscriptions. In closing he said: "You needn't fear to tackle the men and women of Lowell. The public will receive you with a welcome, for business men believe in the Boys' club work."

The last speaker of the evening was Frederick Courtenay Barber of New York, expert in the field of philanthropic finance and organizer and director of campaigns that in four years have raised $14,000,000, and the man to conduct the Lowell campaign. Mr. Barber spoke in part as follows:

"The mind of a boy is a wonderful thing," he said, in speaking of the importance of the work. "Almost from the beginning he is eager to grow. He is filled with a robust wonder of everything that he sees. The balance between good and evil in a boy's mind is disturbed almost by the flutter of a thought. When you are giving the mind of a street boy the chance to develop along the right line, you are doing one of the most important things that there is to be done. The saddest thing in America is the boy who doesn't know how to play, or doesn't know how to play sanely, or who hasn't room to play."

He then gave detailed instructions to the team workers, after which the list of names were gone over and apportioned.

The work will begin by the teams this afternoon. The first dinner for reports will be held tomorrow at the Dutton street building.

TRADERS NATIONAL BANK CAN'T PAY DIVIDEND

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS ISSUES STATEMENT RELATIVE TO PROSPECTS OF FINAL DIVIDEND

Based on a conversation which he had with Receiver H. G. Murray of the Traders' National bank, Hon. John Jacob Rogers makes the following statement:

"The Traders' National bank closed its doors in October, 1913—just three years ago. The public will recall that Receiver Murray has already returned 50 per cent of the total deposits to depositors. It is the policy of the treasury department to declare no dividend (other than the final dividend) of less than 10 per cent, as the payment of a dividend is an expensive process which, for the welfare of the depositors themselves, it is undesirable to multiply.

Mr. Murray states positively, therefore, that no additional dividend may be expected until he has in his hands sufficient funds to pay a further 10 per cent. The necessary amount for this purpose is about $300,000. He has on hand today about $100,000, or only one-third of the sum requisite. It will be seen that a declaration of a dividend in the near future is most unlikely. Just when it will come is problematical, and depends on circumstances entirely beyond the control of Mr. Murray. The principal investments of the Traders' bank on which Mr. Murray has not yet realized are three in number, each representing a large paper value. Two of the three are bonds of corporations which are now in the hands of receivers, but which, if given time, are likely to get on a sound footing. As the coupons on one of these two issues, which are being paid regularly, are sufficient to pay all expenses of the receivership so that it is costing the creditors of the bank nothing, Mr. Murray deems it his duty to the depositors to continue the receivership until he is able advantageously to dispose of these two issues of bonds. Just when that time will come, he cannot foresee. The third large investment still unrealized is in western lands which are now involved in litigation, but which Mr. Murray hopes are long to convert into money.

"While I am not authorized to give the opinion of Mr. Murray or of the treasury department, I am absolutely confident, from my knowledge of the situation, that the depositors are certain, in course of time, to receive a further dividend of at least 19 per cent."

THE TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL MET

An interesting meeting of the Trades & Labor council was held last evening with President Frank A. Warnock in the chair. The attendance was large and the feature of the evening was the semi-annual election of officers, which resulted as follows:

President, Frank A. Warnock, plasterers; vice president, John W. Denning, stationary firemen; secretary, Thomas McGee, stationary firemen; assistant secretary, B. B. Golden, Carpenters 42; sergeant-at-arms, Michael Kinane, stationary firemen; board of trustees, Mrs. Annie Regan, cotton weavers; John J. Quirk, Bartenders 43, and Thomas W. Morrison, painters and decorators. The following committee of five was appointed to bring in a full list of the standing committees: Thomas W. Morrison, Charles E. Anderson, John Hunt, John T. Hendricks and Patrick Burns.

At a recent meeting of the members of the Horse Shoers' union it was unanimously voted to stop work Saturday at 12 o'clock, all the year round. This vote was taken after it had been reported that most of the employers were in favor of closing at the hour mentioned with the exception of during slippery weather.

At a meeting of the Socialist club held last evening one new member was initiated and it was announced that E. L. Seel and Augustin Leebau will speak this evening. On Monday night William Parker and Mr. Leach of Wakefield will speak while on Oct. 16 Fred Hurst of Providence will speak.

A regular meeting of the members of Elgin lodge, N.E.M.P., was held last evening in Veritas hall with a large attendance. Deputy Warden Elizabeth B. Gahn and suite of Cambridge were present. Following the business session a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Important Meeting of Soldier's Sons Next Sunday in Armory at 1.30—All Ready for Parade

With only a few days left to prepare for the parade, Oct. 12th, the O.M.I. Cadets are working hard to be ready for the command to march. Major Conroy, with his commanding officers, is confident that every cadet will be in line. The "regulars" or senior cadets, will be dressed in the regulation blue and white dress uniform. The cavalry and artillery will wear the khaki service uniform, while the hospital corps will be dressed in white.

On Sunday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock sharp there will be a final rehearsal of every movement for the parade and all places for all divisions will be given out. General orders from the major will be read and all assignments made. An officers' meeting will take place immediately after the afternoon's drill. The large moving cross, which will feature the cadet division of the parade will be carried out on Sunday.

JEWISH FEAST OF YOM KIPPUR TONIGHT

Tonight at sunset the beginning of the observance of the feast of Yom Kippur will be celebrated in all the Jewish homes in this city and in all other cities of the country. Yom Kippur, one of the most important holidays on the Jewish calendar, is a day of fasting and prayer. When three stars appear in the heavens tomorrow the fast will end and there will be a feast in each household.

Yom Kippur is a day of intense mourning, both for the living and in memory of the dead. Those who have sinned against each other, as forgiveness, the synagogue in this city will open at 6 o'clock and many of the Orthodox Jews will remain praying all night and all day tomorrow until after the fast may be broken.

The chauffeur stopped his car not far from the spot where a number of men, said to have been masked, held up Rider's car in an attempt to steal $5000, the payroll for the 300 employees at Rider's cranberry bogs. Giuseppe Russo, an intimate friend of the de Marco girl, the police say; Frank Vessela, the chauffeur and Frank Ladonia, the three other prisoners held here were similarly grilling today and admitted they had taken an early morning ride from this city to Hammononton.

They also admitted they had been at the spot indicated by the de Marco girl.

Twelve Bandits in Party

The de Marco girl and men arrested in this city late last night were traced to the Italian colony here through the license number of an automobile in which 11 men and one woman were seen in the vicinity of the home of the Riders yesterday, shortly before the murder of Henry Rider of Howell, Mich., and the shooting of his brother and two others. Rider and his daughter, Mrs. Elsie Smathers, who valiantly drove the automobile in which they were riding, when attacked after she had been wounded and James N. Rigby, who also was in the Rider car, are at a hospital and physicians today said they would recover.

None of the men under arrest was in Rider's employ, as far as the police were able to learn by a hurried investigation.

The sight of 11 men and one girl in an automobile aroused unusual interest among the natives of Afton, N. J. Some one casually noted that the automobile bore a Pennsylvania license number. Detectives learned the number of the car and the description of the girl, which corresponded with that of the young woman Rider employed on his cranberry bogs. Here the Bulgarians have recounted the town of Nevelon which has been occupied by the British and are reported on the retreat.

SUCCESSSES FOR ALLIES ON MACEDONIAN FRONT

While the entente forces holding the centre of the Macedonian front remain inert, both flanks continue vigorously on the aggressive.

Bulgarian Resistance Weakens

Today's reports indicate a weakening of the Bulgarian resistance to the British pressure on the eastern end of the line, beyond Strumica. Here the Bulgarians have evacuated the town of Nevelon which has been occupied by the British and are reported on the retreat.

British Hold Gains

Previous offensive movements by the British east of the Struma have not been followed up very vigorously. In the present operation, however, the British forces have withstood numerous Bulgarian counter attacks and the consolidation of all the ground gained is now reported.

Russo-Rumanian Attacks Fail

Sofia, Sept. 28.—Reports the failure of Russian and Rumanian attacks to push back Field Marshal von Mackensen's line in Volubria. The complete clearing of the southern bank of the Danube of the Rumanians who recently crossed the river near Balovo also is announced.

British Gain Along Somme

Attacks by the British on the Somme front have pushed them ground along the Douvre-Breanne road, according to London's official statement. A further thrust was made into the German lines northeast of Mamont Pabbaye.

Artillery Activity by French

Only artillery activity on the French section of the Somme front is reported in today's war office bulletin from Paris.

British Fighters Active

British fighters have been active in both the East and the West regions. Weather conditions on the German front have made them less significant. The loss of the British fighters in the East and the German fighters in the West is not reported.

German Attacks at Verdun

The German crown prince has resumed active hostilities at Verdun. Paris announces the guns have opened up a heavy fire on the Cote du Poivre, near Poppey Hill, south of the fortress, since the attack by the Verdun troops the artillery is notably busy.

Serbian Push On

On the western end of the Macedonian front the Serbians and their allies, it appears from the Paris war office bulletin, have pushed their lines well across the Balkan border since the middle of August and are now working steadily to take the city, about the line of the villages of Meschid, Kraljevo and Gracovska.

To March on Lemberg

Gen. Brusilov, as persisting in his efforts to break down Austro-Hungarian resistance along the southern sector of the Russian front and win the way to Lemberg, south of it, has reported his assaults have resulted successfully in several instances, according to Petrograd, which reports the capture of positions south of Brzezany which were held against counter attacks.

German Resistance

In Volhynia and northern Galicia the Austro-German armies are obstinately standing against the Russian offensive, which, according to press despatches from German sources, is being pushed by means of attacks more violent than any experienced previously during the war.

Russian Success

In Turkish Armenia, Grand Duke Nicholas has continued successfully his new offensive west and southwest of Trebizond. Petrograd announces. The Turks are being driven back toward the river Karshut, which flows into the Black sea fifty miles west of Trebizond.

KAISER RUSHES TO GALICIA TO ENCOURAGE HIS TROOPS

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Russian onslaught in Galicia has become so serious that the Kaiser himself has gone there to encourage his troops to hold back the Slav legions. It is officially announced in Berlin that the emperor has gone to visit the troops of General von Linsingen, whose lines are being persistently hammered by the Russian forces which are seeking to capture Lemberg. Petrograd reports the feats of the Russian forces both north and south of Lemberg, and only the most heroic efforts, in the opinion of the war experts, can save the Galician capital.

POMONA GRANGE MET 200 MEMBERS PRESENT

A regular meeting of the members of Middlesex North Pomona Grange was held today in Odd Fellows hall, 1000 Broadway street with about 200 members present, while about 40 visitors from Essex county Pomona grangers were also in attendance.

The meeting program included a very interesting lecture by D. C. Drew of Pomona, district secretary for the Y.M.C.A., who spoke on the young men's work at the war front in Europe and also on what the young men are doing in the country.

In the afternoon the program was under the direction of Essex County Pomona Grange and it consisted of an illustrated lecture on Scotland by J. S. Palmer of Rowling, Mass. Scotch ballads were also given. During the dinner which was served by the members of the Pomona Grange, a very enjoyable loggish program was given by members of the Essex Grange.

working on the theory that she planned the shooting with the air of confederates from this city.

All the prisoners have admitted, the police say, that they were at Afton yesterday.

Mrs. Smathers, a widow of a few weeks and only 26 years old, was a heroine today in the eyes of the police and hospital physicians here. She forgot her pain to speak lightly of her courageous act in driving the automobile away from the bandits as they fired shot after shot in a vain effort to get the bag containing $5000.

"She's the gamiest patient we have had in years," was an admiring comment of a physician. Mrs. Smathers smiled and held her hand up deprecatingly, as if her heroism in saving the money and lives, although twice wounded, was nothing unusual.

Notwithstanding her weakened condition, she drove her father's big touring car at a racing clip for more than ten miles from the scene of the shooting to Hammononton, where her father's estate is one of the show places.

Two suspects were arrested at the Pennsylvania railroad terminal in Camden, N. J., early today, as they stepped from a train they had boarded at Hammononton.

ROOT ATTACKS PRESIDENT WILSON'S POLICIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Making his first campaign speech this year, and addressing about 3000 men and women in Carnegie hall, Senator Elihu Root last night laid blame for the Mexican situation, the sinking of the Lusitania and the Adamson eight-hour law on the doorstep of the democratic party, asserting that party "is national only in form and profession."

To democratic failure to "feel nationally," Mr. Root ascribed the Huerta incident and the president's Mexican policy. To the Mexican policy he ascribed the attitude of Germany toward the United States. To the same cause too he ascribed the conditions that led to the passage of the Adamson bill, declaring "It was a hold-up pure and simple" to be condemned now, so that:

"Never again will any band or organization or class of men attempt to extort money from the American people by threats of injury rather than by the established justice of their cause."

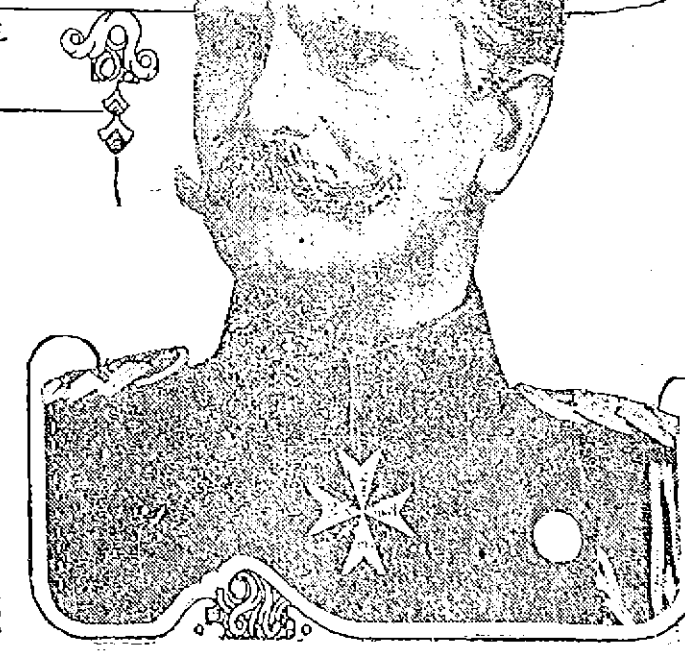

Mr. Root spoke for over an hour and a half to an audience that listened very intently and applauded his points enthusiastically. He was greeted with cheering when introduced by James H. Sheffield, and applauded vigorously when he finished his speech, to be followed by Chauncey M. Depew, who spoke at some length on the history and achievements of the republican party.

CONTROL OF THE DANUBE RIVER IS OBJECT OF BOTH SIDES IN RUMANIAN CAMPAIGN

"IRON GATES OF THE
GEN. MACKENSEN.

Where Austria-Hungary, Rumania and Serbia meet on the Danube is one of the important strategic points in the present warfare, the river there passing through the famous "iron gates" which barred navigation until a channel was opened in 1856. The Danube, which is second only to the Volga among European rivers, makes two sharp turns there, changing its course from northeast to south to southwest. The "iron gates" are controlled by the Rumanians. On the Hungarian side is the town of Orsova, on the Rumanian side is Turnu-Severin. "At Orsova (on the Danube near the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier) we repulsed three enemy attacks," says a Rumanian report. Mackensen, the famous German general, is fighting for the control of the Danube, which means virtually the decision of the fate of a large part of the Balkan peninsula. It is for this purpose that the German drive was undertaken through the Dobruja province of Rumania, the Bukarest-Constanza railroad being the immediate objective. To relieve the pressure the Rumanians crossed the Danube into Bulgaria.

CUNARD FRANKONIA SUNK BY SUBMARINE

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The admiralty announces that the Cunard steamer Frankonia, employed for transport duty, was sunk in the Mediterranean Wednesday by an enemy submarine. The steamer had no troops aboard. Twelve men of the crew of 302 are missing.

BOSTON'S "SHOW SHIP"

Frankonia inaugurated New Era of Comfort and Luxury in the Passenger Service From Hub Port

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The Frankonia was formerly in the Boston service, and was considered the finest vessel sailing from this port.

She was a vessel of 18,150 tons gross and was built in 1910. The Frankonia was 625 feet long, 72 feet wide and displaced 25,000 tons. When she was built she was considered one of the finest steamers of the Cunard line. A striking feature of the saloon appointments was the absence of staterooms on the boat deck, which was devoted to promenade room, a library, gymnasium and a lounge and smoking room.

The vessel was nicknamed the "Bath Ship" because she had more bathrooms and showers than the Mauretania, this equipment being installed for the benefit of passengers bound for long cruises to the Mediterranean.

The Frankonia was launched from the yards of the shipbuilding firm of Swan, Hunter & Wigham Richardson, Liverpool, on the afternoon of July 23, 1910, and made its initial trip from Queenstown to Boston on Wednesday, April 26, 1911.

The great ship had been two years in construction. In the way of passenger accommodation she outclassed all previous vessels in the service of this port.

Her coming to the Hub inaugurated an era in luxurious ocean travel that placed Boston in the front rank of the country's port of comfort and pleasure when crossing the seas. The vessel was named for one of the famous show places of New England, the Franconia Notch in the White mountains.

More than four miles of girders were utilized in the construction of the vessel. The number of men employed on the construction of the ship was more than 3500, and this did not include the decorators, finishers, fitters, etc.

When the new steamship docked in East Boston on her maiden trip to this port she was hailed as a promise of better days for the port of Boston by the leading merchants and professional men of the city at a magnificent dinner given aboard ship by Charles Stewart, local agent for the Cunard line.

Smashing all previous records from Europe to Boston by several hours, the big Cunarder reached this port on the afternoon of Oct. 10, 1911, carrying 2008 passengers. The Frankonia made the passage from Daunt's Rock lightship to Boston lightship in 6 days 10 hours and 34 minutes.

The previous record was held by the New England of the Dominion line. The Frankonia reached here two hours earlier. The record of the New England stood for 12 years.

On Sunday afternoon, July 27, 1913, when the Frankonia was in the vicinity of the Titanic's grave, the vessel's engines stopped while wreaths, fashioned by members of the family of William T. Stead, the London editor and author who lost his life in the disaster, were cast on the waters, while prayers were recited by the 150 passengers on board.

Despite the European war the Frankonia sailed from this port on Aug. 5, 1914, for Queenstown with more than 600 passengers and with a heavy cargo of grain and general merchandise. She was one of the liners available for transport service, and at the time it was thought that she would be requisitioned into transport service by Great Britain at once.

On Aug. 30, 1914, the immense vessel, her funnels painted a battleship gray and her port holes blanketed, went into Boston harbor in a heavy fog after a 10-day trip, from Liverpool, bringing 1775 passengers who had escaped from the war zone of Europe.

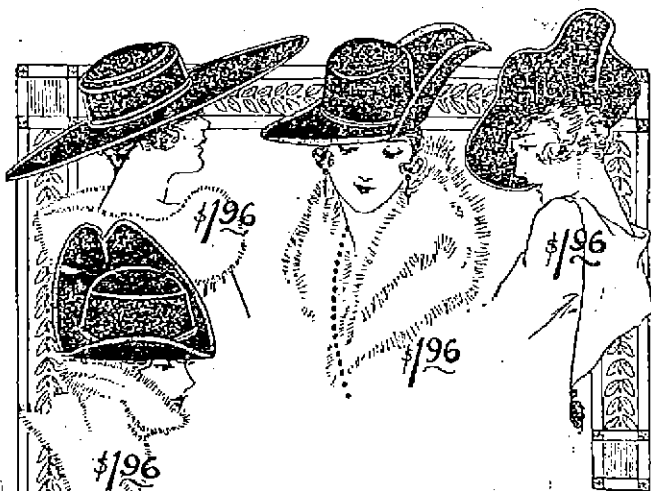

It was one of the largest lists of passengers ever brought into the port of Boston. Seven warships, five British and two French, halted the liner on the way across.

The ship's gymnasium, lounge, cafe and smoking room had all been turned into dormitories for men who, for the most part, had given up their rooms to women. Women of wealth were glad to secure steerage accommodation.

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

REPAIRING A ROOM

"We are going to have the guest chamber and the sitting room repaired," exclaimed Majorie all out of breath with the great news, as she dropped into an easy chair in her aunt's boudoir where Marie was at work.

"Give me some ideas at once," she commanded, but smiled as she said it. "Well," graciously rejoined Marie, "at the present moment striped papers predominate, although plain walls are always in good taste and give even more satisfaction when it comes to picture hanging."

"When one does not care for too much pattern, a plain wall is the best. It floors and draperies have decided designs. It gives too much latitude in changing the draperies from time to time."

"If walls and hangings are both patterned they must match. Nearly all the newest wall papers are copied in cretonnes and chintzes which are run over the same blocks as the paper to insure an exact reproduction."

"Where stripes are used, they run straight up to the moulding at the junction of wall and ceiling, and if there is no real moulding there, a narrow paper moulding is substituted. Sometimes, as in the case of bedroom walls, where delicate colors are used, these narrow paper borders form panels with the striped paper inside and a solid color without, the moulding running around the frames of doors and windows as well as around the ceiling edges and panels. In this case the paper moulding is very narrow, generally of a floral pattern, which is matched in draperies and bed coverings. Instead of a plain wall or panel or base, there are blended papers now which give an effective and serviceable rough effect to the surface.

"Since blue or pink is usually selected for the family bedrooms, the guest room is generally a study in lilac or lavender, which seems to be the color cherished by tradition for the guest room."

ADVENTISTS' CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED

The dedication of the Seventh Day Adventist church, at the corner of Liberty and School streets, will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The building has been completed for some time, but owing to various circumstances, the dedication has been postponed until the present time. The building is 26 by 45 feet, the basement walls are of stone, and the auditorium is furnished with comfortable opera chairs. Though not a large building, it, a good steam plant to provide warmth is very neat and comfortable, and has during the winter months.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY HOME GAME TOMORROW

NASHUA HIGH TO OPPOSE LOCAL ELEVEN—CAPT. LISTON'S MEN IN GOOD TRIM

The first home game of the season of the Lowell high school football team will be played at Spalding park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock with Nashua high as visitors. Nashua has been a deadly rival of the local school for years and the up-state boys will bring their most formidable lineup to the city tomorrow. Coach Conway and Capt. Liston are confident of giving followers of the team a chance to do some cheering as nothing but a victory is expected. The showing of the local eleven in Woburn last week was certainly encouraging and Capt. Liston's men will go onto the field possessing plenty of confidence. Several under-works have been held this week under the direction of Coach Conway. Three veterans, Liston, Lynch and Henthcock, will appear in the back field for Lowell, while Manner and Mahoney of last year's freshmen squad are showing up well in the front line. Faculty Manager Joseph Payne says Coach Conway has the squad in great condition for the game and he feels confident the eleven will have a very successful season.

The freshmen squad engaged in a lively workout yesterday, under the direction of Messrs. Payne and Campbell. Next week inter-class football will be inaugurated and this feature will be continued through the season.

M'CORMICK SUE FOR $50,000 BY O'LEARY

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee, announced late yesterday that he had been served with a summons in a suit for $50,000 brought against him by Jeremiah A. O'Leary, president of the "American Trust Society." Mr. McCormick said he had not been apprised, however, of the charges upon which the suit is based. Mr. O'Leary, in a statement issued soon afterwards, declared that his purpose in instituting the action was "to find out, first, whether hyphenism, so-called, is libellous, and second, whether it is inconsistent with Americanism."

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

What should the tired woman do on a tedious shopping expedition for her luncheon?

It is an easy question in cold weather, but just what answers her purpose in the "good old summer time"?

Soup is nutritious and easily digested, but one gets overheated from it, and however plausible the theory that hot tea and soup leave one cooler in the end than other foods, it applies best where there is a chance to change one's clothes.

Chilled soup. Eureka! Just the thing! The nourishment of soup—if honestly made and not stiffened with gelatine—without its warmth and yet not sufficiently cold to interfere with the digestion of the rest of the meal for she is sure to order something else.

If soup is not indulged in, our old friend Boston baked beans will furnish enough cheap protein to provide energy for the rest of the day.

To curries of chicken, eggs or mutton there can be no possible objection, for they are not the most exploited food of India and other hot countries? Furthermore, the bed of boiled rice on which they are inevitably served contribute toward a well balanced ration.

CAMBRIDGE LADY FEELS LIKE NEW

Mrs. R. B. Burns of No. 502 Putnam Street is Relating Wonderful Story.

When the stomach, liver and kidneys are overtaxed with the poisonous matter they can't get rid of through proper channels and pass it on through the blood and system, resulting in constiveness, indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, backache, sleeplessness, sluggish mind, nervousness, cold feet, night sweats, etc. Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, acts like a miracle, purifies the blood, washes out the poisonous matter, and corrects diseased conditions of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Daily local people are testifying in no uncertain terms as to the benefits received from Plant Juice in illness of long standing.

Recently Mrs. R. B. Burns, who lived at No. 502 Putnam street, Cambridge, for 20 years and is well-known lady, said:

"I have had stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for the last 25 years. I could not eat anything. My food fermented, causing gas, bloating and heartburn. I also had headaches and dizzy spells and a hard lump in the pit of my stomach most of the time. I could not eat meats or vegetables and lived on toast and sweet milk, and sometimes that pained me. I had rheumatism and my feet and limbs swelled up. I never got any real benefit until I commenced to take Plant Juice, which was recommended to me by a lady friend, who was cured by it. Now I have taken three bottles of it and I can truthfully say that it has worked wonders for me. I do not have any more aches or pains, have a good appetite and enjoy all my meals. I sleep fine now and feel that I have made a new woman of me. I am recommending it to all my friends."

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, The Druggist's, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. On Saturday evening he will remain at the store until 10 P. M. to meet those who are unable to call during the day.

WE keenly appreciate the ready response given to the invitation to attend our opening two weeks ago and the vast patronage our store has received since that date. We know of no better way of expressing this appreciation than by acts. To do so we are ever going to keep before our eyes our high standards and lofty ideals of merchandising, with the result that the public will benefit by our motto: "The best in Men's Furnishings at the lowest prices consistent with reliable merchandise." However, we were determined to give the men of this city a store that would be different in stock, character and conduct from those which they had been patronizing. This was not a simple thing to do, as we fully understood. We did our best and awaited the impression that our completed store would make. Fourteen days have passed since we made our bow and they have been considered as crucial ones by us. They were really the days of all days in our business career, for upon them rested the answer as to whether or not Lambert & Monette's would become a permanent establishment.

When we started writing this we did not intend to mention any particular article in our stock, but we simply cannot refrain from telling you about the snappy Fall Overcoats we are offering at $12, $15, $18, $20 and $22.

FORMER LOCATION OF VOYONS THEATRE

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

On next Tuesday the Mathew Temperance Institute will observe the 25th anniversary of the birth of Fr. Mathew, the great apostle of temperance, who on Sept. 12, 1891, visited Lowell, and while here administered the temperance pledge to 5000 persons. This year the Mathews will observe the day with a banquet. In other years parades have been held, but on account of the general celebration on Columbus day, two days later, the Mathews did not consider the parade feature for their observance. The Mathew Temperance Institute was organized on Oct. 16, 1891, and hence is almost 25 years old. It was incorporated in 1895, and hence has been a chartered organization for over half a century. Lowell's history of Lowell, which was published in 1898, refers to the Mathews as an "Irish Literary Society." The literary feature of the organization, however, is only incidental, its main feature being the profession of total abstinence, in honor of Fr. Mathew, who preached total abstinence to the world. Quarter of a century ago the day was observed in Lowell by a grand parade and a rally in the evening in Huntington hall. The parade included the societies affiliated with the archdiocesan temperance union, thereby bringing many out-of-town organizations to Lowell, and its roster was as follows:

Platoon of Police
Chief Marshal, Lawrence Buckley of Billerica
Chief of Staff, William J. Quigley of North Chelmsford

Among those who rode in barouches and other vehicles were President Fay, Secretary Mulready, and officers of the board of government, Rev. Fathers Burke, Gleason and Shaw of St. Patrick's, Superior George of the Boys' School, E. O'Brien, Gormley and O'Donnell of East Cambridge; delegations from the Navarion Brothers of St. Patrick's parish, and Rev. Fr. Manus of St. Peter's, the spiritual director of the Mathews. In the evening a grand temperance rally was held in Huntington hall, which was called to order by Edward R. Slattery and presided over by John P. Mahoney. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Fr. Feehan of Fitchburg.

Sixth Regiment Field Day
Quarter of a century ago on Oct. 5, according to the old Sun, Lowell's own regiment as it was then called, the Sixth, held its annual field day in this city, and the occasion was rather unusual, consisting of a parade, an exhibition of street firing in busy Central street and a sham battle around Fort Hill. Before the event took place some objection was expressed by the newspapers as the public wasn't positive as to the nature of the show that was coming, particularly the business men in Central street. But everything passed off finely, and thousands enjoyed the exciting fun.

The regiment was in full force under Col. Parsons of Marlboro, and presented fine appearance. The street firing and sham battle, says the old Sun, were enjoyed by thousands of people and the day's exercises closed with regimental dress parade on the South common.

The parade of the Sixth falling one day before the parade of the temperance societies, called forth the following editorial remarks from the old Sun: "Yesterday this city saw the march of armed men who met the enemy on the field and triumphed; today we shall see an army of a different kind arrayed in line and treading our streets, an army organized to conquer, not a foreign foe, but an internal foe, a foe that wrecks thousands of lives and spreads ruin and misery in a vast number of homes throughout the land. For the peace and happiness of our people, for the benefit of this country and the elevation of mankind, it is to be hoped that this temperance army will yet triumph, that it will succeed in establishing far and wide the principles of total abstinence and in extirpating forever the vice of intemperance that carries so many irreparable evils in its train."

Relative to the parade of the Sixth the Sun said, editorially:

"The presence of the Sixth regiment in the streets of Lowell, yesterday, recalls its bravery in war times, its glory in having given the first martyrs to the Union cause, and its ready response to the call of duty. The fact that Lord and Whitney who fell in the march through Lowell, were members of the regiment and that the city is an additional tie to connect the regiment with Lowell, and her people, it is gratifying to know that no longer are the armies needed in this country, that on all sides peace and harmony prevail, and that every citizen can be relied upon to do his part in defending the country should danger ever threaten it again."

Quarter of a century has brought about wonderful changes from the conditions under which these last few lines were written.

Back from Europe
It is just quarter of a century ago that the late Rev. Michael O'Brien of St. Patrick's church and Rev. William O'Brien, then pastor of St. Michael's church, returned from an extended tour of Ireland and were each tendered receptions upon their homecoming by the parishioners of their respective churches. The reception to

Rev. William O'Brien was held in St. Michael's church, where a beautifully decorated temporary platform was erected in the sanctuary. The old Sun's account of the exercises, in part, was as follows:

"Seated on the platform were Rev. William O'Brien, Rev. Michael O'Brien of St. Patrick's, Rev. William O'Brien of Winchester, Revs. Frs. Gleason, Burke, McDonough and McManus, Rev. Fr. Crow of Concord; Rev. Fr. McCall of Somerville, Rev. Fr. Walsh of Winchester, Revs. Frs. Scannell and Gilday. On the platform also were William F. Courtney, John McCluskey and Misses Maggie McCluskey, Mamie Joyce and Katie McDonough. After a song of welcome by the choir, Mr. Courtney in an eloquent address bade the pastor a cordial welcome. John McCluskey read an address for the Holy Name society; Miss Maggie McCluskey presented a well written address on behalf of the Sacred Heart sodality, while Miss Mamie Joyce followed, representing the Children of Mary. Little Katie McDonough, a mere tot, surprised the audience by the excellent manner in which she delivered an address from the school children. After the addresses the choir sang "Home, Sweet Home," Mr. T. F. Molloy sustaining the solos, the whole audience joining in the chorus. When Fr. O'Brien arose to speak he was greeted by an ovation that lasted several minutes. He expressed his thanks and reviewed his trip abroad. Rev. Michael O'Brien spoke in humorous vein and the affair concluded with the singing of "Lauda Sion" by the choir. A pleasant surprise to the pastor on his return was the condition in which he found his residence. During his absence it had been entirely remodeled, one story being added and all of the rooms renovated and finished in elegant style. The improvements cost over $1000 and have all been paid for by the people of the parish. Rev. Fr. Gilday superintended this work."

Fickle Appetites Respond Readily

THE FULL FLAVOR of toasted corn was but partly developed in old-style corn flakes. To fully develop this flavor in a new flake was the task of the makers of NEW POST TOASTIES.

The first discovery was that the old-style corn flakes, tissue-like in their thinness, were hopeless for the purpose. A more substantial flake was necessary. And so, in the new product, you get real substance; not a spoonful of mush.

The next step was to revolutionize the toasting process by the use of wonderful rotary ovens revolving in quick, intense heat.

In consequence, the general public, quick to recognize improvement—appreciative of increased quality and better flavor, at once put NEW POST TOASTIES in the first rank.

The grocer can tell you that his trade is increasing tremendously. Your first package will show why.

BOXING, GOLF
AND ATHLETICSBRAVES DEFEAT
PHILLIES IN FINAL GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—In the final engagement of the year, Boston downed the Phillies, 4 to 1.

It was a joke of a game, for everybody except Nott, who held the Phillies to one run. The losers had 11 hits, but could not use them to advantage.

The Phillies used a St. Petersburg line-up. With a reckless disregard for his life, Paskert went to short. Burns was in center and Oscar Dugue, also known as "Ladarius legs," was at second.

Cuckoo Fortune made a great show of it until the fourth, when Boston scored two runs. Maranville walked and Whitsett singled. Magee and Smith stroled in order, forcing in Maranville. Whitsett counted while Paskert was throwing out Connolly. Then Cuckoo stopped the spurt.

Strong-man Adams binged with one down in the fifth, and after Fortune fanned, Paskert and Byrne released singles, admitting the Hercules. Singles by Magee and Connolly in collision with Burns' Zeppellin sacrifice, put the embittered Sherwood over in the sixth. One out in the eighth. Burns and Welsch planked one-batters. Billy Maharg, pilot of Bill Killifer's race, had a uniform on and batted for Good.

He rolled out to first, did this big league veteran, who played with the Detroit strike-breaking team at Shibe park some years ago. Connolly then caught Bender's liner with a solitary talon.

MANY TO SEE WORLD'S SERIES AT ROLLAWAY

Braves field, Boston, is known in Reantown as the "Home of Big Things." In Lowell the Rollaway is "Our Home of Big Things." This popular hall has been the scene of many of Lowell's best athletic events and starting tomorrow another big feature will hold forth. It will be an accurate and detailed reproduction of the world's series ball games. This is made possible by the installation there of the latest and most improved electrical score board, which will give each and every play of the big baseball classic just as it occurs on the diamond. When "Dutch" Leonard, who the wise ones say will pitch the first game, heaves his first ball over the platter you can see the ball travel up to the plate. You can see the Brooklyn lead off man, smash it, or smash at it, just as it happens. You can then see every other ball thrown during the game. See what becomes of these balls. See the runners on the bases, see them score or be thrown out in attempting to score. In fact you can witness an exact and perfect reproduction of the entire game. All this can be seen for the price of an ordinary Eastern league game. Tickets are 25 cents, with a few reserve seats for those who wish to secure reservations in advance. The applications coming in indicate that the attendance will be "one of the largest of the season," and it behooves those who want to be in the hall when the umpire says "Play ball" to stroll around to the rink on Third street, or telephone 8815 and make provisions for attending. The games will start at 2 o'clock.

Cecil Hosmer, of this city, who was in charge of the electrical score board at the Rollaway last year and the year before is associated with Manager Moore this season, which fact guarantees satisfaction to all.

MANAGER CARRIGAN OF BOSTON SAYS HIS TEAM WILL WIN WORLD'S SERIES EASILY

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Preparations for another 42,000 crowd are under way at Braves Field, where part of the games at least of the world's series are to be played. "Boston will make short work of the National league winners for the world's championship," so spoke Manager Bill Carrigan of the pennant victors the other day.

"My men are playing baseball of the highest order and are in better shape now than at this time last year," Carrigan continued. "The pitching staff is going great, as was shown by the manner in which they held down the Detroiters as well as the heavy hitting Chicago swatters."

"The loss of Speaker of course will be keenly felt, but Walker, Hooper and Lewis have been playing good ball and hitting well. Boston will win the world's title again. Just put that down in your book."

TRYOUT AGAINST GIANTS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The champion Robins wound up the National league season here yesterday by defeating New York, 7 to 5. Manager Robinson gave his regulars a workout in the game, but had his recruits filling nearly every position when it ended.

Appleton, who has worked little all season, pitched fine ball throughout, although he was touched for five singles, a triple and a home run in the seventh and eighth. Tesreau and Anderson were hard hit, the latter pitching only part of the seventh. Smith finished the game and did well.

The new champions leave on a special train for Boston today at 1 o'clock. They will be accompanied by several hundred fans to be known as the "Royal Brooklyn Rooters."

JUGUES A FAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Charles Evans Hughes, republican candidate for president, has made a request for a box seat at the first world's series baseball game to be played in Brooklyn, it was learned here yesterday.

The Brooklyn club management has granted the request and a box back of third base was set aside for Hughes and his party.

It is expected that the candidate will throw out the first ball.

$5000 VICTORY
FOR COX MARE
AT LEXINGTON

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 6.—Mabel Trask and St. Frisco had another duel yesterday in the 25th renewal of the Transylvania stake at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association meeting here yesterday. Mabel winning in decisive manner, although forced to allow two heats to St. Frisco.

In the second heat, Mabel Trask was pocketed all around the track and could pull out only in the last 15th, finishing third, St. Frisco winning the heat, and Donna Clay getting second place.

In the fourth heat, Mabel Trask broke at the three-quarter pole while coming around the field and again finished in third position, St. Frisco winning the heat.

St. Frisco in the second heat equaled the stake record of 2:05 1/2, made by Etowah, in winning the Transylvania in 1914.

All the races furnished had contests yesterday, two of them going to five heats, another to four and the last one, the 200 yard race, being left unfinished with Brisac and M. L. J., dividing the first two heats.

The 221 trot called for five heats before Daisy Todd got the decision by taking the last three. Great Governor, who was first in the first two heats, was distanced in the third and Daisy Todd had little competition in the final heat.

Hazel II won the 200 pace in four heats, the Deputy Sheriff annexing the second heat and furnishing a driving finish in all save the last one.

RED SOX BLANKED BY MYERS IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Oct. 6.—With Myers pitching straight ball, the reconstructed world champion Red Sox felt before George Mack's Athletics at Boulevard park yesterday afternoon, being on the short end of a 2-0 score. The game was played before the largest baseball gathering Worcester has seen in many years. It was a benefit performance to raise funds to provide a monument over the grave of the king of umpires, John H. Gaffney, who is buried in St. John's cemetery in Worcester.

The Sox were minus the services of Boss Carrigan, Harry Hooper, Duffy Lewis, Dick Hoblitzel, Larry Gardner and Everett Scott and also the "Big four" batters, on whom the coming world's series pennant hopes are hung.

George Mack shot out his regulars with the exception of Stuffy Melands and Tex. His youthful star third racker.

BROOKLYN GIVES BOSTON EXPECTS SOME UNKNOWN DODGERS GREAT BIGGEST CROWD MAY BE HERO SEND-OFF IN HISTORY OF SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Brooklyn gave the National league pennant winners a rousing send-off today for the opening game of the world's series to be played in Boston tomorrow. Thousands of enthusiasts gathered at Ebbets field long before the hour for the departure of the players. In the crowd were many city officials, business men and the "Brooklyn Boosters," who will go to Boston with the club to cheer the players to victory—or to console them in defeat.

A band led the big parade from Ebbets field to the subway station and a multitude of fans lined up behind.

Many houses and stores displayed flags and the pennant winners were cheered by long lines of well wishers. The players were to leave the Grand Central station at 1 o'clock.

"We have more applications for tickets to the Brooklyn games than we can fill," said President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club. "Applications have been pouring in from all parts of the country and as far south as Cuba."

While the players are in Boston fighting for the first two games of the series carpenters will be busy extending the seating accommodations at the Brooklyn field. Nearly 1500 extra box seats will be constructed for the first home game and new circus seats to accommodate 1500 more will be erected in the left field. These will bring the capacity of the grounds to about 27,000.

Members of the National commission and the umpires for the world's series left this city this forenoon for Boston, where they will meet this afternoon to clear up any doubtful points about the series or the rules to govern the play.

CARLSON VS. YELLO

The lightweight championship of New England will be decided at the Commercial A.C. in Boston tonight when Freddie Yello of Taunton and Harry Carlson of Brockton come together. The bout is creating a great deal of interest and is expected to be one of the best that has been seen in the hub for some time. Carlson, who is the pride of Brockton, has been training under the direction of Mike Glover, and Yello has been boxing with his manager, Aleck McKenna.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—Activities attendant upon the opening here tomorrow of the world series between the Brooklyn, champions of the National league, and the Boston American league (little) holders and present world champions multiplied today.

The Red Sox, at Braves field for further and sharper practice, took part in a conference which Manager Carrigan had ordered last night. It was called early for the purpose apparently of working out signals and strategy to be tested in a practice game this afternoon. The Brooklyn team made no effort to hasten its movement onto the scene of the series curtain raising and did not plan to arrive here until late in the day. Through its services here with the Boston Nationals the team had gained a good working knowledge of conditions at Braves field which Manager Robinson thought sufficient preparation for the test.

The weather man contributed his part to the arrangements for the day with assurances of fine weather tomorrow. While it was warm today there was a promise of slightly lower temperature for the game and with no early indications of rain.

The attendance at the first game will be the largest in the history of baseball, according to President J. J. Lannin of the Boston Americans. After working through the night again to facilitate distribution of reserved seat tickets, Lannin said the interest in the series this year as indicated in many ways was greater by far than last year, when a record crowd of 42,390 saw the first game played in this city.

The height of the interest was shown by early morning crowds at Fenway park, small in number, but eager to obtain preference in the purchase of grand stand seats. The new system by which successful applicants were forced to fall in with a policy of "first come, first served" at the ticket lines instead of having certain tickets held to their order, caused some confusion yesterday and was responsible for the early lines today. Prospective speculators were under surveillance of police officers and plain clothes men who had orders to arrest any persons trading in tickets.

The time for exercising purchase privileges on reservations expires at 6 o'clock tonight after which uncalled for tickets will be put together and prepared for a rush line sale tomorrow morning. This will be the only opportunity for persons not successful applicants by mail to obtain such seats except by private transaction at increased prices.

As far as could be learned today, disposition of tickets for the games here has as yet developed no incident requiring the attention of the national commission. Members of the board arranged a meeting here late this afternoon at which plans for the series thus far carried out were to be approved.

Whether the commission would consider the action of Manager McGraw of the New York Nationals in quitting his team a few days ago with statements that his players did not follow instructions in the game which Brooklyn won, could not be learned. The only member of the commission here this forenoon was August Herrmann, who would say nothing on this subject.

President Johnson of the American league, and President Tener of the National league, the other members, were expected to arrive on an afternoon train.

The umpires who will act in the little games arranged in connection with the series will discuss the application of certain rules of each league to the game generally, with discussion as to which shall obtain on each grounds.

writer for a game to be played on either the morning or afternoon of Columbus day or Saturday, Oct. 14. Harrington will meet the manager of the Burnside in front of The Sun office this evening.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Who's gonna be the world's series hero in 1916?

Every year the folks speculate on it. And every year for the last 10 or so they have missed their guesses by a mile. Through some strange whim of Dame Fortune the men who have grabbed the glory and the plaudits in the past haven't been the stars of the competing nines. Rather, they have been the dubs.

And so, when you proceed about the business of doping out the bird who will wear the laurel wreath, it might be advisable to eliminate the names of the real stars and pick from among the poorer players. Unless the order of things is reversed in 1916, it will be some so-called "dub" who will rise up and grab unto himself all the spotlight rays.

Back in 1906 the White Sox were forced to insert a substitute called "Whitey" Roche, into the blue ribbon battles with the Cubs. It was the same Roche who was the highest single factor in winning a world's championship for the Sox. It was Roche's hitting and his brilliant fielding that started the baseball world—and beat the Cubs.

Adams Starred in 1909

In 1909 when the Pirates met the Tigers in the titular affair a youthful finger named Adams was left almost entirely out of the calculations by those who were comparing the strength of the buccaners. Yet it was that same "Bahe" who pitched—and won—three games and so clinched for the Pirates the larger end of the world's series purse.

J. Franklin Baker entered the 1911 battles in behalf of the Athletics, almost unnoticed. He emerged the most talked about ball player in the world. Baker, modest, quiet, but with tremendous power in his slender blades had caught shovels from the arms of both Mathewson and Marquard, and lifted them out of the lot. It was his long drives that enabled the Athletics to beat the Giants, and won for him the enduring title, "Home Run King."

The hero of 1912 was Joe Bush, the youthful pitcher for the Jacksons. When Connie Mack had used up Eddie Plank and Chief Bender in the early battles, the Giants figured they would have it soft for a day or two. Bush, the unknown kid, was inserted into the frolic. The Giants grinned when he walked into the box. They never grinned afterward. Bush tossed with them and his victory caused his praises to be sung throughout the land.

Gowdy, 1914; Lewis, 1915

"Hank" Gowdy was entirely ignored by those who studied the strength of the Braves and the Athletics. Yet it was "Hank" who established a record for terrific hitting that never may be beaten. He lammed the ball to all portions of the lot and the bulk of his drives were extra bases. During the regular season he hit far under .300; during the four-game world's series he battled for .515. He was a demon with the mace. He caught and threw to bases in a way that was superb. "Hank" rose to the greatest heights of his career during those four battles, and the things he did will live long in memory—and forever in baseball history.

In 1915 Lewis was the mightiest power in the attack of the Red Sox, and one of the real powers in defensive play. Time and again his scintillating fielding cut off Phillie rallies, and it was his bludgeon which helped to win at least two of the first four games, while the two hairy run swats exuded by this Lewis person routed the Phillies in the fifth combat and gave the world championship to the Red Sox.

Next!

M'GRAW TO STAY AS MANAGER OF GIANTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—John J. McGraw will continue to manage the New York National league baseball club next year, despite any reports to the contrary, says John B. Foster, secretary of the club.

"McGraw already has gone over the plans for next year with President Hempsstead," said Mr. Foster, "and has high hopes of leading the New York club to a pennant. His contract with the New York club has another year to run and it is not fair to him or the club to have rumors spread that he will not be with New York next year."

Despite the roasting he gave them in the game with Brooklyn Tuesday, the players of the New York club are seeking McGraw to present to him a collection of Shakespeare's works which they had purchased before his departure. There will be no public presentation ceremonies.

FORMER COLLEGE STARS TO OPPOSE INDIANS

The Indian football eleven will have a hard opponent at Bunting park tomorrow afternoon in the Antrim club of Cambridge, composed of former college players. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Coach Jackson Palmer has had the Indians out four times during the past week and he believes that the squad is now in condition to make a good showing. Desmond, the former high school star, has been obtained to play quarterback and will appear in the game tomorrow.

Mayor James E. O'Donnell has presented the Indians a new football and His Honor has been invited to make the kickoff at Bunting park tomorrow. John Nelson will referee. The Indians' lineup is as follows: E. Donnellan, qb.; J. Mahoney, rt.; J. Morris, lg.; M. Flynn and Rogers, c.; J. Morse, lg.; J. Quinn, lt.; McHugh, lg.; J. Flynn and Desmond, qb.; R. Donnellan, rbb.; Gleason, lb.; J. McIntire, lb.

MEGAPHONE SERVICE FOR WORLD'S SERIES GAMES

THE SUN AND COURIER-CITIZEN TO GIVE PLAY BY PLAY ACCOUNT ON ALTERNATE DAYS

As every fan and fanette in the city knows the World's series will open at Braves field, Boston tomorrow afternoon, when the Boston Red Sox, champions of the American league, will meet the Brooklyn Dodgers, winners of the National league pennant to decide which team will be proclaimed champions of the world. In order to give those who are not able to attend the games a chance to follow the progress of each contest The Sun and Courier-Citizen have mutually agreed to megaphone the games on alternate days. This move is made to relieve congestion in Merrimack square, and also to eliminate confusion caused by the two megaphone artists shouting the same play practically simultaneously. By the arrangements the crowd may assemble on one side of the street, and there hear every detail without turning from one side to the other. In past years thousands have congregated in the square, covering both sides and the middle of the street and this greatly hindered traffic, but now with all looking one way, confusion and congestion will be removed. Both papers, however, will give bulletins of the score by lines independently.

The games will start at 3 o'clock, and the megaphone artist will be at his post at 1:30 to give all details preliminary to the actual opening of the game. Then each and every play will be announced just as it occurs on the diamond. This service is made possible by a direct wire from the ball grounds to The Sun office. Just as soon as the game is over The Sun extra will appear on the street, with a complete and detailed account of the games.

Saturday, October 7th, is Quarter Day at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

The P & Q Shop CLOTHES FOR MEN

Once Again!

Men have learned to expect great things from the P & Q Shop in this and 20 other cities.

We've never been content to trudge along with the rank and file. The P & Q Shops—the pioneers in the field—have always been the creative force in the clothes-building industry—as 500,000 American men in various cities can testify.

And, this Fall, P & Q Clothes are no exception to the rule. We have again accomplished the "impossible"—again P & Q Clothes act as pacemakers in clothing progress.

We are not only the largest MAKERS and DISTRIBUTORS of $10-and-$15 Clothes in the world—but we're FARSIGHTED.

We saw the "writing on the wall" long 'fore woolen prices began their unheard of advance and good woollens became as scarce as hen's teeth. We filled our hearts full of nerve and our pockets full of checks and went out, when prices were rock bottom and paid spot cash for all the woollens in sight—enough to fill each and every one of the P & Q Shops in 20 cities from ceiling to cellar.

Ours has been an enviable record, but without hesitation we re-affirm that NOT ONLY do P & Q Fall Clothes represent our greatest achievements as clothes builders but by right of our "biggest in the world" buying capacity and our farsightedness.

$15 We Remain Loyal to the Famous P & Q High Standard of Quality Without Advance in Prices

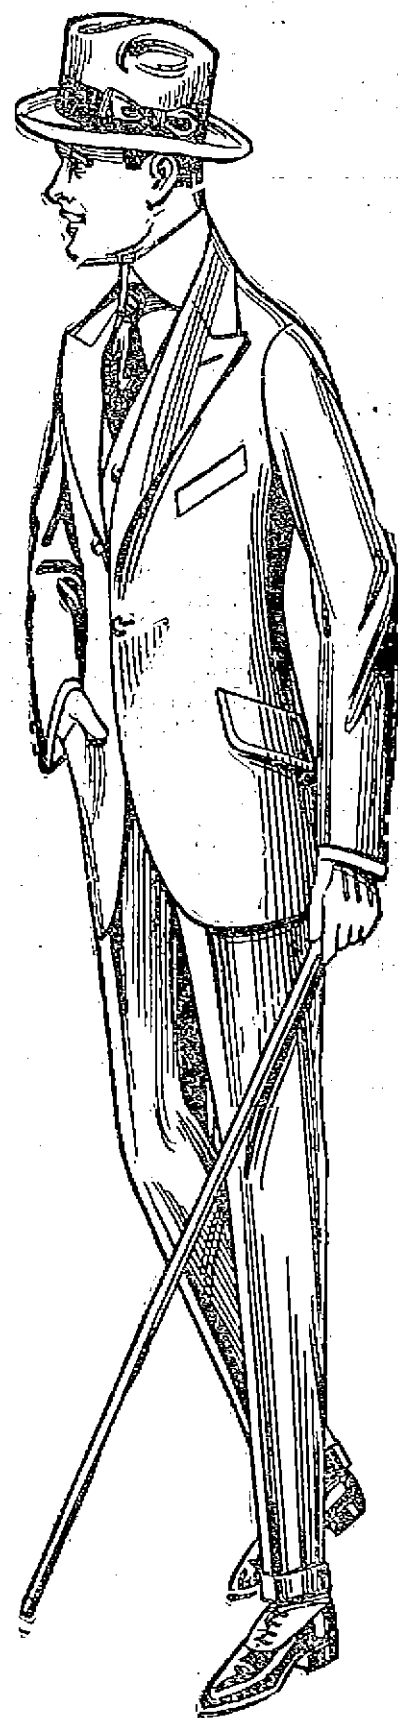

P & Q Fall Styles are the best accomplishment of a company that has ALWAYS produced amazing clothes values—AND TURNED THESE VALUES OVER TO THE PUBLIC "DIRECT FROM THE MAKER TO WEARER with the middlemen's profits eliminated.

We make the above statement in absolute sincerity and with full realization of our responsibility. And we back it up with an iron-bound, written guarantee of "your money back without question if you are not satisfied." Any man at all familiar with P & Q history will realize that no greater tribute than this could be paid to any clothes.

IN POLICE COURT RELIEVES SERIOUS CASE PRISONER GOT OF CHRONIC CONSTIPATION FURIOUS

After being sentenced to four months in the house of correction by Judge Burleigh in police court this forenoon, Joseph Costa, who hails from Ludlow, created a wild disturbance in his cell in the Market street building. He yelled so loud that it disturbed the court which was in session, tore his clothes and for a time it was thought he was going insane. Police officers attempted to quiet the prisoner but the more they talked to him the more furious he acted.

Costa has a wife and child in this city who are very sickly. According to the evidence he has neglected them recently and the woman has struggled along the best she could. She claimed that when Costa lived with her he abused her continually. She did not want to put up with his abuse again and the court imposed the sentence. Costa attempted to change his wife's mind in the court room but was ushered down stairs by officers. He then started his yelling which even woke up the prisoners who were peacefully slumbering off an extended drunk.

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing a coat valued at $35 from Catherine V. Tapley, of 71 French street, Joseph Graham was ordered to recognize in $300 surety for his appearance next Tuesday. The complainant told the court that her coat was taken

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin
Corrects Condition That Seemed Hopeless.

After suffering from chronic constipation until she was so run down she was unable to do any kind of work, Miss H. A. Frees, 299 Adams St., Dayton, Ohio, obtained a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and used it with such gratifying results that she continued the treatment and has written to Dr. Caldwell that her condition is again normal, and that she wants to recommend Syrup Pepsin to everyone who suffers with constipation.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, gentle in its action and free from gripping or other pain or discomfort. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, and, while acting readily on the most stubborn case of inactive bowels, is absolutely safe for the infant babe, as "the ideal family laxative" and should be kept on hand in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin costs only fifty cents a bottle and is sold in drug stores everywhere. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

from the front hall of her home. How the defendant entered the house she did not know. The coat was recovered in the second hand store of Harry Levi by Lieut. Martin Maher.

Charles Vayo was sentenced to one month in jail for drunkenness and two other men were given suspended sentences to the house of correction.

In the juvenile court Leopold Paradis was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory after being found guilty of assault and battery. Through his attorney, George F. Toye, he appealed.

A TEAR DOWN WEEK

Shade Trees to be Cleared of All Advertising Matter Fastened Upon Them in Violation of Law

The week of October 3 to 14 inclusive has been set aside by the Massachusetts Forestry association as "Tear-Down" week and accordingly the association has sent a letter to the tree wardens of each city in the state as well as to various organizations such as boards of trade and others to do their utmost in stripping the streets in the cities and along the byways of the advertisements which are nailed thereon, and which is a breach of the law.

Supt. Kernan of the local park department, who is also tree warden for Lowell is in receipt of a communication from the association and to a Sun reporter he said he will do all in his power to enforce the law in regard to the nailing of advertisements on trees.

There is no reason why our public shade trees should be disfigured in this manner and surely our highways would be better off without these obnoxious signs. It would cost but a few dollars in the average town to have someone travel over all the roads and take down these signs and we believe that the tree wardens are justified in spending a part of his appropriation in this work.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Vaudeville never looked better to Lowell audiences than it does at the present time, and backing up that statement is the fact that audiences at the B. F. Keith theatre are very large at every performance. This is the only place in town where the varieties are presented, and this present week's assortment of acts is quite the best of the season thus far. In the lead are Will J. Ward and his Five Symphonic Piano Girls, giving what is termed a "Musical Bouquet." Many popular melodies are played on the five pianos and the volume of tone is extraordinary. Ward is a good singer, and his rich brogue adds not a little to the pleasure of his performance. The girls sing and dance, and the leader of the group is especially accomplished. Moving down a notch and we come to "The Meat Round," an original comedy by J. C. Nugent, and in which he appears with Miss Julia York. This skit sparkles with witty sayings and although it runs 20 minutes there is never a let-up in the brilliancy. The outcome is as smart as it is unexpected. Jack Donahue, the young man with the perpetual motion feet, ranks as one of the best recent dancers we have ever seen. He talks in a humorous vein and altogether furnishes enjoyable entertainment. Miss Jean Berzac and her Petit Circus constitutes another pleasing spot on the bill. Miss Berzac has two plum ponies who do some pretty stunts, and in addition she has an unrivalee mule. Literally

It is that, for five men do their level best to mount the animal and fail to succeed. Fritz and Lucy Bruch, instrumentalists, play faultlessly several well known classics and Sonora and in an up-to-date manner, these stories are very interesting, despite their rather stretched possibilities. The cast surrounding Mr. Stevens is an excellent one, and quite a few well-known players are found on the roster.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Today and tomorrow are the last chances offered the theatregoers of this city to see "Sinners," that remarkable drama which is being presented at the Opera House by the Emerson Players. The complete cast, and though the play could run for a second week, previous contracts make it impossible.

The Emerson Players are scoring their biggest hit of the season in this brilliant play, which tells the story of a young girl who believes that the only way to attain success is through the channel of a big city. She finds things very different though and falls in with a crowd of "sinners," among whom is a schoolboy, a thief, a gambler, a prostitute, a man of letters, a man of science, a man of business, a man of law, a man of religion, a man of politics, a man of war, a man of peace, a man of love, a man of hate, a man of hope, a man of despair, a man of faith, a man of doubt, a man of courage, a man of cowardice, a man of honor, a man of dishonor, a man of glory, a man of shame, a man of triumph, a man of defeat, a man of success, a man of failure, a man of life, a man of death, a man of heaven, a man of hell, a man of angels, a man of devils, a man of saints, a man of sinners, a man of all things, a man of nothing.

Next week the Emerson Players will present "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which is one of the best plays ever offered on the stage. This play has been secured by special arrangement with Sanger and Jordan, the well known New York play brokers, and with Miss Robson, who is usually the star in a starring vehicle in Chicago and other big western cities. For two years Miss Robson has been starring in this play with wonderful success. Rose Morrison will be seen in the title role, and with her are Misses Helen Hagan, James T. Galloway, Gertrude Shirley, Millard Vincent, David Baker, Ernest East, Frank Wright and other members of the company do exceptionally good work in the characters, while a beautiful scenic production is given.

Sunday afternoon and night the Opera House will present their big vaudeville and picture program with five great acts and the latest and best features in pictures. There will be just two performances, the matinee at 2:15, and the evening performance at 7:30, while the prices charged will be 10, 15 and 25 cents.

Of great importance to the vaudeville lovers of this city is the announcement that among the acts appearing for Sunday is "The Three Scamps," one of the best singing and musical acts in the varieties. The Mansfield Sisters and Morrell and Andrews are other big acts. There will be two other headliners, making one of the best and longest programs ever offered in Lowell. Seats are now selling for both performances.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Again today and tomorrow will the powerful actor, Theodore Roberts and the beautiful and clever Anita King be featured in the leading roles of the five-act feature, "Anton the Terrible," a play of dark Russia and deeply laid plots. Also on this program is another five-act feature, "Friday the 13th," by Thomas W. Lawson, with Robert Warwick in the principal role. This is a play of finance and its results, the laughs are in the title role, created by Charlie Chaplin in his latest, "At 1 A. M." Other pictures will also be shown today and tomorrow at the Merrimack Square theatre.

ROYAL THEATRE
Serials are a reliable dish for picture lovers. These two or three-reel episodes flashed on the screen from week to week, serve to whet a delicious appetite. The program today at the Royal theatre are the sixth episodes of both "The Yellow Menace," and "Liberty." Two of the most sensational serial features ever produced by Edwin Stevens acting the part of

All Slagh, stands as the greatest thing about the play. He reminds you of the blood-thirsty villains of old-time melodrama and Diamond Dick, novels of the past. As translated to the films, in an up-to-date manner, these stories are very interesting, despite their rather stretched possibilities. The cast surrounding Mr. Stevens is an excellent one, and quite a few well-known players are found on the roster.

"Liberty" tells a tale of the Mexican Insurrection, and deals with the adventures of a young American girl, who is in love with a soldier. Marie Walcamp is genuinely good as "Liberty," bold, dashing and courageous to the limit—some of the stunts she has to pull off are very dangerous, and she does them all with admirable "sang-froid," as we say in Paris. Jack Holt as the soldier hero in love with "Liberty" is also very dashing and also somewhat handsome. Eddie Polo, Universal's strong man, does some big stunts, such as fighting 20 burly Mexicans, throwing the bus and other scenes of the kind. Regardless of how good an actor he is, his muscles are real, and most of the fights staged are very much so, for a few of the portly super who have been buffeted around by the strong man, are sometimes seen with real blood spurting from wounds received in the fights.

So with these good serials, and a special seven-reel show shown besides, the Royal theatre requests your patronage, which is truly deserved. Coming soon, "The Shielding Shadow," a new Pathe serial.

OWL THEATRE
Morphine, that terrible drug, which has wrecked so many lives and one of the worst curses of mankind, forms the basis of the plot of "The Little Church Around the Corner," the new World release which will be the attraction at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow. This new film is a powerful dramatization of the famous play of the same name which brought tears to

STATE INVESTIGATION OF MILK CONTROVERSY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A difference only as to the length of the contracts to be given by the New York distributors to the farmers existed today when the state opened its investigation of the drawback which has kept this city on a short supply of milk for several days. One of the big distributors had offered to pay the farmers the increase of one cent a quart, which they demanded, but had refused to make this contract for six months. As the farmers' league insisted, other leading distributors had not agreed to this concession, but some of the smaller dealers had complied with the demands of the league.

CHANGES IN CARFARE ON THE SUBURBAN LINES

The public service commission has approved a revision of fares and transfer privileges on certain of the interurban routes of the Bay State Street Railway Co., to become effective on October 9. To avoid confusion it would be well for the public to familiarize itself with the changes in this vicinity.

Retaining cash, ticket or transfer limits will not be changed. But on certain of the company's lines the unit of fare within these limits becomes 6 cents where it is now 5 cents. Many of the routes are not affected at all.

On routes where changes are to be made, it has become necessary to adopt the following: A special form of transfer to cost 1 cent; a rebate transfer, costing for the payment by the conductor of 1 cent to the passenger properly presenting the same; an extension ride check to cost 1 cent; a 5-cent ticket.

School children may still ride for less than the regular fare. But in zones where the cash fare becomes 6 cents, a 3-cent scholar's ticket must be collected by the conductor.

Following are the changes to be made in this vicinity:

On the Dracut Center-Medford, via Billerica Center route, the through fare will be as follows: From Winthrop square, Medford, to Woburn square, 6 cents; from Woburn square to Burlington-Billerica line, 6 cents; from Burlington-Billerica line to Billerica Center, 6 cents; from Billerica Center to Billerica-Chelmsford line, 5 cents; from Chelmsford-Billerica line to Merrimack square, 5 cents; from Merrimack square to Dracut Center, 5 cents.

Returning, the through fare will be: From Dracut Center to Merrimack square, 5 cents; from Merrimack square to High street, 5 cents; from High street to Billerica-Burlington line, 5 cents; from Billerica-Burlington line to Burlington Center, 6 cents; from Burlington Center to Woburn square, 6 cents; from Woburn square to Winthrop square, 6 cents.

These local fares will be in force: Between Dracut Center and Center street, 5 cents; between Center street and Merrimack square and High street, 5 cents; between Chelmsford-Billerica line and Billerica-Burlington line, 6 cents; between Billerica Center and Burlington Center, 6 cents; between Billerica-Burlington line and Woburn square, 6 cents; between Woburn square and Winthrop square, 6 cents.

On trips to Dracut, passengers boarding between High street, Billerica, and Billerica-Chelmsford line may pay either a 6-cent cash fare or a 5-cent ticket.

On trips to Medford, passengers boarding between Chelmsford-Billerica line and High street pay a 5-cent fare. If they desire to ride beyond Hill street locally in the town of Billerica they should purchase at time of paying fare a 1-cent extension ride check. This will be collected at Hill street.

There will be no change in transfer privileges.

On the Tyngsboro-Dracut route, the through fare will be as follows: From Merrimack square to Vesper Country club, 5 cents; from Vesper Country club to end of line, Tyngsboro, 6 cents. Returning: From end of line in Tyngsboro to B. & M. R.R. crossing near Stevens corner, 6 cents; railroad crossing to Merrimack square, 5 cents.

These local fares will be established: Between Merrimack square and Vesper Country club, 5 cents; between Tyngsboro and railroad crossing, 6 cents.

On trips to Tyngsboro, passengers boarding between railroad crossing and Vesper Country club pay a 5-cent fare. If they desire to ride beyond Vesper Country club to the end of the line in Tyngsboro, they must at the time of paying fare purchase a 1-cent extension ride check. This will be collected at the Country club point.

On trips to Lowell, passengers boarding between Vesper Country club and railroad crossing, North Chelmsford, may pay either a 6-cent cash fare or present a 5-cent ticket.

There is no change in existing transfer privileges.

On the Lowell-Malden route, via Reading, the through fare will be as follows: From Malden square to

Germany Wants Wilson to End War

HOME RULE DEPENDS ON NATIONAL SANITY SAYS JOHN REDMOND

WATERFORD, Ireland, Oct. 6.—In a notable address to his constituents here this afternoon John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader in parliament, declared that despite the recent rebellion, "with all its inevitable aftermath of brutalities, stupidities and inflamed passions" home rule for Ireland is safe, if Ireland remains sane.

Mr. Redmond also declared that conscription could never be forced upon Ireland, adding:

"I cannot bring myself to believe that, malign though the influences at work are, the government will be insane enough to challenge a conflict with Ireland on this subject. Conscription for Ireland, far from helping the army and the war, would be the most fatal thing that could happen."

It would be resisted in every village in Ireland. Its attempted enforcement would be a scandal which would ring around the world. It would produce no additional men."

Continuing Mr. Redmond said:

"The mere threat is paralyzing recruiting, which, mark you, is not dead as some people say. The latest figures, indeed, show that from the date of the rising (Easter Sunday) until September, 6000 recruits were received. This demand for conscription is not a genuine military demand. It is a base political device put forward by men who want to injure and discredit Ireland's political future."

The way to continue to get recruits is far different. Appease the inflamed feeling in Ireland; withdraw martial law, make it plain that the defense of the realm act will be administered, not as it is being administered now in different parts of Ireland, but in the same spirit as it is administered in England, Scotland and Wales; treat prisoners arrested during the rising as political prisoners; put an end to insults and attacks upon Ireland and recognize generally what she has done.

"On these lines the government may succeed in recruiting, even after all that has happened. But for conscription, that way lies madness, ruin and disaster."

Mr. Redmond said it was absolutely false that he or his colleagues ever favored a scheme providing for a permanent division of the ancient nation. The Lloyd George plan which was favored was definitely for the limited period of the war he continued, its object being to give twenty-six counties an opportunity of inducing the other six counties to come in voluntarily after the war by an exhibition of successful, tolerant, sane government in the south and west. The movement an attempt was made to give this arrangement a complexion of permanency it was rejected.

"The way this matter now stands," said Mr. Redmond, "is: the home rule act is on the statute book. The act which suspends its operation provides that if it is not put into operation before the war ends then it comes into operation automatically at the end of the war. Nothing has altered nor can alter that unless it be a new act of parliament. But it is true that the government is pledged to introduce an amending bill when the act comes into operation. That bill must be considered on its merits when the time comes. Our hands are perfectly free."

"For my part, I desire a friendly, peaceful settlement with Ulster. We do not want to coerce any part of Ulster which is against coming in at first, but we will not tolerate the coercion of any part of Ulster that favors coming in at first. For my part, I would oppose a provision in the amending bill which provided for the permanent exclusion of any portion of Ireland. For good or ill that scheme is dead."

Mr. Redmond said the present situation was the most trying crisis in his recollection and that a bad blow was struck at Ireland by the uprising.

"All through our history," he continued, "some malign influence has seemed ever at hand, just on the eve of victory, to dash the cup of comfort from the lips of Ireland, and unfortunately almost always that influence has come from Ireland herself."

The constitutional movement must continue, he declared. "It would be putting our people down as fools," he went on, "if it was seriously proposed that they abandon or break up that movement in favor of the insane ideals of those who have invited Ireland once again to have recourse to arms against the British empire." It was impossible, however, he insisted, that the relations with the government should be as they were before and the Irish party now found itself absolutely in opposition to the coalition government for it was face to face again with the Unionist stronghold in Dublin Castle. So far as the war was concerned, he said, Ireland's attitude was unchanged and she would do nothing calculated to postpone for one instant the victorious ending of the conflict.

"I appeal to the same men of Ireland," he added, "to rally to protect her from the conspiracy of all that is feeble, foolish and irresponsible now on foot."

GERARD COMING WITH MESSAGE FROM KAISER

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The New York Evening Post today publishes a story saying that it has been learned from a trustworthy source that Ambassador James W. Gerard, now on his way back from Germany, will lay before President Wilson a request that the president use his good offices in suing for peace with the allies.

"Germany has definitely decided to apply to President Wilson," the article reads, "to use his good offices in suing for peace with the allies. This was learned today from sources in a position to have absolutely trustworthy information on these matters."

"It is understood that Ambassador James W. Gerard, who is on his way over here, will lay the kaiser's request before President Wilson within a week. It is a fact, however positively it may be denied officially, that the possibility of President Wilson acting as mediator has been discussed by German officials with Ambassador Gerard. It is therefore by no means surprising that the reports now take definite shape in connection with Mr. Gerard's trip to this country."

Ambassador Gerard is on board the steamship Frederick VIII, due in New York about Tuesday next.

SMALL IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON MURDER CHARGE

MOUNTAINVIEW, N. H., Oct. 6.—

Frederic L. Small, formerly a Boston stock broker, was held for the grand jury on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Florence A. Small, after a preliminary hearing in the district court today.

The ruling by Judge Charles S. Miles followed immediately the conclusion of the prosecution's closing arguments, which were made by Attorney General James F. Tuttle. This man had the motive, he had attention to the testimony of Fred the apparent means, he is such a man as would commit the crime. He is the man who did commit this crime," the prosecutor asserted in closing.

No Witnesses For Defense

The defense had introduced no witnesses but William S. Matthews, senior counsel for Small, argued at length against holding the prisoner for grand jury inquiry. He set up the probability of the act being that of a man seeking liquor, and called the testimony of the testimony of Fred the apparent means, he is such a remember where he was during the day or night of Sept. 25, the date of Mrs. Small's death.

Doan had admitted, he said, that he had been drinking that day. Addressing the court counsel asked: "What do you think of the evidence of a man who does not remember his whereabouts on that day or night and who did not know how he received the scratch on his face? I do not accuse Mr. Bean of the crime but it might be used as a parallel case."

The crime, in the opinion of counsel, must have been committed by a local man. The hearing held here, he said, offered the court an opportunity to "search out the real criminal and bring him to justice."

Counsel contended that the fact that Small would receive $20,000 insurance money through his wife's death should not be held against him. "That was only reasonable protection," he said. He asserted that the defendant's

World's Series Megaphone Service

To lessen the obstruction of traffic through Merrimack square and also to avoid the confusion caused by two megaphones shouting the same thing to the same crowd, The Sun and the Courier-Citizen have agreed to alternate in giving the megaphone reports of the World's Series games to the public at Merrimack Square, beginning Saturday, Oct. 7 and ending with the series. This, it is believed, will be more satisfactory to the public as in the past each megaphone has interfered with the other to such an extent that very often the people could not tell what either said. Moreover the crowd by this means will face in one direction and can be more easily arranged so as not to obstruct the passage of the cars and other vehicles.

The schedule arranged by mutual agreement between the two papers is as follows:

Saturday, Oct. 7, Courier-Citizen, Merrimack Sq.	Wednesday, Oct. 11, Lowell Sun, Merrimack Sq.
Monday, Oct. 9, Lowell Sun, Merrimack Sq.	Thursday, Oct. 12, Courier-Citizen, Paige St. (To free Merrimack Square for paraders.)
Tuesday, Oct. 10, Courier-Citizen, Merrimack Sq.	Friday, Oct. 13, Lowell Sun, Merrimack Sq.

ANOTHER CASE OF CHILD PLAGUE REPORTED TO HEALTH BOARD

The twelfth case of infantile paralysis in Lowell since the disease became a generally epidemic in July, and the fourteenth case since the beginning of the year, was reported at the office of the board of health today. The patient is Miss Bernice E. Keen of 15 Fairfax street. She is 15 years old and she is older than any of the others whose cases have been reported this year. The next oldest was a girl of 13.

The Keen girl, it was stated at the board of health office, has been sick since Oct. 2 and it is understood that hers is a very severe case. She is now at the Lowell hospital.

The case was reported by Dr. William L. Wiggin, who was called in last evening to see her. Dr. Wiggin gave as his opinion that the case was one of infantile paralysis and his diagnosis was confirmed this morning by Dr. Charles E. Simpson of the state board of health.

The girl's parents are dead and she lives with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Mor-

SUPT. WELCH MUST NOW GET AFTER DRUNKS

Mayor James E. O'Donnell's letter to Police Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department published in The Sun, yesterday, relative to law enforcement in Lowell, has stirred up a real live discussion.

Mayor O'Donnell has put the matter of increased drunkenness squarely up to Supt. Welch. "There was a time," which is still fresh in the public mind, when Supt. Welch said his hands were tied on the enforcement of the liquor laws. Judging from the very plain and candid letter addressed by His Honor the mayor, to the superintendent of police, the latter cannot now offer any such excuse for the increase in drunkenness and other violations of the liquor law which proper police vigilance should prevent.

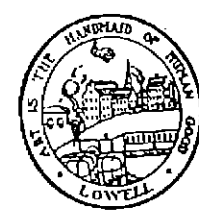

In reference to the drunkenness referred to by His Honor, the mayor, and made the subject of sermons in church pulpits, it appears that the complaint is based upon the unusual number of intoxicated persons seen on the streets rather than any increase in the number haled into court.

It is true that the records of police court show a greater number of arrests thus far this year than for the corresponding months last year, but in spite of this it seems that a very large proportion of the drunks escape arrest. Thus the saturnalia proceeds, although Supt. Welch is authorized, instructed and directed by the mayor to enforce the laws strictly against such offenders as against all who violate the law in any respect.

The public is awaiting such action as will put a stop to scenes of riot and drunkenness on the public streets. If Supt. Welch fails to take such action, then it will be up to Mayor O'Donnell to find an official who will put on the lid and keep it on.

When clergymen come out to denounce existing conditions they must have good grounds for their charges. The responsibility for these conditions rests for the present upon the shoulders of Supt. Welch of the police department.

It is quite generally conceded that

MANY LOWELL PEOPLE AT THE BROCKTON FAIR

Yesterday was called Boston day at the Brockton fair, but Lowell and other cities were well represented. The day was such an ideal one for motoring that persons with automobiles took advantage of the weather. A great many more went by trolley and it seemed that wherever side or corner of the fair grounds one visited one was sure to meet somebody from Lowell. The official figures gave the attendance at over 50,000.

It seemed as if the stream of humanity would never stop flowing through the gates. The ticket sellers were kept on the move and were relayed from time to time. Long before the noon hour the street car and jitney traffic was so heavy that hundreds walked a mile and a half to the fair grounds, being unable to secure transportation at any cost.

All the streets within a half-mile of the fair grounds were packed with autos soon after 10 o'clock so that progress was slow. For this reason the stands were slow in filling, as the patrons had to leave the exhibition hall and the midway before taking their seats for the track and horse show events.

Soon after noon, however, the big grand stand began to fill and within an hour there was not a seat left. The ticket offices were closed, every one of the 12,000 seats having been sold.

The midway, even with the grand stand filled, was so congested that it took nearly an hour to traverse the half-mile of side show attractions which lined both sides of the roadway.

Cream of Amateur Athletics

The cream of the amateur athletes of New England competed for the big prizes offered for the field and track games at the Brockton fair. One record was broken, Harry Barwise, Boston A.A., bettering his record, made last year, of 6 feet by half an inch. Competition was keen in most of the events particularly in the 100-yard dash for the Plymouth county championship.

The event was won by Roger S. Fitch of Bridgewater, but the finish was so close that it was several minutes before the judges made the decision. Ernest J. Carver of this city, who won the event three years ago and who finished third the past two years, was right even with Fitch all the way. George Kullman, another Brockton flyer, was third.

J. W. O'Brien of Brockton won the 550-yard run for the Plymouth county championship in a pretty race with James W. Durkin of Middleboro. Ralph Robinson of this city was third. John C. Goldthwaite of Canton, who won the 100-yard handicap last year, repeated. James Henigan of Malden won the three-mile run from the 40-yard mark. Harold E. Weeks of Boston scratched, gave him a stiff battle all the way.

The Brockton high school won the school relay race, and Boston Y.M.C.A. won the team race for Y.M.C.A. teams.

Boston A.A. won the banner for scoring the most points, totaling 15; the Irish-American A.A. of Boston was second with 12 points, and Boston Y.M.C.A. third with eight points. William A. Sullivan of Lawrence won eight points and took the individual prize. The 440 yard, novice, was won by John McIlwraith of Bridgewater with J. Hurley of Lowell a close second. Time, 1:15.5.

Two Balloon Ascensions

There were two balloon ascensions yesterday, the first one by Fremont L. Ross of Rutland, Vt., and the second by George F. Bumpus, the Brockton operator, who made his first ascension yesterday.

Ross went up about 2000 feet, cutting loose quickly as the wind was driving the big gas bag toward the center of the city. He landed easily in the yard of Mrs. William L. Douglas on West Elm street.

Stirring Harness Racing

The track program was featured by some of the best racing in years, particularly in the 2:09 class, pacing event, in which B. M. driven cleverly by Small, not only won the three fastest heats ever raced on the track since the fair opened 34 years ago, but the three fastest since 1882, when Prince Albert, 1:59 1/2, won three heats in 2:07, 2:06 1/2, and 2:05 1/2. B. M. was very close to this record with successive heats in 2:09 1/4, 2:08 1/4, and 2:07 1/4.

The 3-year-old class, trotting Futurity, for a purse of $2500, was won by Binworth, a son of Bingen. Binworth took a record of 2:03 1/4 at the Grand Circuit races at Syracuse and today had an easy time winning in straight heats.

Chester Lassell won second money with Setze Girl, one of his breeding. Childs owned by the late Frank Lang of Benton, Vt., well driven by J. J. Furbush of Boston, promising in the Metropolitan Driving club, won the 2:22 class, trotting, for amateurs to start.

BUILD UP YOUR BLOOD

It is a hopeless task to try to restore your health while your blood is deficient in quantity or quality.

The blood circulates throughout every portion of the body except the hair and nails. It takes the nourishment from the food and distributes it to the various muscles and organs. It takes also any medication that is administered through the mouth. The blood is the only means by which medicine can reach the nerves. If the blood is thin its carrying capacity is lessened because it is the red corpuscles in the blood that carry oxygen and other needed constituents to the various parts of the body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People increase the red corpuscles in the blood. They enable it to absorb more oxygen, to carry more life and strength to the weakened organs. In any disease in which the patient becomes thin and pale Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be used successfully to combat the anemia and build up the health and strength.

"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet, full of good information. Every mother and every growing girl should have one. It is sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Price 50 cents.

first in all three heats. Exito, favorite in the 2:16 class, trotting event, won the second and third heats, but lost first money to Cella Dillon, who won the first, fourth and fifth heats.

Little Baticie, from the Newport stock farm, a much improved pacer over last year and well driven by Fred Dillon, won the 2:16 class, pacing event, in straight heats in the fastest time in this class in the history of the fair. The summary:

B.C. M'GUIRE'S MINSTRELS

AT ASSOCIATE HALL

Lowell lovers of up-to-the-minute music and minstrelsy were treated to something worth while last evening when B. C. McGuire's minstrel troupe gave the opening performance of the season at Associate Hall. There was an immense attendance and enjoyment fairly bubbled over, and then came this show is the idea of Bernard McGuire of Lowell, who has had two most successful seasons, touring practically all of the eastern and mid-western states. It is unique in its line and is proving a success beyond the expectations of its manager. Last years season was for 50 weeks, and this year the prospects are even better. Last night's opening performance was a riot of fun and frolic with real talent displayed in the song numbers. Although the cast was gotten together in short order, the program went along smoothly and there were no dull moments. The songs were varied enough to keep up the interest of those present and the soloists were all ahead of the average minstrel standard. A score of male voices and a string orchestra supplied the melody and the running George Twohey made one of the hits medley of nonsense was kept up by end men Mack and Hawkins, with Herbert McGuire as interlocutor. After a splendid overture, Felix Tithaut sang in fine style as the first number "Our Flag and Uncle Sam." Edward Nicholson rendered "There's a Little Bit of Bad in Every Good Little Girl" and was obliged to give an encore. John Hawkins gave "Angel of male voices and a string orchestra" in an acceptable manner, and supplied the melody and the running George Twohey made one of the hits of the evening with "My Home Town in Ireland." One of the most pleasing song numbers was "The Waxen Lion," sung by Hickey Da. selection of Ben Drohan and Master Charles Holland. Mr. Drohan brought out the force and vigor of the song, and Master Holland joined in the refrain from the gallery. Several encores were demanded, and if the duo could respond to all they'd be singing still. Francis Maguire sang "Thora" in a very finished manner, and Bernard Horan sang "I've Got More Than My Share," and was roundly applauded. A genuinely funny offering was Billy Mack's rendering of "He May Be Old but He Has Young Ideas." The closing chorus was in line with the excellence of the rest of the performance. Musical selections were by the B. C. McGuire Band orchestra with Frank McDonough at the piano. James Spillane operated the spotlight. General dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

PRIZES FOR HOOD'S FARM
In the national swine show just held at Omaha, Neb., the Berkshire herd from the Colt farm at Bristol, R. I., won 28 prizes, including the champion and the grand champion boar. This herd was bred at the Hood farm in Tewksbury, and purchased recently by the Colt farm at a fancy price. J. E. Dodge, the manager at the Hood farm, had made a clean-up in the west last year and claimed to have produced the best of the rest of the performance. On the strength of this claim, prizes went soaring at the Berkshire sale held at the Hood farm, but the claim appears to have been fully justified.

NINE LIVES LOST IN COLLEGE FIRE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—Nine men are known to have perished in a fire that destroyed the central portion of the main building of Christian Brothers college here yesterday. Two of the dead are members of the Christian Brothers order, who were carried to the basement from the third floor when a wall collapsed. Seven freshmen were taken out alive, but badly hurt. The brothers who were killed are: the Rev. Brother Cormac, aged 34, and the Rev. Brother Clement, aged 72.

The fire was discovered by the registrar of the college, Brother Abban. He turned in an alarm and hurried to the dining hall in the basement, where 165 students and faculty members of the college were at breakfast. They left the building in orderly fashion.

The loss is estimated at more than $300,000, partially covered by insurance.

The college will resume regular class work Friday in the Smith academy building, where temporary quarters have been offered by the trustees of Washington university. The cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained.

PRES. WILSON SAYS U. S. IS READY TO FIGHT

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 6.—President Wilson declared to the thousands who crowded the Omaha auditorium to hear him last night that America is as ready to fight as any nation in the world, but that the cause must be just. After the war, he said, the United States must join a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world. And for the next decade, said he, "we have got to serve the world. The swing of our destiny has at last become as wide as the horizon."

The day was one long triumph for the president, and in him the campaign spirit was rampant. Omaha's streets were packed with thousands of people from nearby cities and from other states, gathered for the celebration of Nebraska's 50th anniversary, and they cheered frantically every time Wilson appeared. It was an impressive demonstration of approval which delighted the president and his political advisers who characterized it as the greatest reception of his career.

One Busy Day

Omaha was in gala attire. All the buildings were festooned with American flags, the windows were crowded with onlookers during the anniversary parade, and bands played constantly popular and martial music.

The president left the parade for an hour, then reviewed it, attended a luncheon and dinner, visited the national swimming show, held several political conferences and delivered three speeches. In the morning, coming to Omaha, he made brief speeches to crowds at towns along the way. Last night he left for Long Branch, N. J., where he will arrive Saturday morning. All in all it was a busy, satisfying day.

The president discussed the European war, peace and American business in his three speeches. He declared America is as ready to fight as any nation in the world, but that its cause must be just. After the war, he said, this nation must join a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world.

"For the next decade," he said, "we have got to serve the world. That alters every commercial question; it alters every political question; it alters every question of domestic development." He denied that "the commerce" of recent years has chiefly consisted in exports stimulated by the war. He said at last night's dinner that he had been greatly pleased by the reception accorded him during the day.

Master of America

"The thinking, planning brain is the master of America," said the president in discussing the broad view of the people of Nebraska.

Seldom before has the president received such an upsurge of cheering as greeted him from the thousands of people packing the Omaha auditorium last night. Calls of "Three cheers for our next president" were cheered. The majority of the crowd was men, but many women were present. A great crowd packed the streets outside. For several minutes there was such calls as "Who kept us out of war?"—Wilson! "Who prevented the strike?"—Wilson! "Who saved the nation?"—Wilson!

Governor Morehead of Nebraska introduced the president. Every mention of Mr. Wilson's name evoked applause.

EARNINGS OF THE B. & M. SHOW GREAT GAIN

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The earnings of the Boston & Maine railroad for the year ending June 30, 1916, were $1,065,821, while during the preceding year it sustained a loss of $331,482. Nearly all the increase in revenue came from the transportation of freight, according to the report of J. H. Hustis, former president, now receiver of the road.

The report states that the road's passenger business has been disappointing, revenue from this source decreasing because of the greater use of the automobile and the refusal of the public service commission to allow sufficient increases in fares.

Operating revenues were $2,075,428, a gain of $5,402,379, or about 11 per cent. over last year, while operating expenses increased $225,188. The net operating revenue was $1,850,239.

Mr. Hustis says in the report that if suitable transportation service is to be furnished, the road's credit must be such as will permit raising funds for necessary improvements and development.

"In all discussions of the 'eight-hour law' and its increased wage costs," said Mr. Hustis, "it was made evident that such additional wage costs must be transferred to the public in the form of increased rates. If this need of suitable transportation service were to be met.

"It will therefore be the intention of the management to make application to the state tribunals for increased rates when the effect of the application of the law is known."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The installation of the recently elected officers of Court St. Paul, C.O. F., took place last evening at a regular meeting of the members of the organization held in C.M.A.C. hall with Chief Ranger Alfred Lebel in the chair. State Deputy A. Beauchemin of West Somerville presided over the installation and he was assisted by Onesime Tremblay and Eugene Trudel of Court St. Antoine. The officers inducted into office were as follows: Chaplain, Rev. Augustin Griton, O.M. I.; chief ranger, John Flaminio; vice chief ranger, Michael Bourdon; past secretary, Raoul Monier; financial secretary, Arthur Robillard; treasurer, Arthur Lavoie; orator, Etienne Raymond; trustee, J. B. Dubuque; wardens, Edmond Lambert and Joseph Forget; sentinels, Emile Lavoie and R. Pelletier.

One of the numbers of the evening included the presentation of a C.O.F. ring to the retiring chief executive, Alfred Lebel. Deputy Beauchemin of West Somerville made the presentation. Interesting remarks on the record of the organization were made by many members. A varied social program was carried out during the latter part of the evening.

REV. MR. LINDSEY HAS CHANGED HIS MIND

At a meeting of the North Billerica Baptist society held last evening a communication was read from Rev. Mr. Lindsey of Harwich stating that he would be unable to accept the pastorate of the church. Rev. Mr. Lindsey was recently called to the North Billerica church and he answered that he would accept and be here the latter part of the month. He later notified the committee that his parishioners in Harwich had persuaded him to remain there.

If Too Fat Get More Fresh Air

USE MODERATE IN YOUR DIET AND REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT. TAKE OIL OF KOREIN.

Lack of fresh air it is said weakens the oxygen carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs are hindered thereby. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed.

Fat put on by indoor life is unhealthy and it nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat. Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air; breathe deeply, and get from A. M. Jones & Co. or any druggist a box of oil of Korea capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of Korea is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion and even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight.

COLUMBUS DAY PARADE
AND LINE OF MARCHALL THE PARADERS WANT TO SEE
MARCH

Those who have arranged to turn out in the Columbus day parade think they should be privileged to see the entire parade as they would in counter marching on some portion of the route. Already several protests have been lodged at this office over the fact that the route as arranged does not provide for any counter-march. Many of those who put themselves to the inconvenience and expense of turning out believe that they should be shown some consideration by the committee in charge of the route so that they would be able to see the entire procession. It is recalled that those who participated in the recent Preparedness parade were privileged to see but a small portion of it although it was one of the largest demonstrations ever held in Lowell.

It is claimed that under the present arrangements the route for the Columbus day parade will be almost too short for such a large number of companies. Hence, it would appear that the route might be extended over Bridge street and thus offer an opportunity for counter march on the return. This would relieve the congestion in Merrimack square by giving the people of Centralville an opportunity to view the parade from their own side of the bridge. If not too late it would be well for the committee to make this suggestion to the paraders themselves if not for the benefit of the public at large.

The Illiterate Minors

The following letter sent to employers of illiterate minors relative to the attendance of the latter at the evening schools is self explanatory:

Office of the Supt. of Schools,
Lowell, October 4, 1916.
To the Employer of Any Illiterate Minor.

Dear Sir: I am endeavoring to see that the legal requirements as to the attendance at evening schools of all illiterate minors are scrupulously enforced and know that I can count upon the willing co-operation of yourself and all those who have charge in any way of illiterate minors who may be in your service.

I most respectfully ask that you send at your earliest convenience to the office of the superintendent of schools a list of the illiterate minors in your service, giving the age, residence, and name of overseer in each case.

Allow me at this time to call your attention to the printed matter on the educational certificate, a perusal of which will show that it is incumbent upon the employer to see that every illiterate minor in his employ attends evening school regularly.

Too much emphasis cannot be given to the fact that while the law makes it the duty of the city to provide evening school facilities for illiterate minors, it is clearly the legally prescribed duty of an employer to see that every illiterate minor in his employ attends evening school regularly.

As reports come to the evening schools from time to time that careless remarks are made by subordinate officials concerning evening school attendance, I would further suggest that you see that all who have control over your employees read and make themselves familiar with the provisions of the law governing the employment of illiterate minors.

An illiterate minor, who may be laid off from work temporarily, can not be employed again legally unless he can show that he has attended evening school regularly during the period of his absence from work or that he has been regularly excused by the school authorities for such non-attendance.

As to the statement, sometimes made, that an employer changes his name at pleasure or convenience, it is perhaps unnecessary to remark that the name of an employer must appear on the books of his employer and must be the name of the minor as it first appears on the educational certificate of such minor.

The evening elementary schools will open on Tuesday, Oct. 17, 1916, at 7:15 o'clock. The sessions will be held on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Friendly and cordial co-operation between employers and the school department is most desirable and is really essential if the evening elementary schools are to do their work effectively and in accordance with legal requirements.

I shall regard it as a favor if you will acknowledge the receipt of this communication.

Very truly yours,

Hugh J. Molloy.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. Nell Clark, 55 Commonwealth avenue, South Lowell, in honor of Miss Mildred Palmer, last evening, when about 40 of her friends gathered and showered her with many useful gifts, including cut glass, china and linen. There were piano selections by Miss Alice Osterman and Miss Bertha Parsons. Refreshments were served by the hostess and the party broke up at a seasonable hour after wishing Miss Palmer much happiness.

The first monthly coffee party of the season was held at the Grace Universalist church last evening. An excellent supper was served, with Mrs. Geo. W. Randall in charge of the dining room, assisted by a corps of waitresses. The matrons were Mrs. F. M. Jazelle and Mrs. James Joyce. Following the supper there was a splendid stereopticon lecture by the pastor, Rev. Herbert E. Benton, who told of many of the quaint out-of-the-way nooks and corners of old England. A feature of special interest in the evening's program was the throwing on the stereopticon screen of a number of former pastors and old parishioners of the church.

Mrs. Magras went as far as St. Jean and later returned to St. Albans, where she was informed if she could get a telegram from her family physician to the effect that her children were not suffering from infantile paralysis, she would be allowed to continue on her journey. The woman telephoned to Lowell, but much to her sorrow she was informed that her family physician was away on his vacation. The woman and her children were then placed aboard a Lowell bound train and sent back to this city.

BOSTON FIELD NOT BIG ENOUGH TO MEET WORLD'S SERIES DEMANDS

SCENE AT BIG GAME ON BRAVES FIELD—MANAGER CARRIGAN OF THE RED SOX

Manager Bill Carrigan, enthusiasm over the world's series ran riot throughout the Hub. Announcement by the Red Sox authorities that every one of the 27,000 seats available for reservation at Braves' field had been covered by applications was evidence of the popularity of the Sox and the series. The demand for reserved tickets was so strenuous that many thousands of dollars had to be returned by the American League club through inability to fill orders. The "Royal Rooters" are once more on the job, and will be at Braves' field as well as at Boston field. John McKillop, leader of these ardent enthusiasts, who have rooted the Sox to two world's championships, reported that President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club had promised an adequate supply of tickets for the Boston party which will follow the fortunes of the Sox throughout the series.

Because of the greater seating capacity of the Braves' National league park in Boston, the world's series games between the Red Sox and the Brooklyn Nationals will be played there instead of in Fenway park, the home grounds of the Red Sox, led by

Cook tells me a good way to insure fast colors in washing, add a tablespoonful of turpentine to a pail of water; dip the article into the solution and dry before washing.

To whiten clothes, add a tablespoonful of turpentine to each boiler of clothes. A griddle cake turner is a great help to remove cookies and doughnuts after cutting from the pastry board; the blade is so wide there is no danger of their losing their shape. After mixing a cake carefully beat for five minutes before turning into pan and then let it stand from three to five minutes before putting into oven; this makes a much finer grained cake.

If wine is spilt on the tablecloth cover with salt at once and let it stand for a few minutes, then rinse in cold water.

To wash earwax which are badly stained, half fill with hot soap suds and add a teaspoon of washing soda. Put in some newspapers torn in small pieces. Let stand for several hours and shake occasionally. When they look clear, empty and rinse in hot water.

Before putting a roast in the fire chest cover with paraffin paper. This keeps the meat moist and juicy to the end.

Cook says lettuce can be kept fresh in this manner: Cut leaves from stalks, wash and shake lightly; then lay loosely in deep pan, putting another pan over it to fit closely, but do not crush leaves, put in cool place, it will keep crisp for 48 hours. You can use part of it and cover the rest up again.

When the stove is barely warm rub it briskly with a cloth moistened with kerosene; grease spots, dirt and rust spots will disappear as if by magic and your stove will have a very neat black appearance with very little labor.

If there is a crack in the stove or a small hole in a tunnel it can be closed with a cement made of sifted wood ashes and salt in the proportions of one-fourth as much salt as ashes, mixed to a paste with very little cold water. It should be mixed much stiffer at first than needed to use, as in working it, and as the salt dissolves, it tends to soften and becomes more liquid. It will harden in a short time and is very durable.

Cook gives these rhubarb pie recipes: Mince rhubarb pie—One cup of rhubarb, after chopping fine, one-half cup of sugar and half a cup of best molasses, one-half a cup of water, one-half a cup of raisins chopped, one and one-half crackers rolled, 1 egg, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon clove, a little nutmeg and little salt and one tablespoon butter. Bake with two crusts. This makes two pies.

Black Lemon Pie—One cup rhubarb sauce, 3-4 cup sugar, yolks of two eggs, 2 tablespoons of sweet cream. Flavor with lemon extract, bake in one crust and frost with whites of two eggs and 2 tablespoons of sugar.

Rhubarb and Raisin Pie—Two cups of rhubarb and 1 cup of raisins, chopped together quite fine, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, a little salt and bits of butter. Bake in two crusts. Delicious Rhubarb Pie—Line a deep pie plate with crust and cut fine enough rhubarb to fill the plate, and put it in a saucepan. Mix a half tablespoon of corn starch with a little cold water and stir into one-half a cup of boiling water, pour over rhubarb, add a small handful of seedless raisins and 1 and one-half cups sugar. Beat all together but do not boil. Bake with two crusts.

Cook says this is a fine recipe for salad dressing. Have never used any other since making this one. It does not need any cooking. One can sweeten condensed milk, 2 eggs, cup of vinegar, 2 level teaspoons ground mustard, 2 level teaspoons salt. Beat eggs, add mustard, vinegar and salt, then add condensed milk. Beat a few moments and in two hours or less it will come clear and healthy again. For best trial free, write to Dept. 9-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

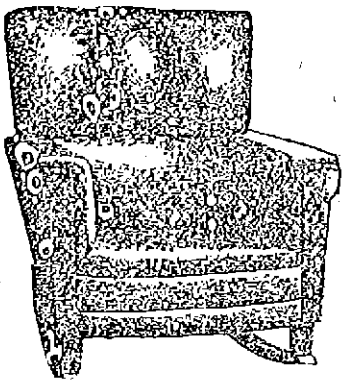

Easy Way to Get Rid of Itching

Don't worry any more about that itching skin-trouble. Just get a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap at any drug store. With the Resinol Soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the Resinol Ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again. For best trial free, write to Dept. 9-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

fruits or rhubarb; cut very light stale bread or sponge cake in half-inch slices and line a mold. Fill the centre with the sauce and cubed bread or cake. Put slices over the top. Cover, with a weight on cover. Set in ice chest and pour out and garnish with whipped cream.

Again fill with alternate layers of bread buttered, and stewed fruits. Pack in ice and salt two or three hours. Serve with soft custard.

Again use thin slices of buttered toast and raw, tart cherries pitted and strewn with sugar. Bake half an hour. Serve with cream.

For fruit custard cover bottom of pudding dish with sliced or quartered peaches. Dust them with powdered sugar and shredded cocoanut. Alternate layers and cover all with boiled custard. This is excellent served with whipped cream.

Cook says never allow pots and pans or dishes, either, to lie around the kitchen over night or even for several hours unwashed. Nothing attracts roaches and ants more than scraps, nor is it good for the pots and pans to stand and let the dirt harden.

The longer pots and pans stay dirty the harder it is to clean them, so it pays in the end to put them under running water as soon as they are emptied and removed from the fire.

Bowls or pans which have held milk, eggs or flour should be rinsed out in cold water, because hot water would cook the remains and make them cling to the receptacle.

The boiler in which cereal cooks is always messy to clean, but a little boiling water poured in and allowed to stand will help wonderfully to remove the sticky scraps.

A burnt pan should be washed out with boiling water and soda, and be allowed to boil up for a while on the fire before being rinsed.

Cook gives these delicious summer salads which she says are easily prepared: Vegetable salad—one cup of chopped celery leaves, one small chili pepper, one-half a cup of English walnuts, chopped. Serve one tablespoon on each dish of sliced tomato, with mayonnaise to finish.

Another vegetable salad—boil in salted water, a mixture of string beans, peas, cauliflower, potatoes, asparagus, tips of young beets and artichoke hearts. When done strain and cool, add a few lettuce hearts, the chopped white of a hard-boiled egg and mashed yolk of a hard-boiled egg. Mix well and over all pour mayonnaise.

Smooth yolks and cream to a paste, add other ingredients and set on ice to thoroughly chill. Fill centers of tomatoes. Chop whites of eggs and drop on top. Fill centers of tomatoes. Chop whites of eggs and drop on top. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Enough for six.

Tomato salad—Parse six smooth ripe tomatoes, scoop out centers, with which chop fine 1 large cucumber. Season with salt and pepper, fill tomato shells with mixture and put one spoon of any good salad dressing on top.

ALBERT J. ROPER FREE GOES BACK TO MOTHER

Albert J. Roper, charged with the murder of his father, Albert Roper, the Tewksbury florist, is today a free man having been acquitted yesterday afternoon by a jury of 12 men who had patiently listened to the evidence that occupied more than two weeks. Albert Roper was in Lowell last night on his way home from Boston, and to a friend he said: "It certainly seems good to be free again and I will enjoy the pure country air in Tewksbury. Roper's face and general appearance showed the strain of the terrible ordeal through which he has passed.

The jury that had been trying the young man for more than a fortnight in the Middlesex superior court at East Cambridge needed just four hours of deliberation and luncheon to reach the verdict of not guilty which Foreman Albert C. Ashton pronounced before a crowded court room at 3:45 yesterday afternoon.

Immediately as when a campaigner stops his speech, the crowd of spectators broke into loud hand-clapping, such as seldom marks the announcement of a decision in a murder case, and uniformed court officers rushing to and fro, found difficulty in quelling the demonstration.

Meanwhile, Albert J. Roper, no longer defendant, lowered the hand which the clerk had bade him raise and impatiently awaited discharge, while Judge Stevens leaned forward in his seat and offered to the jurors the thanks of the commonwealth.

Shakes Hands With Jurymen

Once Clerk Ralph Smith had spoken the words which freed the young man, he needed no reminder as to where his gratitude lay. Catching the flap of his black jacket with one hand and buttoning it, he stepped from the cage and walked straight toward the jury box, where he shook heartily the hand of each of his liberators as they passed on their way out. Beyond him stood his counsel, William H. Wilson and Melvin W. Rogers, also using the opportunity to shake hands with the jurors, and at another corner stood Roper's brother, Mark Roper, the only member of his family present, also demanding a shake with each juror.

Then Albert J. Roper was held up, figuratively, by the newspapermen. "I've got nothing to say," he declared positively.

Roper was outwardly calm, but a shaking cigarette in his hand betrayed his emotion. After another thought and a puff, he added: "You can say this: I wouldn't want to go through this again. And I've found out my friends. You can take that for what you want."

"Are you going to the world's series?" asked the writer. Roper smiled and tucked his cigarette. "Oh," spoke up Attorney Wilson. "We've arranged all that. He's going. I mean it."

Roper made no objections, so you may see him there.

Midway Mrs. Mrs. Fox. Three hundred yards away from the little room in which he stood receiving his friends' congratulations, stood Mrs. Jessie Fox of 16 Wait street, Roxbury, waiting for a street car. Mrs. Fox, at whose home Roper boarded for some time, was one of the strong-women in the case and it was the testimony of her little 12-year-old daughter, Dorothy, which went far toward freeing Roper. She was asked what she thought of the verdict.

"Well, it didn't surprise me any," she said. "I knew it was so all along."

Roper soon went back and said good-bye to the jail where he has been staying and took away his clothes. Then he went home to his mother and family in Tewksbury, back to the greenhouses where his father raised carnations of nation-wide fame.

The verdict was a popular one and was one of the few acquittals from murder charges that have come from an all-Boston jury. Alibis have frequently failed in the past, but Roper's was so strong that the jury made short work of freeing him.

Mr. Robert J. Crowley, deputy district attorney and state's representative in the case, said: "I tried the case as I saw my duty, and I am satisfied with the verdict. Let the world look upon Albert J. Roper as an innocent man."

Mother Welcomes Him

last evening, stood with his counsel, Melvin Rogers, in Merrimack square, near Down's drug store and heard the Sun newshoys hollering "Roper acquitted!" Roper was carrying a dress suit case and one of the newshoys insisted upon selling him a paper with the story of his acquittal. Both Roper and Mr. Rogers were awaiting a car to Tewksbury and an hour later the freed prisoner was at home, breathing the pure air sweetened by his father's famous carnations in the greenhouse close by.

There was happiness in the little cottage set among the fields. The mother of the youth who a few hours before had been freed of the charge of murder, was aglow with joy. When her boy, for whose homecoming she had been watching, came in sight down the street, she rushed out to meet him and to greet him as only a mother can greet a long absent son. Roper, accompanied by his brother Mark, whom Major Crowley, the prosecutor, in his closing address at the trial in the East Cambridge court house had singled out as a good, honest and faithful brother, reached home a little after 6 o'clock. The other three brothers and the sister were there, and neighbors were gathered in the little cottage to welcome the homecomer.

Bert Roper came out on the piazza to see the reporter. While he talked his mother came out from time to time, all abeam with joy.

"It's certainly great to be back home again," This he repeated again as he looked about at the scenes he knew before the shadow of the awful charge had taken him away to spend seven long months in a jail cell. "It was great, I tell you when I got home tonight to see the delight of my dear old mother. She was the most pleased woman in the world when I walked in."

"What are your plans, Mr. Roper?" he was asked.

"I shall stay at home for a while and rest. Then I will go back to work in the greenhouses," he said.

BOYS' CLUB CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED LAST NIGHT

The campaign for the raising of a $50,000 fund for the Lowell Boys' Club is on and the members of the various teams, who attended a dinner in the quarters of the club in Dutton street last evening, have already started their work and they will make their first report tomorrow noon when they will all meet at the club for luncheon. The big movement was launched last evening when over 100 of the willing workers gathered in the gymnasium of the club and after partaking of a good dinner and listening to interesting addresses, scrutinized the list that had been prepared by the members of the "Sunshine Brigade" and selected the names of the parties they will interview in an endeavor to get enough money to clear the club of its outstanding debts and also to purchase things which are badly needed on account of the outgrowth of the institution.

The dinner was held at 6 o'clock and present were the members of the executive committee, the various captains and their teams and the members of the "Sunshine Brigade" who take care of all the clerical work. This group is composed of young women under the able direction of Miss Cor Mack, a young woman of wide experience in this particular line of work and under whose direction the clerical end of several fund raising campaigns has been conducted successfully.

At the close of the dinner, Albert D. Miliken, chairman of the executive committee, called to order and after a brief address of welcome he urged the captains of the various teams to do their utmost to have all the members of their teams present at the room-day luncheons which will be held tomorrow afternoon. He introduced as the first speaker, Agent William A. Mitchell of the Massachusetts mill, secretary and treasurer of the club, who spoke interestingly on the work of the organization and what is needed to make it what it should be. In opening Mr. Mitchell said he wanted each man to know why he was present. He said he is interested in the work because he was one of the type of boys such an organization cares for. He told of the debt of the club and said the organization was never in debt until the opportunity came to purchase the club building, which was assessed for $32,000 and which was purchased for $14,000. "We now owe $18,000 on the building," continued Mr. Mitchell and the building has already shown us that it is not large enough to meet the new demands upon it. It, despite the fact that we have already spent $5000 for remodeling it." The speaker then referred to what is needed to make the building suitable for the large number of boys who wish admittance, and he enumerated the following articles: Tools for the carpentry class, chairs for the barbers' class, so that the boys can be taught to cut each other's hair;

WORMS SAP CHILDREN'S HEALTH

Signs of worms are: Disordered stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. Tru's Elixir, the 60 years time-tried Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, will expel the worms and restore the vim and vigor to your child. Good for adults also. Mr. Horace Chenery, of Belmont, Maine, reports that he buys 12 large bottles at a time, 35c, 50c and $1.00 at all dealers. Advice free. Special treatment for tapeworms. Send for book.

eight additional shower baths, bowling alleys, a heating and ventilating system and other things too numerous to mention. Mr. Mitchell also told of plans to raise the building another story in order to increase the good work performed by the boys.

In closing Mr. Mitchell paid a flattering compliment to Capt. Walter R. Jones, the newly appointed superintendent of the club, saying he was the right man in the right place to take care of boys and he said the money raised for the improvement of the building will not be taken in a lump, but in five different payments and the donors will be given an opportunity to see how their money is being spent.

The next speaker was Supt. Edmund Welch of the police department, who endorsed the Boys' club as a great place to keep the boys away from mischief. Hon. Dennis J. Murphy spoke of the good work accomplished by the club since its formation and said there is no doubt in his mind that the club will continue to be of great benefit to the members.

Andrew E. Clement, who has been in charge of all the preliminary work of the fund raising campaign, told of the success of many boys in other cities after frequenting the boys' clubs and referred particularly to a great professor of astronomy in Chicago who made his debut in a boys' club.

Frederick C. Church told the teams how to go about their work and told them not to get discouraged and feel that they are begging or asking anyone a favor, for he said what you will do in raising subscriptions will be for the boys of Lowell and not for yourselves. He told of his success in his preliminary work and how even before the movement is launched he has succeeded in getting several $1000 subscriptions. In closing he said: "You needn't fear to tackle the men and women of Lowell. The public will receive you with a welcome, for business men believe in the Boys' club work."

The last speaker of the evening was Frederick Courtenay Barber of New York, expert in the field of philanthropic finance and organizer and director of campaigns that in four years have raised $14,000,000, and the way to conduct the Lowell campaign. Mr. Barber spoke in part as follows: "The mind of a boy is a wonderful thing," he said, in speaking of the importance of the work. "Almost from the beginning he is eager to grow. He is filled with a restless desire of everything that he sees. The balance between good and evil in a boy's mind is disturbed almost by the flutter of a thought. When you are giving the mind of a street boy the chance to develop along the right line, you are doing one of the most important things that there is to be done. The saddest thing in America is the boy who doesn't know how to play, or doesn't know how to play safely, or who hasn't room to play."

He then gave detailed instructions to the team workers, after which the lists of names were gone over and appointments made.

The work will begin by the teams this afternoon. The first dinner for reports will be held tomorrow at the Dutton street building.

TRADERS NATIONAL BANK CAN'T PAY DIVIDEND

Based on a conversation which he had with Receiver H. G. Murray of the Traders' National bank, Hon. John Jacob Rogers makes the following statement:

"The Traders' National bank closed its doors in October, 1914—just three years ago. The public will recall that Receiver Murray has already returned 50 per cent of the total deposits to depositors. It is the policy of the treasury department to declare no dividend (other than the final dividend) of less than 10 per cent, as the payment of a dividend is an expensive process which for the welfare of the depositors themselves, it is undesirable to multiply. Mr. Murray states positively, therefore, that no additional dividend may be expected until he has in his hands sufficient funds to pay a further 10 per cent. The necessary amount for this purpose is about $100,000. He has on hand today about $100,000, or only one-third of the sum requisite. It will be seen that a declaration of a dividend in the near future is most unlikely. Just when it will come is problematical, and depends on circumstances entirely beyond the control of Mr. Murray. The principal investments of the Traders' bank on which Mr. Murray has not yet realized are three in number, each representing a large paper value. Two of the three are bonds of corporations which are now in the hands of receivers but which, if given time, are likely to rot on a sound footing. As the coupons on one of these two issues, which are being paid regularly, are sufficient to pay all expenses of the receivership so that it is costing the creditors of the bank nothing, Mr. Murray deems it his duty to the depositors to continue the receivership until he is able advantageously to dispose of these two issues of bonds. Just when that time will come, he cannot foresee. The third investment still unrealized is in western lands which are now involved in litigation, but which Mr. Murray hopes are long to convert into money.

"While I am not authorized to give the opinion of Mr. Murray or of the treasury department, I am absolutely confident, from my knowledge of the situation, that the depositors are very likely in course of time to receive a further dividend of at least 10 per cent."

Tonight at sunset the beginning of the observance of the feast of Yom Kippur will be celebrated in all the Jewish homes in this city and in all other cities of the country. Yom Kippur, one of the most important holidays on the Jewish calendar, is a day of fasting and prayer. When three stars appear in the heavens tomorrow the fast will end and there will be a feast in each household.

Yom Kippur is a day of intense mourning, both for the living and in memory of the dead. Those who have sinned against each other ask forgiveness. The synagogues of this city will open at 6 o'clock and many of the Orthodox Jews will remain praying all night and all day tomorrow until after the fast may be broken.

The chauffeur stopped his car not far from the spot where a number of men, said to have been masked, held up Rider's car in an attempt to steal $5000, the payroll for the 300 employees at Rider's cranberry bog.

Guiseppi Russo, an intimate friend of the de Marco girl, the police say, Frank Vossella, the chauffeur and Frank Ladona, the three other prisoners held here were similarly grilled today and admitted they had taken an early morning ride from this city to Hammoncton.

They also admitted they had been at the spot indicated by the de Marco girl.

Twelve Bandits in Party
The de Marco girl and men arrested in this city late last night were traced to the Italian colony here through the license number of an automobile in which 11 men and one woman were seen in the vicinity of the home of the Riders yesterday, shortly before the murder of Henry Rider of Howell, Mich., and the shooting of his brother and two others. Rider and his daughter, Mrs. Elsie Smathers, who yesterday drove the automobile in which they were riding, when attacked after she had been wounded and James N. Nigby, who also was in the Rider car, are at a hospital and physicians today said they would recover.

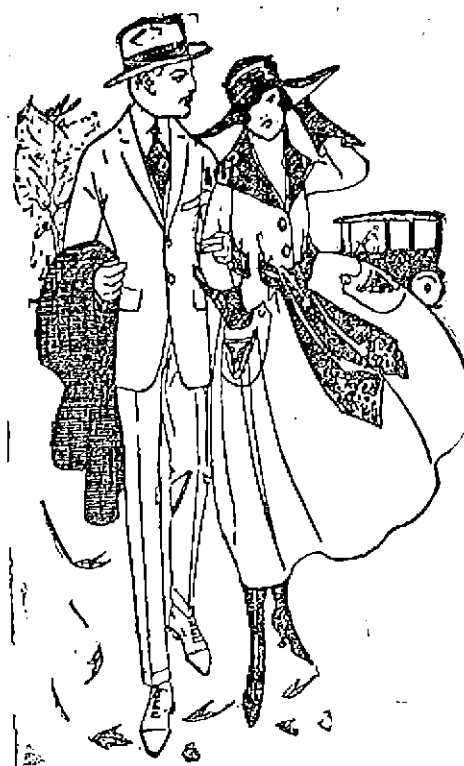

None of the men under arrest was in Rider's employ, as far as the police were able to learn by a hurried investigation.

The sight of 11 men and one girl in an automobile aroused unusual interest among the natives of Aiston, N. J. Some one casually noted that the automobile bore a Pennsylvania license number. Detectives learned the number of the car and the description of the girl, which corresponded with that of the young woman Rider employed on his cranberry bogs.

The girl knew the movements of Mr. Rider on pay days, and was aware of the large amount of money required for the payroll of about 300 cranberry pickers. The police are working on the theory that she planned the shooting with the air of confederates from this city.

All the prisoners have admitted, the police say, that they were at Aiston yesterday.

Mrs. Smathers, a widow of a few weeks and only 26 years old, was a heroine today in the eyes of the police and hospital physicians here. She forgot her pain to speak lightly of her courageous act in driving the automobile away from the bandits as they fired shot after shot in a vain effort to get the bag containing $5000.

"She's the gamiest patient we've had in years," was an admiring comment of a physician. Mrs. Smathers smiled and held her hand up deprecatingly, as if her heroism in saving the money and lives, although twice wounded, was nothing unusual.

Notwithstanding her weakened condition, she drove her father's big touring car at a racing clip for more than ten miles from the scene of the shooting to Hammoncton, where her father's estate is one of the show places.

Two suspects were arrested at the Pennsylvania railroad terminal in Camden, N. J., early today, as they stopped from a train they had boarded at Hammoncton.

ROOT ATTACKS PRESIDENT WILSON'S POLICIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Making his first campaign speech this year, and addressing about 3000 men and women in Carnegie hall, former Senator Ellihu Root last night laid blame for the Mexican situation, the sinking of the Lusitania and the Adamson eight-hour law on the doorstep of the democratic party, asserting that party "is national only in form and profession." To democratic failure to "feel nationally," Mr. Root ascribed the Huerta incident and the president's Mexican policy. To the Mexican policy he ascribed the attitude of Germany toward the United States. To the same cause too he ascribed the conditions that led to the passage of the Adamson bill, declaring "it was a hold-up pure and simple" to be condemned now, so that:

"Never again will any band or organization or class of men attempt to extort money from the American people by threats of injury rather than by the established justice of their cause."

Mr. Root spoke for over an hour and a half to an audience that listened very intently and applauded his points enthusiastically. He was greeted with cheering when introduced by James R. Sheffield, and applauded vigorously when he finished his speech, to be followed by Chauncey M. Depew, who spoke at some length on the history and achievements of the republican party.

SUCCESSES FOR ALLIES ON MACEDONIAN FRONT

While the entente forces holding the centre of the Macedonian front remain inert, both flanks continue vigorously on the aggressive.

Bulgarian Resistance Weakens
Today's reports indicate a weakening of the Bulgarian resistance to the British pressure on the eastern end of the line, beyond Struma. Here the Bulgarians have evacuated the town of Nevolyn, which has been occupied by the British and are reported on the retreat.

British Hold Gatus
Previous offensive movements by the British east of the Struma have not been followed up very vigorously. In the present operation, however, the British forces have withstood numerous Bulgarian counter attacks and the consolidation of all the ground gained is now reported.

Russo-Rumanian Attacks Fall
Sofia again reports the failure of Russian and Rumanian attacks to push back Field Marshal von Mackensen's line in Dobruja. The complete clearing of the southern bank of the Danube of the Rumanians was recently reported the river near Babova also is announced.

British Gain Along Somme
Attacks by the British on the Somme front have gained the ground along the Perthes-Bapaume road, according to London's official statement. Further inroad was made from the German lines northeast of Lamcourt (Aisne).

Artillery Activity by French
Only artillery activity on the French section of the Somme front is reported in today's war office bulletin from Paris.

British Raiders Active
British raiders have been active in both the Lille and the Lens region. Whether these raids on the German line have more than local significance is not apparent. In operations in the Lens and Arras districts, included within the area of activity, was a disclosure from the British trenches.

German Attacks at Verdun
The German army press has resumed active publication at Verdun. It appears that the Paris war office bulletin and the French press, or perhaps the German press, while discussing the Verdun region, the artillery is actively engaged.

Serbian Push on
On the western end of the Macedonian front the Serbian army and their allies, it appears, have been making considerable gains. Their lines well across the Drava and other rivers by south of Belgrade and are now within seven miles of that city, along the line of the village of Mladich, Kraljevo and Grahovo.

To March On Lemberg
Gen. Brusilov is persisting in his efforts to break down Teutonic resistance along the southern sector of the Russian front and via the way to Lemberg. Southeast of Lemberg his assaults have resulted successfully in several instances, according to Petrograd, which reports the capture of positions south of Brzezany which were held against counter attacks.

German Resistance
In Volhynia and northern Galicia the Austro-German armies are obstinately standing against the Russian offensive, which, according to press despatches from German sources, is being pushed by means of attacks more violent than any experienced previously during the war.

Russian Success
In Turkish Armenia, Grand Duke Nicholas has continued successfully his new offensive west and southwest of Trebizond. Petrograd announces. The Turks are being driven back toward the river Karahut, which flows into the Black sea fifty miles west of Trebizond.

KAISER RUSHES TO GALICIA TO ENCOURAGE HIS TROOPS
LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Russian onslaught in Galicia has become so serious that the Kaiser himself has gone there to encourage his troops to beat back the Slav legions. It is officially announced in Berlin that the emperor has gone to visit the troops of General von Linsingen, whose lines are being persistently hammered by the Russian forces which are seeking to capture Lemberg. Petrograd reports details of the Teuton forces both north and south of Lemberg, and only the most heroic efforts, in the opinion of the war experts, can save the Galician capital.

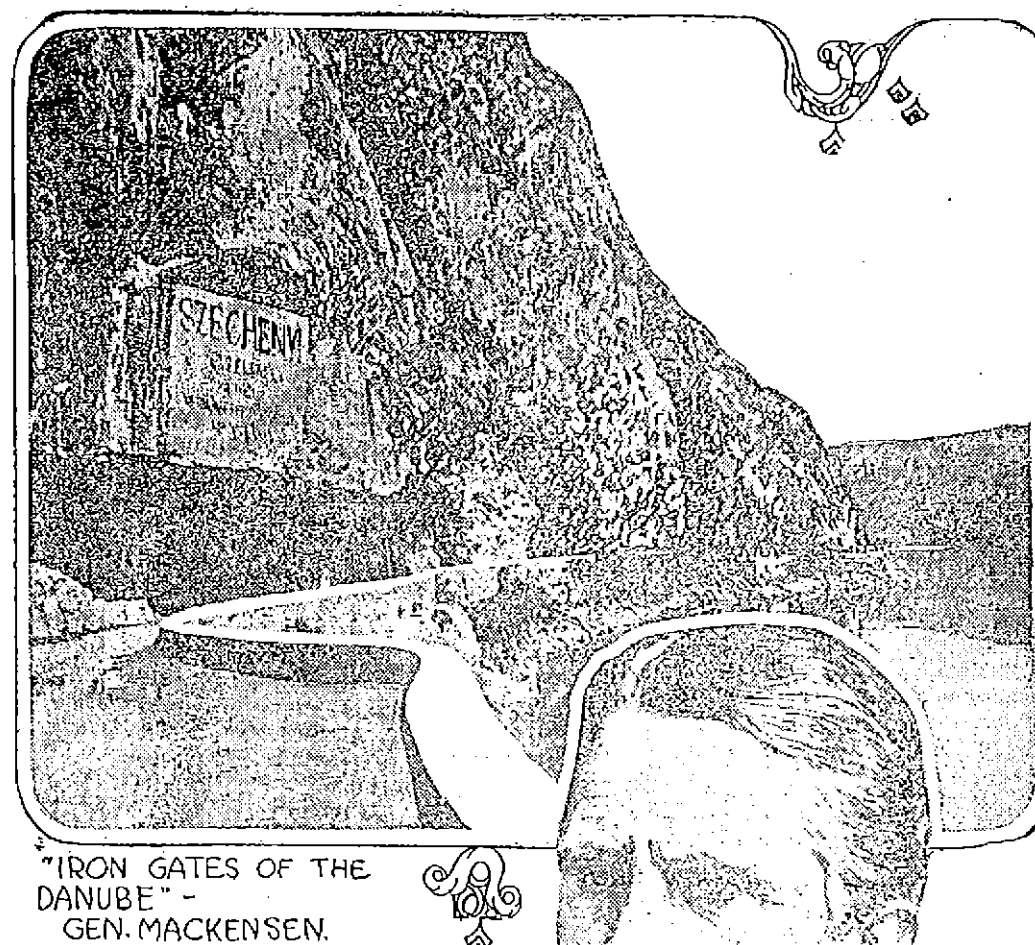

POMONA GRANGE MET 200 MEMBERS PRESENT

A regular meeting of the members of Middlesex North Pomona grange was held today in Odd Fellows hall, Bridge street with about 200 members present, while County Pomona grange were also in attendance as guests. The morning program included a very interesting lecture by D. C. Drew of Boston, district secretary for the Y.M.C.A., who spoke on the young men's work at the war front in Europe and also on what the young men are doing in the country.

In the afternoon the program was under the direction of Essex County Pomona grange and it consisted of an illustrated lecture on Scotland by J. S. Dummer of Rowling, Mass. Scotch ballads were also given. During the dinner which was served by the members of Dracut grange a very enjoyable happy program was given by members of the Essex grange.

The dinner committee consisted of the following: Harry Fox, chairman; Mrs. Harry Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fox, Mrs. Bert Clark, Mrs. Alice Stickney, Mrs. Chester Colburn, Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Charles Hamblott and Mrs. Joseph Varnum.

"IRON GATES OF THE DANUBE"—GEN. MACKENSEN.

Where Austria-Hungary, Rumania and Serbia meet on the Danube is one of the important strategic points in the present warfare. The river there passing through the famous "iron gates" which barred navigation until a channel was opened in 1856. The Danube, which is second only to the Volga among European rivers, makes two sharp turns there, changing its course from northeast to south to southwest. The "iron gates" are controlled by the Rumanians. On the Hungarian side is the town of Orsova; on the Rumanian side is Turnu-Severin. "At Orsova (on the Danube near the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier) they repulsed three enemy attacks," says a Rumanian report. Mackensen, the famous German general, is fighting for the control of the Danube, which means virtually the decision of the fate of a large part of the Balkan peninsula. It is for this purpose that the German drive was undertaken through the Dobruja province of Rumania, the Ekarest-Constantza railroad being the immediate objective. To relieve the pressure the Rumanians crossed the Danube into Bulgaria.

CUNARD FRONCONIA SUNK BY SUBMARINE

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The admiralty announces that the Cunard steamer Franconia, employed for transport duty, was sunk in the Mediterranean Wednesday by an enemy submarine. The steamer had no troops aboard. Twelve men of the crew of 362 are missing.

BOSTON'S "SHOW SHIP"

Franconia inaugurated New Era of Comfort and Luxury in the Passenger Service From Hub Port.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The Franconia was formerly in the Boston service, and was considered the finest vessel sailing from this port.

She was a vessel of 18,150 tons gross and was built in 1910. The Franconia was 625 feet long, 72 feet wide and displaced 25,000 tons. When she was built she was considered one of the finest steamers of the Cunard line. A striking feature of the saloon appointments was the absence of staterooms on the boat deck, which was devoted to promenade room, a library, gymnasium and a lounge and smoking room.

The vessel was nicknamed the "Bath Ship," inasmuch as she had more bathrooms and showers than the Mauretania, this equipment being installed for the benefit of passengers bound for long cruises to the Mediterranean.

The Franconia was launched from the yards of the shipbuilding firm of Swan, Hunter & Wigham Richardson, Liverpool, on the afternoon of July 23, 1910, and made its initial trip from Queenstown to Boston on Wednesday, April 26, 1911.

The great ship had been two years in construction. In the way of passenger accommodation she outclassed all previous vessels in the service of this port.

Her coming to the Hub inaugurated an era in luxurious ocean travel that placed Boston in the front rank of the country's perfection of comfort and pleasure when crossing the seas. The vessel was named for one of the famous show places of New England, the Franconia Notch in the White mountains.

More than four miles of gladders were utilized in the construction of the vessel. The number of men employed on the construction of the ship was more than 3500, and this did not include the decorators, finishers, fitters, etc.

When the new steamship docked in East Boston on her maiden trip to this port she was hailed as a promise of better days for the port of Boston by the leading merchants and professional men of the city at a magnificent dinner given aboard ship by Charles Stewart, local agent for the Cunard line.

Smashing all previous records from Europe to Boston by several hours, the big Cunarder reached this port on the afternoon of Oct. 10, 1911, carrying 2008 passengers. The Franconia made the passage from Daunt's Rock Lightship to Boston Lightship in 6 days 10 hours and 34 minutes.

The previous record was held by the New England of the Dominion line. The Franconia reached here two hours earlier. The record of the New England stood for 12 years.

On Sunday afternoon, July 27, 1913, when the Franconia was in the vicinity of the Titanic's grave, the vessel's engines stopped while wreaths, fashioned by members of the family of William T. Stead, the London editor and author who lost his life in the disaster, were cast on the waters. While prayers were recited by the 150 passengers on board.

Despite the European war the Franconia sailed from this port on Aug. 5, 1914, for Queenstown with more than 600 passengers and with a heavy cargo of grain and general merchandise. She was one of the liners available for transport service, and at the time it was thought that she would be requisitioned into transport service by Great Britain at once.

On Aug. 30, 1914, the immense vessel, her funnels painted a battleship gray and her port holes blanketed, crept into Boston harbor in a heavy fog after a 10-day trip, from Liverpool, bringing 1775 passengers who had escaped from the war zone of Europe.

It was one of the largest lists of passengers ever brought into the port of Boston. Seven warships, five British and two French, halted the liner on the way across.

The ship's gymnasium, lounge, cafe and smoking room had all been turned into dormitories for men who, for the most part, had given up their rooms to women. Women of wealth were glad to secure steerage accommodation.

REPAIRING A ROOM

"We are going to have the guest chamber and the sitting room repaired," exclaimed Majorie all out of breath with the great news, as she dropped into an easy chair in her aunt's boudoir where Marie was at work.

"Give me some ideas at once," she commanded, but smiled as she said it. "Well," graciously rejoined Marie, "at the present moment striped papers predominate, although plain walls are always in good taste and give even more satisfaction when it comes to picture hanging."

"When one does not care for too much pattern, a plain wall is the best. It gives too much latitude in changing the draperies from time to time."

"If walls and hangings are both patterned they must match. Nearly all the newest wall papers are copied in cretonnes and chintzes which are run over the same blocks as the paper to insure an exact reproduction."

"Where stripes are used, they run straight up to the moulding at the junction of wall and ceiling, and if there is no real moulding there, a narrow paper moulding is substituted. Sometimes, as in the case of bedroom walls, where delicate colors are used, these narrow paper borders form panels with the striped paper inside and a solid color without, the moulding running around the frames of doors and windows as well as around the ceiling edges and panels. In this case the paper moulding is very narrow, generally of a floral pattern, which is matched in draperies and bed coverings."

"Instead of a plain wall or panel or

ROOT'S PARTISAN ATTACK

The republicans trained their heaviest piece of campaign artillery on the person and on the record of President Wilson yesterday in Carnegie hall, New York, when they had Elihu Root make a long, deliberate and well-prepared speech against the administration. It was a partisan speech, pure and simple, gotten up for campaign purposes, critical but not constructive, and destined to make the people lose confidence in President Wilson without showing any reason why they should place confidence in Mr. Hughes. Almost at the close the distinguished speaker said: "I have lived a long life, and, please God, will die in the company and faith of the republican party." This is the cue to the speech. It was the political plea of an eminently clever lawyer who was out to put the record of the man he attacked in the worst possible light for political purposes. And he did it at the outset, he did not do a particle better than the rest of the partisan critics who have thrown justice and fairness to the winds and who, during the campaign, are determined to take the opposite side to that taken by the president on every conceivable occasion.

At the outset Mr. Root made the astounding statement that during the past two years it was easy to keep out of the war, thus striving to destroy the president's credit for what the people regard as his greatest achievement. So it was easy to keep out of the war, eh? History will scarcely say so, and today the governments of half a dozen nations will declare otherwise. Mr. Root, the statesman, used to show better judgment than to make such a ridiculous statement, but everything goes in a republican campaign speech. It must remind Mr. Bryan that he made a fool of himself when he got out of the cabinet, fearing that the firmness of the president was bringing on war.

When he came to make direct charges, Mr. Root summed them all under three heads:—the president's policy after the loss of the Lusitania, the argument for preparedness, and the Mexican question. Those who have followed the Hughes speeches have already read it all in different words and it makes rather wearisome reading in the Root review. While he does not say what the president should have done, or what Hughes would do under similar circumstances, he infers that the only way the president could have pleased the republican party was by declaring war on Germany after the first English vessel had been sunk. The republicans apparently assume that diplomacy was useless and that no time was needed for deliberation. The president should have gone to war there and then and we should now be in the trenches with our friends, the allies. How will this please Mr. Hughes' friends, the extreme pro-Germans?

The charge that the president did not favor preparedness is obviously made to take from the president the popularity of his program of preparedness. Yet, despite all that Root can say, President Wilson shall forever be credited with signing the largest appropriation bills for army and navy in the history of the nation. He could not please Root and Co., unless he turned the country into an armed camp, and they would then blame him for something else. The people are beginning to wonder if it is wise to be scared into a change of national policy, and this part of the speech may help rather than hinder the chief executive.

The Mexican question has been discussed ad nauseam, and Mr. Root follows the traditional campaign method. He says nothing new and his reiteration of "it was widely believed and widely charged" shows the flimsy nature of his presentation. Republican politicians can "believe" and "charge" anything against the man they are opposing, and Mr. Root is no exception. He sure, without references to the tariff, so Mr. Root joins the ranks of the foolish ones by declaring: "We must protect ourselves or we shall become the dumping ground of the world and our workmen will beg in the streets." The approved republican way to prevent it is to have a tariff, made by Root, Penrose, Smoot, Crane and Co., and so revive the trusts; but this line of talk fools nobody. Ah, yes indeed! Mr. Root will die in the republican party and he will be a true blue party campaigner as long as he can make speeches.

FARM CO-OPERATION LACKING

At the present time the high cost of living is the topic of conversation on all sides and many heads of families watch the price lists with feelings of dismay. Yet, throughout the whole New England thousands of bushels of apples and pears are rotting because the trees and in some cases the orchards are not properly cared for. It is the same with vegetables. The large grower may be able to sell at a good profit, but great quantities of tomatoes and other foods are rotting in the small gardens because the owners do not find it worth while to dispose of them or do not know how to set about it. With so many families striving to meet their weekly store bills and with so much going to waste there is need for some up-to-date system of scientific co-operation.

A writer to a Boston newspaper tells that last spring she paid two cents each for beets and now she has several bushels that she cannot sell. She tells of a farmer who expended $15 upon a potato patch and had an offer of only $10 for the product. These small growers have not enough for the wholesale markets and there is no adequate system of transportation, storage, etc., that would enable them to sell what rots and does good to nobody.

The progressive nations of the old world have solved this problem by adopting co-operative systems, but such systems are almost wholly unknown here. If we had up-to-date co-operation the small farmer and the market gardener would be able to purchase supplies at the smallest figure, would be able to get the best in machinery and would be able to dispose of their produce to a central agency which would in turn enable the ordinary city dweller to use much that now goes to waste. Now, the great growers of the west are sending us fruits and vegetables and we pay the extra cost of labor, transportation and storage, while one or two miles away are great quantities of fruits and vegetables spoiling for want of a market. Here is a question worth while for some of our public men who are wasting their energies on extraneous things and shouting platitudes from the house tops.

HUGHES STILL INDEFINITE

Many candid admirers of Mr. Hughes have been doctoring their disappointment at his lack of positive policies by saying that he should speak more to the point on the grave questions of the day, as the campaign progressed. Yet, after many weeks he is still talking about the constitution and Americanism and all the splendid things that the ranting demagogue spouts to the great unwashed.

The burden of his plaint is still directed to the eight hour law, which, he claims, was not justified by the conditions. He would have allowed the strike to proceed and let the country suffer the consequences. President Wilson by his timely appeal to congress saved the country from a calamity and a possible revolution. Mr. Hughes still deals in generalities and a reiteration of statements to the effect that he would not have done as President Wilson did on certain issues of national importance. As the president's policy safeguarded the interests of the nation, the inference is that the course Hughes says he would have followed, where he is at all definite, would have been detrimental to the nation. The hindsight orators might have some ground for complaint if President Wilson by ill advised or unwise action had embroiled the country. The republicans are still beating about the bush for a live issue.

HIGHWAY RUFFIANS

No matter how drastic the laws may be made an occasional ruffian will drive his automobile over a victim and then drive off leaving a mangled form on the highway. Two instances have been reported recently, an exceptionally sad one having taken place at Adams last Wednesday. A farmer was out driving in a buggy when he was struck. The horse was so injured that it was afterwards shot and the man was found dying on the road. The driver of the car had made good his escape and had left not a trace behind. In the other instance a woman who was out walking with her son was hit and killed instantly. In this case the driver had a little spark of humanity for he rushed into a store further on and reported the accident before he disappeared. If these wretched cowards escape conviction they cannot escape the pangs of conscience, and they have earned all the sleepless nights and weary days that may come to them. Yet they are of the type that finds relaxation and forgetfulness in the cafe and in the strong cordial. Then they are off to repeat the deed, but retribution comes, though late.

seriously one of those letters to city officials, looking for a wife. It is amazing how many crimes can be traced to such methods of bringing criminal and victim together, whether it be by independent correspondence or through a matrimonial agency. Possibly in extreme cases some honest and well meaning men out in the middle west have sought wives in eastern cities by writing to city officials, but it is safer to look upon all such letters as suspicious until they are clearly proved otherwise. If any woman really thinks of answering such letters, she ought to get in touch with some agency that may discover whether the appeal is genuine or a lure to disgrace or even death.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Special days have lost their appeal through being overdone but there is good reason for a fire prevention day. It is to be hoped accordingly that a great many householders will give it their attention next Monday and ponder the list of "Don'ts" given out by Chief Saunders. These admonitions are based on actual experience, and when the chief tells people not to pile rubbish in cellars, not to keep oil, etc., in dangerous places, not to use kerosene in lighting fires or to place ashes in wooden boxes, he has in mind cases where these things were done and where a fire resulted. If people used their brains and took proper precautions half the fires that break out in homes could be prevented, and unless the general public exercises due care, all the fire departments and apparatus in the world cannot prevent occasional fires. This is the season for all to look over their homes from cellar to attic and take such action as may safeguard them against calamity.

COMPARES HUMAN BODY TO ENGINE

The Greatest Care Must be Exercised in the Running of the Human Engine—Worcester Engineer Talks

The human body is very much like an engine. The fire box may be compared to the stomach, the flues and smoke stack to our lungs, our bowels to the ash or waste pit. The greatest care must be exercised in the running of the human engine. An engineer generally appreciates efficiency either in the human body or the engine he runs.

Mr. F. M. Arnold of 49 Coburn Ave., Worcester, very happily relates how Tanlac put him in running order. To the Tanlac representative he told the following interesting account of his remarkable recovery by the use of Tanlac:

"I have suffered from stomach trouble for over twelve years. There wasn't a symptom of stomach disturbance and distress that I didn't suffer from. My greatest distress of course was after eating, and it continued until my next meal. I began to feel my case was hopeless. Today I'm as good as new."

"I didn't have much appetite because I was in constant fear of what my food would do to me. As soon as I ate I commenced to swell, my ears itchy, water came up in my throat. There were repeated attacks of gas coming up from my stomach, which were disagreeable to me and everyone near me. My bowels were irregular and I felt down and out. My intestines were sore from the distortions of gas."

"Then I came across the Tanlac advertisement. I decided to try just one more remedy."

"I am an engineer and I can only say that Tanlac has done for me what a thorough overhauling does for a good engine. It puts the system in first class running order. Especially the old fuel box, which is your stomach, and my bowels are as regular as clock work, and this after taking only two bottles of Tanlac."

"Do I recommend Tanlac? Well I should say 'yes.' There isn't any possible thing which I can say that is half good enough to tell about Tanlac. It's one remedy that the makers don't tell lies about its virtues. Tanlac has done wonders for me."

Tanlac is now being introduced in Lowell at The Lowell Pharmacy, 62 Merrimack street, where Mr. Brooks, the Tanlac Man, is daily explaining the merits of this wonderful preparation, and can also be obtained in all neighboring cities and towns at the Tanlac stores.

No Wonder He Was Dazed

A gentleman in a Boston restaurant the other day thought he would have a joke with the waiter, and asked him if he had ever seen a sausage roll.

"Yes," replied the waiter; "I have not only seen a sausage roll, but I have seen a biscuit box, a table spoon, a bicycle pump, a penny stamp, a chain link, a camera slide, a garden fence, a sword fish, a spoke shave, a hair flower, a crow slip, a horse fly and a lot of other things."

But when he got to "a fire escape" the gentleman thought it was time he escaped.

As he was going, the waiter went on with:

"A man ran, a cake walk, a mountain climb, and a sky lark, and honey comb."

But by this time the customer was hurrying down Washington street in a dazed condition.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY HOME GAME TOMORROW

NASHUA HIGH TO OPPOSE LOCAL ELEVEN—CAPT. LISTON'S MEN IN GOOD TRIM

The first home game of the season of the Lowell high school football team will be played at Spaulding park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock with Nashua high as visitors. Nashua has been a deadly rival of the local school for years and the up-state boys will bring their most formidable lineup to the city tomorrow. Coach Conway and Capt. Liston are confident of giving followers of the team a chance to do some cheering as nothing but a victory is expected. The showing of the local eleven in Woburn last week was certainly encouraging and Capt. Liston's men will go into the field possessing plenty of confidence. Several work-outs have been held this week under the direction of Coach Conway. Three veterans, Liston, Lynch and Heathcock, will appear in the back field for Lowell, while Manser and Mahoney of last year's freshmen squad are showing up well in the front line. Faculty Manager Joseph Pyne says Coach Conway has the squad in great condition for the game and he feels confident the eleven will have a very successful season.

The freshmen squad engaged in a lively workout yesterday, under the direction of Messrs. Pyne and Campbell. Next week inter-class games will be inaugurated, and this feature will be continued through the season.

CAMBRIDGE LADY FEELS LIKE NEW

Mrs. R. B. Burns of No. 502 Putnam Street is Relating Wonderful Story.

When the stomach, liver and kidneys are overtaxed with the poisonous matter they can't get rid of through proper channels and pass it on through the blood and system, resulting in constiveness, indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, backache, sleeplessness, sluggish mind, nervousness, cold feet, night sweats, etc. Plant Juice the new herbal stomach remedy, acts like a miracle, purifies the blood, washes out the poisonous matter, and corrects diseased conditions of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Daily local people are testifying in no uncertain terms as to the benefits received from Plant Juice in illness of long standing.

Recently Mrs. R. B. Burns, who lived at No. 502 Putnam street, Cambridge, for 20 years and is well-known lady, said:

"I have had stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for the last 25 years. I could not eat anything. My food fermented, causing gas, bloating and heartburn. I also had headaches and dizzy spells and a hard lump in the pit of my stomach most of the time. I could not eat meats or vegetables and lived on toast and sweet milk, and sometimes that pained me. I had rheumatism and my feet and limbs swelled up. I never got any real benefit until I commenced to take Plant Juice, which was recommended to me by a lady friend, who was cured by it. Now I have taken three bottles of it and I can truthfully say that it has worked wonders for me. I do not have any more aches or pains, have a good appetite and enjoy all my meals. I sleep fine now and feel that it has made a new woman of me. I am recommending it to all my friends."

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, The Druggists in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. On Saturday evening he will remain at the store until 10 P. M. to meet those who are unable to call during the day.

Mr. O'Leary, in a statement issued soon afterwards, declared that his purpose in instituting the action was "to find out, first, whether hypnosis, so-called, is libelous, and, second, whether it is inconsistent with Americanism."

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

THE SHOPPING LUNCHEON

What should the tired woman do on a tedious shopping expedition out for her luncheon?

It is an easy enough question in cold weather, but just what answers her purpose in the "good old summer-time." Soup is nutritious and easily digested, but one gets overheated from it, and however plausible the theory that hot tea and soup leave one cooler in the end than other foods, it applies not where there is a chance to change one's clothes.

Chilled soup, however! Just the thing! The nourishment of soup—if honestly made and not stiffened with gelatine—without its warmth and yet not sufficiently cold to interfere with the digestion of the rest of the meal for she is sure to order something else.

If soup is not indulged in, our old friend Boston baked beans will furnish enough cheap protein to provide energy for the rest of the day.

To curries of chicken, eggs or mutton there can be no possible objection, for are they not the most exploited food of India and other hot countries? Furthermore, the bed of boiled rice on which they are inevitably served contribute toward a well balanced ration.

WE keenly appreciate the ready response given to the invitation to attend our opening two weeks ago and the vast patronage our store has received since that date. We know of no better way of expressing this appreciation than by acts. To do so we are ever going to keep before our eyes our high standards and lofty ideals of merchandising, with the result that the public will benefit by our motto: "The best in Men's Furnishings at the lowest prices consistent with reliable merchandise." However, we were determined to give the men of this city a store that would be different in stock, character and conduct from those which they had been patronizing. This was not a simple thing to do, as we fully understood. We did our best and awaited the impression that our completed store would make. Fourteen days have passed since we made our bow and they have been considered as crucial ones by us. They were really the days of all days in our business career, for upon them rested the answer as to whether or not Lambert & Monette's would become a permanent establishment.

When we started writing this we did not intend to mention any particular article in our stock, but we simply cannot refrain from telling you about the snappy Fall Overcoats we are offering at $12, $15, $18, $20 and $22.

FORMER LOCATION OF VOYONS THEATRE

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

On next Tuesday the Mathew Temperance Institute will observe the 125th anniversary of the birth of Fr. Mathew, the great apostle of temperance, who on Sept. 13, 1841, visited Lowell, and while here administered the temperance pledge to 5000 persons. This year the Mathews will observe the day with a banquet. In other years parades have been held, but on account of the general celebration on Columbus day, two days later, the Mathews did not consider the parade feature for their observance. The Mathew Temperance Institute was organized on Oct. 16, 1841, and hence is almost 67 years old. It was incorporated in 1885, and hence has been a chartered organization for over half a century. Lowell's history of Lowell, which was published in 1889, refers to the Mathews as an "Irish Literary society." The literary feature of the organization, however, is only incidental, its main feature being the profession of total abstinence, in honor of Fr. Mathew, who preached total abstinence to the world. Quarter of a century ago the day was observed in Lowell by a grand parade and a rally in the evening in Huntington hall. The parade included the societies affiliated with the archdiocesan temperance union, thereby bringing many out-of-town organizations to Lowell, and its roster was as follows:

Platoon of Police
Chief Marshal, Lawrence Buckley of Billerica
Chief of Staff, William J. Quigley of North Cambridge

Among those who rode in barouches and other vehicles were President Fay, Secretary Mulheady, and officers of the board of government, Rev. Fathers Burke, Gleason and Shaw of St. Patrick's, Superior George of the Boys' school, Fr. O'Brien, Gurnley and O'Donnell of East Cambridge; delegations from the Navarlan Brothers of St. Patrick's parish, and Rev. Fr. McMahon of St. Peter's, the spiritual director of the Mathews. In the evening a grand temperance rally was held in Huntington hall, which was called to order by Edward F. Slattery and presided over by John P. Mahoney. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Fr. Feehan of Fitchburg.

Sixth Regiment Field Day

Quarter of a century ago on Oct. 3, according to the old Sun, Lowell's own regiment, as it was then called, the Sixth, held its annual field day in this city, and the exercises were rather unusual, consisting of a parade, an exhibition of street firing in busy Central street and a sham battle around Fort Hill. Before the event took place some objection was expressed by the newspapers as the public wasn't positive as to the nature of the show that was coming, particularly the business men in Central street. But everything passed off finely, and thousands enjoyed the exciting fun. The regiment was in full force under Col. Parsons of Marlboro, and presented fine appearance. The street firing and sham battle, says the old Sun, were enjoyed by thousands of people and the day's exercises closed with regimental dress parade on the South common.

The parade of the Sixth falling one day before the parade of the temperance societies, called forth the following editorial remarks from the old Sun: "Yesterday this city saw the march of armed men who met the enemy on the field and triumphed; today we shall see an army of a different kind arrayed in line and treading our streets, an army organized to conquer, not a foreign foe, but an internal foe, a foe that wrecks thousands of lives and spreads ruin and misery in a vast number of homes throughout the land. For the peace and happiness of our people, for the benefit of the country and the elevation of mankind, it is to be hoped that this temperance army will yet triumph, that it will succeed in establishing far and wide the principles of total abstinence and in extinguishing forever the vice of intemperance that carries so many irreparable evils in its train."

Relative to the parade of the Sixth the Sun said, editorially: "The presence of the Sixth regiment in the streets of Lowell, yesterday, recalls its bravery in war times, its glory in having given the first martyrs to the Union cause, and its readiness to the end of duty. The fact that Ladd and Whitney who fell in the march through Baltimore, were Lowell men and that two companies of the regiment are located in this city is an additional tie to connect the regiment with Lowell and her people. It is gratifying to know that no longer are the armies needed in this country, that on all sides peace and harmony prevail, and that every citizen can be relied upon to do his part in defending the country should danger ever threaten it again."

Quarter of a century has brought about wonderful changes from the conditions under which these last few lines were written.

Back from Europe

It is just quarter of a century ago that the late Rev. Michael O'Brien of St. Patrick's church and Rev. William O'Brien, then pastor of St. Michael's church, returned from an extended tour of Ireland, and were each tendered receptions upon their homecoming by the parishioners of their respective churches. The reception to

Rev. William O'Brien was held in St. Michael's church, where a beautifully decorated temporary platform was erected in the sanctuary. The old Sun's account of the exercises, in part, was as follows:

Seated on the platform were Rev. William O'Brien, Rev. Michael O'Brien of St. Patrick's, Rev. William M. O'Brien of Winchester, Revs. Frs. Gleason, Burke, Melton, Ough and McManus, Rev. Fr. Crow of Concord; Rev. Fr. McCall of Somerville, Rev. Fr. Walsh of Winchester, Revs. Frs. Scannell and Hilary. On the platform also were William F. Courtney, John McCluskey and Misses Maggie McCluskey, Mamie Joyce and Katie McDonough. After a song of welcome by the choir, Mr. Courtney in an eloquent address bade the pastor a cordial welcome. John McCluskey read an address for the Holy Name society; Miss Maggie McCluskey presented a well written address on beautiful style. The improvements cost

half of the Sacred Heart sodality, while Miss Mamie Joyce followed, representing the Children of Mary. Little Katie McDonough, a mere tot, surprised the audience by the excellent manner in which she delivered an address from the school children. After the addresses the choir sang "Home, Sweet Home." Mr. T. F. Melton sustaining the solos, the whole audience joining in the chorus. When Fr. O'Brien arose to speak he was greeted by an ovation that lasted several minutes. He expressed his thanks and reviewed his trip abroad. Rev. Michael O'Brien spoke in humorous vein and the affair concluded with the singing of "Ave Maria" by the choir. A pleasant surprise to the pastor on his return was the condition in which he found his residence. During his absence it had been entirely remodeled, one story being added and all of the rooms renovated and painted in elegant style. The improvements cost over $1700 and have all been paid for by the people of the parish. Rev. Fr. Gilday superintended this work.

Fickle Appetites Respond Readily

THE FULL FLAVOR of toasted corn was but partly developed in old-style corn flakes. To fully develop this flavor in a new flake was the task of the makers of NEW POST TOASTIES.

The first discovery was that the old-style corn flakes, tissue-like in their thinness, were hopeless for the purpose. A more substantial flake was necessary. And so, in the new product, you get real substance; not a spoonful of mush.

The next step was to revolutionize the toasting process by the use of wonderful rotary ovens revolving in quick, intense heat.

In consequence, the general public, quick to recognize improvement—appreciative of increased quality and better flavor, at once put NEW POST TOASTIES in the first rank.

The grocer can tell you that his trade is increasing tremendously. Your first package will show why.

BRAVES DEFEAT PHILLIES IN FINAL GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—In the final engagement of the year, Boston downed the Phillies, 4 to 1.

It was a game of a game, for everybody except Nehf, who held the Phillies to one run. The losers had 11 hits, but couldn't use them to advantage.

The Phillies used a St. Petersburg line-up. With a reckless disregard for his life, Paskert went to short. Burns was in center and Oscar Duguey, also known as "Ludus" legs, was at second.

Cuckoo Fortune made a great show of it until the fourth, when Boston scored two runs. Maranville walked and Wilhelm singled. Magee and Smith singled in order, forcing in Maranville. Wilhelm counted while Paskert was throwing out Connelly. Then Cuckoo stopped the sport.

Strongman Adams bled with one down in the fifth, and after Fortune fanned, Paskert and Byrne released singles, admitting the Hercules. Singles by Magee and Connelly in collision with Egans' Zeppelin sacrifice, put the eminent Sherwood over in the sixth.

One out in the eighth, Burns and Weiser plunked one-baggers. Billy Maharg, pilot of Bill Kilmer's racer, had a uniform on and halted for Good.

MANAGER CARRIGAN OF BOSTON SAYS HIS TEAM WILL WIN WORLD'S SERIES EASILY

Braves field, Boston, is known in Lexington as the "Home of Big Things." In Lowell the Rollaway is "Our Home of Big Things." This popular ball has been the scene of many of Lowell's best athletic events and starting tomorrow another big feature will hold forth. It will be an accurate and detailed reproduction of the world's series ball games. This is made possible by the installation there of the latest and most improved electrical score board, which will give each and every play of the big baseball classic just as it occurs on the diamond. When "Dutch" Leonard, who the wise ones say will pitch the first game, leaves his first ball over the platter you can see the ball travel up to the plate. You can see the Brooklyn lead off man, smash it, or smash at it, just as it happens. You can then see every other ball thrown during the game. See what becomes of these balls. See the runners on the bases, see them score or be thrown out in attempting to score. In fact you can witness an exact and perfect reproduction of the entire game. All this can be seen for the price of an ordinary Eastern league game. Tickets are 25 cents, with a few reserve seats for those who wish to secure reservations in advance. The applications coming in indicate that the attendance will be "one of the largest of the season" and it behooves those who want to be in hand when the umpire says "Play ball" to stroll around to the rink on Third street, or telephone 5815 and make provisions for attending. The games will start at 2 o'clock.

Cecil Hosmer, of this city, who was in charge of the electrical score board at the Rollaway last year and the year before is associated with Manager Moore this season, which fact guarantees satisfaction to all.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Preparations for another 12,000 crowd are under way at Braves Field, where part of the games at least of the world's series are to be played. "Boston will make short work of the National league winners for the world's championship," So spoke Manager Bill Carrigan of the pennant victors the other day.

"My men are playing baseball of the highest order and are in better shape now than at this time last year," Carrigan continued. "The pitching staff is going great, as was shown by the manner in which they held down the Detroit as well as the heavy hitting Chicago swatters.

"The loss of Speaker of course will be keenly felt, but Walker, Hooper and Lewis have been playing good ball and hitting well." Boston will win the world's title again. Just put that down in your book."

BROOKLYN REGULARS GET TRYOUT AGAINST GIANTS AVERAGES AND STANDING IN THE CITY LEAGUE

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The champion Robins wound up the National league season here yesterday by defeating New York, 7 to 5. Manager Robinson gave his regulars a workout in the game, but had his recruits filling nearly every position when it ended.

Appleton, who has worked little all season, pitched fine ball throughout, although he was touched for five singles, a triple and a home run in the seventh and eighth. Tesreau and Anderson were hard hit, the latter finishing only part of the ninth. Smith finished the game and did well.

The new champions leave on a special train for Boston today at 1 o'clock. They will be accompanied by several hundred fans to be known as the "Royal Brooklyn Rooters."

HUGHES A FAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Charles Hughes, republican candidate for president, has made a request for a box seat at the first world's series baseball game to be played in Brooklyn. It was learned here yesterday.

The Brooklyn club management has granted the request and a box for the third base was set aside for Hughes and his party.

It is expected that the candidate will throw out the first ball.

Speculators busy

Boston speculators are advertising the sale of tickets for the world series games. They are asking $15 for a single game, demanding $45 as security for the return of the stub for the other two games, which must be returned by the purchaser not later than the morning of the second game Monday.

$5000 VICTORY FOR COX MARE AT LEXINGTON

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 6. Mabel Trask and St. Frisco had another duel yesterday in the 25th renewal of the Transylvania stake at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association meeting here yesterday. Mabel winning in decisive manner, although forced to allow two heats to St. Frisco.

In the second heat, Mabel Trask was pocketed all around the track and could pull out only in the last 16th, finishing third. St. Frisco winning the heat and Donna Clay getting second place.

In the fourth heat, Mabel Trask broke at the three-quarter pole while coming around the field and again finished in third position, St. Frisco winning the heat.

St. Frisco in the second heat equalled the stake record of 2:04 1-2, made by Htowah, in winning the Transylvania in 1911.

All the races furnished had contests yesterday, two of them going to five heats, another to four and the last one, the 2:00 trot, being left unfinished with Brine and M. L. J., dividing the first two heats.

The 2:21 trot called for five heats before Daisy Todd got the decision by taking the last three. Great Governor, who was first in the first two heats, was distanced in the third and Daisy Todd had little competition in the final heat.

Haw II won the 2:09 pace in four heats, the Deputy Sheriff annexing the second heat and furnishing a driving finish in all save the last one.

RED SOX BLANKED BY MYERS IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Oct. 6.—With Myers pitching airtight ball, the reconstructed world champion Red Sox fell before Connie Mack's Athletics at Boutwell park yesterday afternoon, being on the short end of a 3-0 score. The game was played before the largest baseball gathering Worcester has seen in many years. It was a benefit performance to raise funds to provide a monument over the grave of the king of umpires, John H. Gaffney, who is buried in St. John's cemetery in Worcester.

The Sox were minus the services of Rose Carrigan, Harry Hooper, Dugy Lewis, Dick Hoblitzel, Larry Gardner and Everett Scott and also the "big four" fingers, on whom the coming world's series pennant hopes are hung. Connie Mack shut out his regulars with the exception of Stuffy McInnis and Flick, his youthful star third sacker.

IN POLICE COURT PRISONER GOT FURIOUS

After being sentenced to four months in the house of correction by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon, Joseph Costa, who hails from Ludlow, created a wild disturbance in his cell in the Market street building. He yelled so loud that it disturbed the court which was in session, tore his clothes and for a time he was thought he was going insane. Police officers attempted to quiet the prisoner but the more they talked to him the more furious he acted.

Costa has a wife and child in this city who are very sickly. According to the evidence he has neglected them recently and the woman has struggled along the best she could. She claimed that when Costa lived with her he abused her continually. She did not want to put up with his abuse again and the court imposed the sentence. Costa attempted to change his wife's mind in the court room but was unsuccessful. He then started his yelling which even woke up the prisoners who were peacefully slumbering off an extended drunk.

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing a coat valued at $35 from Catherine V. Tapley, of 71 French street, Joseph Graham was ordered to receive $300 surety for his appearance next Tuesday. The complainant told the court that her coat was taken

RELIEVES SERIOUS CASE OF CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin
Corrects Condition That Seemed Hopeless.

After suffering from chronic constipation until she was so run down she was unable to do any kind of work, Miss H. A. Frees, 205 Adams St., Dayton, Ohio, obtained a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and used it with such gratifying results that she continued the treatment and has written to Dr. Caldwell that her condition is again normal, and that she wants to recommend Syrup Pepsin to everyone who suffers with constipation.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, gentle in its action and free from gripping or other pain or discomfort. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, and, while acting gently on the most stubborn case of inactive bowels, is absolutely safe for the tiniest babe, so that it is the ideal family laxative and should be kept on hand in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin costs only fifty cents a bottle and is sold in drug stores everywhere. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow curtain in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

from the front hall of her home. How the defendant entered the house she did not know. The coat was recovered in the second hand store of Henry Levi by Lieut. Martin Maher. Charles Vayo was sentenced to one month in jail for drunkenness and two other men were given suspended sentences to the house of correction.

In the juvenile court Leopold Paradis was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory after being found guilty of assault and battery. Through his attorney, George F. Toye, he appealed.

A TEAR DOWN WEEK

Shade Trees to Be Cleared of All Advertising Matter Fastened Upon Them in Violation of Law

The week of October 9 to 14 inclusive has been set aside by the Massachusetts Forestry association as "Tear-Down" week and accordingly the association has sent a letter to the tree wardens of each city in the state as well as to various organizations such as boards of trade and others to do their utmost in stripping the streets in the cities and along the byways of the advertisements which are nailed thereon, and which is a breach of the law.

Supt. Kernan of the local park department, who is also tree warden for Lowell is in receipt of a communication from the association and to a Sun reporter he said he will do all in his power to enforce the law in regard to the nailing of advertisements on trees.

There is no reason why our public shade trees should be disfigured in this manner and surely our highways would be better off without these obnoxious signs. It would cost but a few dollars in the average town to have someone travel over all the roads and take down these signs and we believe that the tree warden is justified in spending a part of his appropriation in this work.

D. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Vaudeville never looked better to Lowell audiences than it does at the present time, and backing up that statement is the fact that audiences at the D. F. Keith theatre are very large at every performance. This is the only place in town where the varieties are presented, and this present week's assortment of acts is quite the best of the season thus far. In the lead are Will J. Ward and his Five Symphony Piano Girls, giving what is termed the "Rough Road" act. Many of the popular melodies are played on the five pianos and the volume of tone is extraordinary. Ward is a good singer, and his rich brogue adds not a little to the pleasure of his performance. The girls sing and dance, and the leader of the group is specially accomplished. Moving down a notch and we come to "The Neat House," an original comedy by J. C. Nugent, and in which he appears with Miss Julie York. This skit sparkles with witty sayings and although it runs 20 minutes there is never a let-up in the brilliancy. The outcome is as smart as it is unexpected. Jack Donahue, the young man with the perpetual motion feet, ranks as one of the best eccentric dancers we have ever seen. He talks in a humorous vein and altogether furnishes enjoyable entertainment. Miss Jean Berzac and her Petit Circus constitutes another pleasing spot on the bill. Little Berzac had two plump ponies who do some pretty stunts, and in addition she has an undeniable mule. Literally it is that, for five men do their level best to mount the animal and fail to succeed. Fritz and Lucy Bruch, instrumentalists, play a variety of instruments, and Somers and Morse are comedy talkers with a lot of tangled stuff in their work. Gertrude Falls, aerialist, opens the bill with, "The Billion Truth," the 15th chapter of "Gloria's Romance," with Miss Billie Burke featured, is interesting. Phone 25.

Today and tomorrow are the last chances offered the theatregoers of this city to see "Sinners," that remarkable drama which is being presented at the Opera House by the Emerson Players. All the week there has been crowded houses and the demand for seats for the remaining performances indicates complete capacity, and though the play could run for a second week, previous contracts make it impossible.

The Emerson Players are scoring their biggest hit of the season in this brilliant play, which is the story of a young girl who believes that the only way to attain success is through the channel of a big city. She finds things very different though and falls in with a crowd of "sinners" and among them her schoolmate, Hilda Newton. The battle of Mary Horton and Hilda Newton is beautifully told in a series of splendid dramatic and comedy situations. Inez Ragan, Ivan Miller, James Haylen, Gladys McLeod, Rose Merison, James T. Calloway, Gertrude Shirley, Millard Vincent, David Baker, Ernest Kasr, Frank Wright and other members of the company do exceptionally good work in the characters, while a beautiful scenic production is given.

Next week the Emerson Players will present "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which is one of the greatest comedies ever offered on the stage. This play has been secured by special arrangement with Sanger and Jordan, the well known New York play brokers, and with May Robinson, who is using the play as a starring vehicle in Chicago and other big western cities. For two years Miss Robinson has been starring in the play with wonderful success. Rose Merison will be seen in the title role and Inez Ragan, Ivan Miller and all the favorites of the company will be seen in fine characters.

Sunday afternoon and night the Opera House will present another big vaudeville and picture program with five great acts and the latest and best features in pictures. There will be just two performances, the matinee at 2:15 and the evening performance at 7:30, while the prices charged will be 10, 15 and 25 cents.

Of great importance to the vaudeville lovers of this city is the announcement that among the acts secured for Sunday is The Three Scamps, one of the best singing and musical acts in the vaudeville. The Hansfield Sisters and Merfield and Andrews are other big acts. There will be two other headliners, making one of the best and longest programs ever offered in Lowell. Seats are now selling for both performances.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Again today and tomorrow with the powerful actor, Theodore Roberts and the beautiful and clever Anita King be featured in the leading roles of the five-act feature, "Anton the Terrible," a play of dark Russia and deeply laid plots. Also on this program is another five-act feature, "Friday the 13th," by Thomas W. Lawson, with Robert Warwick in the principal role. This is a play of the modern and the results. The laughs on this program are caused by Charlie Chaplin in his latest, "At 1 a. m." Other pictures will also be shown today and tomorrow at the Merrimack Square theatre.

ROYAL THEATRE

Serials are a reliable dish for picture lovers. These two or three-act episodes flashed on the screen from week to week, give us what a declining appetite. The serials today at the Royal theatre are the sixth episodes of both "The Yellow Menace" and "Liberty," two of the most sensational serial features ever booked. In "The Yellow Menace" Mr. Edwin Stevens acting the part of

All Singh stands as the greatest thing about the play. He reminds you of the blood-thirsty villain of old-time melodrama and Diamond Dick novels of the past. As translated to the films, in an up-to-date manner, these stereotypes are very interesting, despite their rather stretched possibilities. The cast surrounding Mr. Stevens is an excellent one, and quite a few well-known players are found on the roster.

"Liberty" tells a tale of the Mexican Insurrections, and deals with the adventures of a young American girl, who is in love with a soldier. Marie Walcamp is genuinely good as "Liberty," bold, dashing and courageous to the limit—some of the stunts she has to pull off are very dangerous, but she does them all with admirable "sang-froid," as we say in Paris. Jack Holt as the soldier hero in love with "Liberty," is also very dashing and also somewhat handsome. Eddie Polo, Universal's strong man, does some big stunts, such as fighting 20 busy Mexicans, throwing the bull and other small scenes of the kind. Regardless of how good an actor he is, his muscles are real, and most of the fight stunts are very much so, for a few of the poor pupes who have to be buffeted around by the strong man, are sometimes seen with real blood spurting from wounds received in the fracas. A special seven-reel show shown besides, the Royal theatre requests your patronage, which is truly deserved. Coming soon, "The Shielding Shadow," a new-Pathe serial.

Morphine, that terrible drug, which has wrecked so many lives and one of the worst curses of mankind, forms the basis of the plot of "The Little Church Around the Corner," the new World release which will be the attraction at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow. This new film is a powerful picturization of the famous play of the same name which brought tears to

STATE INVESTIGATION OF DESTINATIONS OF TROOPS MILK CONTROVERSY ORDERED TO BORDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A difference only as to the length of the contracts to be given by the New York distributors to the farmers existed today when the state opened its investigation of the deadlock which has kept this city on a short supply of milk for several days. One of the big distributors had offered to pay the farmers the increase of one cent a quart which they demanded, but had refused to make this contract for six months, as the dairymen's league insisted. Other leading distributors had not agreed to this concession, but some of the smaller dealers had complied with the demands of the league.

CHANGES IN CARFARE ON THE SUBURBAN LINES

The public service commission has approved a revision of fares and transfer privileges on certain of the interurban routes of the Bay State Street Railway Co., to become effective on October 9. To avoid confusion it would be well for the public to familiarize itself with the changes in this vicinity.

Existing cash, ticket or transfer limits will not be changed. But on certain of the company's lines the unit of fare within these limits becomes 6 cents where it is now 5 cents. Many of the routes are not affected at all.

On routes where changes are to be made, it has become necessary to adopt the following: A special form of transfer to cost 1 cent; a rebate transfer, calling for the payment by the conductor of 1 cent to the passenger properly presenting the same; an extension ride check to cost 1 cent; a 5-cent ticket.

School children may still ride for one-half the regular fare. But in zones where the cash fare becomes 6 cents, a 3-cent scholar's ticket must be collected by the conductor.

Following are the changes to be made in this vicinity:

On the Dracut Center-Medford, via Billerica Center route, the through fare will be as follows: From Winthrop square, Medford, to Woburn square, 6 cents; from Woburn square to Burlington-Billerica line, 6 cents; from Burlington-Billerica line to Billerica Center, 6 cents; from Billerica Center to Chelmsford-Billerica line, 6 cents; from Chelmsford-Billerica line to Merrimack square, 5 cents; from Merrimack square to Dracut Center, 6 cents.

On trips to Medford, passengers boarding between Chelmsford-Billerica line and High street pay a 5-cent fare. If they desire to ride beyond High street locally in the town of Billerica they should purchase at time of paying fare a 1-cent extension ride check. This will be collected at High street.

There will be no change in transfer privileges.

On the Tyngsboro-Dracut route, the through fare will be as follows: From Merrimack square to Vesper Country club, 5 cents; from Vesper Country club to end of line, Tyngsboro, 5 cents.
